Air Victims' Identity Is Being Made

Relatives And FBI Observe Bodies Of 34 In Gymnasium

BOLIVIA, N.C. (AP) — Three rows of shrouded bodies, victims of 1960's first airliner crash, lay in the Southport High School gymnasium today awaiting identification by relatives and an FBI fingerprint team.

Thirty-four persons were aboard the National Airlines DC6B which apparently disintegrated in the air and cast wreckage and bodies over a 20-acre area early Wednesday. None survived.

Darkness and foul weather delayed the search for the remaining two victims overnight.

C. Lester Trotter, an assistant director of the FBI, came here from Washington with a 4-man team to help identify the 29 passengers and 5 crew members on the plane.

Relatives also began arriving to identify and claim their dead.

The plane "apparently disintegreated in the air from an unknown cause," said John L. Morris, a National Airlines vice president. "The plane was in good order and was in the hands of a veteran crew. There was nothing from the pilot prior to the crash that would indicate any malfunction."

However, the altimeter in the wreckage of the cockpit showed an elevation of 1,500 feet. And instruments indicated the right wing may have been down as if the plane was banking.

It appeared that the crew and passengers may have known the plane was in difficulty. A National Airlines spokesman said, "judging from the fact that some of the victims had on life jackets, it can be presumed that the captain had informed the passengers of an emergency situation and was trying to make an emergency landing."

Four bodies wore vest-type lift jackets and several victims were strapped to their seats with safety belts.

There also was an indication that the pilot might have been seeking a refuge in the murky, rainy night.

AT MURDER TRIAL. There was practically no show of emotion on the part of either Dr. Bernard Finch or Carol Tregoff during the testimony Wednesday morning of Marie Anne Lindstrom, the maid in the Finch household, who is the state's star witness. The two defendants on trial for Mrs. Finch's murder, are shown here with Atty. Rexford Eagan (center) seated at the counsel table. (UPI Telephoto)

Civil Rights Democrats' Early Aim

Response In House Heard As Rayburn Gives 'Go' Signal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic leaders worked today, against some handicaps, to get the party-splitting civil rights issue out of Congress early in this election year by passing a middle-of-the-road bill.

There was immediate response in the House to the broad hint Speaker Sam Rayburn (D-Tex) gave civil rights advocates Wednesday to get moving. Within a few hours, another 16 members added their names to a petition to pry a pending measure loose from the Southern-led House Rules Committee. The petition had been hanging over from last year's session.

Members promoting the petition said the number of signatures had reached about 140. They claimed sufficient support to get the full 219 names needed. Several Southerners said they had no reason to doubt this.

There were broad hints, however, that if the petition appeared certain to succeed, the Rules Committee would beat a strategic retreat and send the bill to the House under conditions as favorable as possible to the Southerners.

In the Senate, meanwhile, Chairman Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (D-Mo) said the Rules Committee will hold hearings within a month on legislation to provide for appointment of federal voting registrars.

The Civil Rights Commission proposed such legislation last year to prevent discrimination by state voting officials against Negroes and other minority groups. Southern opponents consider the proposal unconstitutional, however, and the administration reportedly is not planning to support its enactment.

Rayburn said the House can get action on civil rights, if it wants it, in about two weeks, indicating a decision by the party leadership to let the fight open there. The major delays, however, were expected in the Senate, although Democratic Leader Lyndon B.

Ike Voices Gratitude In Steel Peace

No Nation To Risk War Against U.S., He Tells Congress

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower predicted today that 1960 will be the most prosperous year in America's history. And he declared the world is entering a vast new technological age which can "make poverty and human misery obsolete."

He also expressed guarded optimism about better relations with the Soviet Union. "We must strive," he said, "to break the calamitous cycle of frustrations and crises which, if unchecked, could spiral into nuclear disaster; the ultimate insanity."

In his annual State of the Union message to Congress, the President personally told a joint session of the House and Senate the nation is armed with enormous defensive military might which must be meticulously maintained until the Soviet Union agrees to effectively safeguarded disarmament.

Eisenhower predicted no nation ever will risk general war against the United States if this might is maintained. He announced spectacular new advances in precision use of this country's Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile.

The President also rejected criticism that the Soviet Union's development of superthrust rocket engines threatens America' in the military missile field. The U. S. program in that field "does not suffer from our present lack of very large rocket engines, which are so necessary in distant space exploration," Eisenhower said.

He added this country is pressing forward with development of engines with tremendous thrust, and said spending for space projects will be practically doubled—to about a billion dollars a year.

In his lengthy address, carried nationwide on television and radio, the President spoke of record prosperity in 1960 and also called for vigorous new efforts to check inflation.

He expressed gratification over settlement earlier this week of the marathon steel dispute, and said both management and labor must make every effort to increase productivity and thus avoid price increases.

To the newly convened Congress sprinkled with presidential hopefuls, Eisenhower—noting he is beginning his last year in office—appealed for harmony in relations

Hancock Real Estate To Be Re-Appraised

Check Of Values To Start In March With Statewide Program

Hancock County commissioners Wednesday set the legislative wheels in motion for a re-appraisal of property in the county.

Commissioners requested participation in a state-wide re-appraisal as authorized by the State Legislature in 1958 after hearing the plan outlined by Edward Haislop, director of assessors and equilization under the supervision of Donald C. Carman, West Virginia state tax commissioner.

The action comes none too soon as the county school system was penalized $20,421 in state aid in 1960 for failure to raise non-utility property assessments up to 50 per cent of the 1958 appraisal conducted by the state tax commissioner.

Re-appraisal of some 19,000 properties in the 88 square miles comprising the county is expected to begin in March by one of six appraisal firms recommended by the state tax commisssioner in Charleston.

Cost of the project that may take 2 years to complete is expected to be over $10,000 as the county must pay no more than 10 per cent of the estimated cost of $178,000.

Haislop pointed out to Commissioners William C. Graham of Chester, Lyle Virden of New Cumberland and Dave N. Thomas of Weirton that the property will be mapped on microfilm as is being done in other counties.

If the county refused to go ahead with the re-appraisal, the tax commissioner would eventually demand that the project be started under the legislature's ruling in 1958.

On a recommendation by Virden seconded by Thomas, a letter was prepared for the state tax commissioner, reading: "Hancock County requests participation in the statewide re-appraisal as authorized by the 1958 state legislature under Senate Bill 34."

Under the plan, property will be re-appraised "uniformly" and the list handed over to Edward L. Suplee, county assessor, who will then complete his assessments.

A Board of Equalization and Review will hear any complaints from

Bonn To Deal Severely With Anti-Semitism

Adenauer Calls For Speedy Passage Of Law For Penalties

BONN, Germany (AP) — The West German government launched a double-barreled campaign Wednesday night to stamp out anti-Semitic demonstrations by swift court action against hatemongers and stiffer sentences.

Chancellor Konrad Adenauer and his cabinet called for speedy enactment of a law to increase the penalties for "stirring up hatred against groups because of their natural origin." The maximum sentence now is three months in jail; the bill to be submitted to the Bundestag will set that as the minimum.

A special cabinet meeting also agreed unanimously "that cases under investigation should be brought to court as quickly as possible and that the penalties should correspond to the severity of the misdeeds," a communique said.

Two Germans already have been convicted of anti-Semitic acts. Police say two others being held have admitted daubing swastikas and anti-Jewish slogans on the new synagogue in Cologne on Christmas Eve, the incident which launched the present wave of anti-Semitic acts.

The smear campaign—swastikas and slogans abusing Jews — kept up sporadically in scattered sections of the world for the 15th day. Police in all countries affected kept up their hunt for the paintbrush smearers and also sought to determine whether there was any undercover world organization linking them.

A top commentator on Moscow radio said Wednesday the anti-Semitic outbursts in the United States and Britain are about as dangerous as a "slight cold to a healthy person."

Some Jewish leaders have declared that the outbreaks smacked of a revival of Naziism and

Ike Will Visit 4 Countries In South America

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Eisenhower, striving personally to improve Free World understanding, carries his "peace with freedom" campaign to four South American nations late next month.

Warm receptions — perhaps equaling those he received on his December tour of Asia and Africa —seemed assured for him in Brazil, Argentina, Uruguay and Chile, four ardent democracies.

Plans for the 10-day trip, which will begin Feb. 23, were announced Wednesday by the White House. Mrs. Eisenhower, Secretary of State Christian A. Herter and the President's brother, Milton S. Eisenhower, will be among those making the trip in the President's jet airliner.

The White House announcement said the President hopes his trip will "publicly reflect his deep interest in all the countries of the new world, and encourage further development of the inter-American system."

The President will visit Brazil Feb. 23-26, Argentina Feb. 26-29, Chile Feb. 29-March 2 and Uruguay March 2-3.

Khrushchev Will Stop In Burma And India

MOSCOW (AP)— Izvestia indicated today that Premier Nikita Khrushchev will stop in Burma as well as India during his trip to Indonesia next month.

The Soviet government newspaper reported that Khrushchev had been invited to visit by both Prime Minister Nehru and the government of Burma. Although the accounts did not say he accepted, it was assumed that the invitations would not have been extended and publicized unless acceptance had been indicated.

15 Killed, 39 Injured When Train Rams Bus

WARSAW, Poland (AP) — Fifteen persons were killed and 39 injured when a passenger train rammed into a crowded bus Wednesday night at Opele, in southwest Poland.

Officials said the crash occurred at a grade crossing just after an earlier train had passed and a guard had raised the crossing barrier for the bus and several waiting autos. The second train appeared just as the bus reached the tracks.

In Favorite Son Role

Battle Seen For Lausche If He Challenges DiSalle

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — U.S. Sen. Frank J. Lausche faces an uphill battle if he tries to field a slate of delegates to challenge the bid of Gov. Michael V. DiSalle to be Ohio's favorite son at the Democratic national convention next July.

That was the feeling of most political observers today in the wake of the Ohio senator's verbal blast at the attempt of the governor to sew up the state's 64 convention votes for Massachusetts Sen. John F. Kennedy.

Lausche, who jumped on the DiSalle bandwagon in the late going of the 1958 campaign for governor, apparently has resented some of the governor's political maneuvering since. The resentment reached a climax Wednesday when Lausche asserted in Washington:

"There is no sense of democracy connected with a plan where the Democrats of a state having 10 million people have no choice in the selection of their presidential nominee."

DiSalle appeared unruffled and commented:

"Well, I said one of the reasons for our early announcement was to give everybody a chance to get in."

Lausche has just 27 days to attempt to line up delegate candidates and get petitions circulated for them. Candidates for delegate-at-large would be required to file at least 1,000 valid signatures from at least 35 of the 88 Ohio counties.

The Ohio Democratic organization languished during Lausche's five terms as governor. Since DiSalle has been at the Democratic helm, he and his hand-picked state chairman, William L. Coleman, have built a new organization which hardly can be described as enthusiastically pro-Lausche.

Since Lausche obviously cannot expect help from the state organization, observers are wondering where the senator will get the manpower and money to carry out the mechanical functions of getting a delegate slate on the May 3 primary ballot.

That is Lausche's chief problem if he has any serious intention of attempting to buck the DiSalle-Kennedy combine.

Named Wanted In May Primary

Ohio GOP Requests Nixon To Seek Presidential Bid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Republicans request Vice President Richard M. Nixon to seek the GOP presidential nomination this year. That's the message State Republican Chairman Ray C. Bliss carries directly to Nixon today.

The official move to get Nixon's name on the May primary ballot as a presidential candidate in Ohio came Wednesday during the first meeting of the Ohio Republican Central and Executive Committee since last June.

In a news conference, Bliss evaded the question "Is Nixon an avowed candidate?" with the remark that he (Bliss) didn't have the authority to speak for the vice president.

State Auditor James A. Rhodes was voted the committee's presidential second choice on the ballot with Nixon.

Bliss said that Rhodes won out after a "friendly discussion" in which the names of Robert Taft Jr. of Cincinnati and Courtney Burton of Cuyahoga County, chairman of the Republican state finance committee, entered.

Speculation has been that Nixon's official announcement will come late this month with predictions the date may be advanced. Ohio election laws state that a candidate for presidential delegates must file signed consent blanks before his delegate slate may be placed on the Ohio ballot.

The petition deadline is Feb. 3, but they can be circulated before the consent blanks are signed. However, the consent must be filed with the petitions.

Bliss "guessed" that—in light of the withdrawal of New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller from the presidential race—Nixon would be in the race by the time his consent blanks are needed.

Bliss said it would be for the delegation to decide who would be its chairman. Published reports said former U.S. Sen. John W. Bricker would head the 56-member group.

Bliss was noncommittal on his own plans for the coming campaign but conceded, by implication, that Washington Republican circles are urging him to take a top spot in the 1960 national campaign.

"At this time I have no intention of leaving Ohio," Bliss said. "I am willing to be helpful in the national picture as my time will allow."

Police, Guards Quell Pen Riot After 2½ Hours

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Prisoners overpowered two guards and grabbed their keys at the Connecticut State Prison Wednesday night, triggering a riot by more than 400 shouting, stomping inmates.

State Police troopers and prison guards quelled the riot after 2½ hours with tear gas and high-pressure water hoses. A fireman and a prisoner suffered minor injuries.

Warden Mark S. Richmond said about a dozen ringleaders overwhelmed the two guards, locked them in a cell and used their keys to free nearly half the population of the prison.

The warden said prison officials and State Police would investigate to find out "who, when, where and what brought it about."

The outbreak occurred at about 9 p.m., as guards were completing the task of locking the inmates in their cells for the night after a recreation period.

Brian To Run For Recorder

Haberdasher Enters Republican Primary

Richard G. Brian of East Liverpool, former county commissioner, announced today he will be a Republican candidate for county recorder in the May 3 primary election.

Brian served as commissioner from February 1957 to November 1958. He was appointed by a three-member commission in the unexpired term of W. A. Southan, also of East Liverpool, who resigned to take a purchasing agent's position in the administration of former Gov. C. William O'Neill.

Brian resides at 324 Vine St. and has conducted a men's clothing store here for 30 years. He is southern county chairman for the March of Dimes drive, a post he also held in 1959, and is first vice president of the area Cerebreal Palsy Association. A 32nd Degree mason, he is a member of Riddle Masonic Lodge 315 and the Scottish Rite at Steubenville.

He was active in Boy Scout work from 1921 to 1955, serving as an assistant scoutmaster, scoutmaster and institutional representative. He is a member of the First Presbyterian Church, which he serves as an elder, and also is president of the Men's Fellowship Sunday School class.

For many years, Brian arranged transportation in private cars for

3 Of Family Die In Blaze, But 14 Escape

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Three members of a family burned to death in a fire that destroyed their two-family dwelling here early today. Fourteen other persons escaped.

Firemen identified the dead as David Bruce, 35; his wife, Mary, 45, and their son, Donald, 7.

Two other sons, David, 11, and Robert, 3, escaped after being awakened by a roomer in the Bruce apartment, Anthony Campain, 34, who was awakened by an unidentified neighbor pounding on the door.

Others escaping were Mr. and Mrs. William Agee and their six children ranging in age from 10 months to 12 years, who occupied the other side of the duplex, and Agee's brother, Thomas, his wife and two children, who were visiting at the home.

Driven back by flames when he attempted to go upstairs, Campain ran outside and yelled a warning to the Bruce family, who were sleeping on the second floor.

The two Agee couples had just finished playing cards when they heard Campain's yelling and smelled smoke. They called the fire department and then led their eight children to safety.

The charred bodies of the victims were found in two upstairs bedrooms. Cause of the fire was not determined.

Ohio GOP Requests Nixon To Seek Presidential Bid

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio Republicans request Vice President Richard M. Nixon to seek the GOP presidential nomination this year. That's the message State Republican Chairman Ray C. Bliss carries directly to Nixon today.

The official move to get Nixon's name on the May primary ballot as a presidential candidate in Ohio came Wednesday during the first meeting of the Ohio Republican Central and Executive Committee since last June.

In a news conference, Bliss evaded the question "Is Nixon an avowed candidate?" with the remark that he (Bliss) didn't have the authority to speak for the vice president.

State Auditor James A. Rhodes was voted the committee's presidential second choice on the ballot with Nixon.

Bliss said that Rhodes won out after a "friendly discussion" in which the names of Robert Taft Jr. of Cincinnati and Courtney Burton of Cuyahoga County, chairman of the Republican state finance committee, entered.

Speculation has been that Nixon's official announcement will come late this month with predictions the date may be advanced. Ohio election laws state that a candidate for presidential delegates must file signed consent blanks before his delegate slate may be placed on the Ohio ballot.

The petition deadline is Feb. 3, but they can be circulated before the consent blanks are signed. However, the consent must be filed with the petitions.

Bliss "guessed" that—in light of the withdrawal of New York's Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller from the presidential race—Nixon would be in the race by the time his consent blanks are needed.

Bliss said it would be for the delegation to decide who would be its chairman. Published reports said former U.S. Sen. John W. Bricker would head the 56-member group.

Bliss was noncommittal on his own plans for the coming campaign but conceded, by implication, that Washington Republican circles are urging him to take a top spot in the 1960 national campaign.

"At this time I have no intention of leaving Ohio," Bliss said. "I am willing to be helpful in the national picture as my time will allow."

Police, Guards Quell Pen Riot After 2½ Hours

WETHERSFIELD, Conn. (AP) — Prisoners overpowered two guards and grabbed their keys at the Connecticut State Prison Wednesday night, triggering a riot by more than 400 shouting, stomping inmates.

State Police troopers and prison guards quelled the riot after 2½ hours with tear gas and high-pressure water hoses. A fireman and a prisoner suffered minor injuries.

Warden Mark S. Richmond said about a dozen ringleaders overwhelmed the two guards, locked them in a cell and used their keys to free nearly half the population of the prison.

The warden said prison officials and State Police would investigate to find out "who, when, where and what brought it about."

The outbreak occurred at about 9 p.m., as guards were completing the task of locking the inmates in their cells for the night after a recreation period.

3 Of Family Die In Blaze, But 14 Escape

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Three members of a family burned to death in a fire that destroyed their two-family dwelling here early today. Fourteen other persons escaped.

Firemen identified the dead as David Bruce, 35; his wife, Mary, 45, and their son, Donald, 7.

Two other sons, David, 11, and Robert, 3, escaped after being awakened by a roomer in the Bruce apartment, Anthony Campain, 34, who was awakened by an unidentified neighbor pounding on the door.

Others escaping were Mr. and Mrs. William Agee and their six children ranging in age from 10 months to 12 years, who occupied the other side of the duplex, and Agee's brother, Thomas, his wife and two children, who were visiting at the home.

Driven back by flames when he attempted to go upstairs, Campain ran outside and yelled a warning to the Bruce family, who were sleeping on the second floor.

David Jr., and Robert climbed out a window onto the front porch roof. With flames licking at his heels, David lowered his brother into Campain's arms and then jumped to the ground, with Campain breaking his fall.

The two Agee couples had just finished playing cards when they heard Campain's yelling and smelled smoke. They called the fire department and then led their eight children to safety.

The charred bodies of the victims were found in two upstairs bedrooms. Cause of the fire was not determined.

Ohio's Bakers Wait Meeting

TOLEDO, Ohio — A public baked goods show, a talk by Ohio's director of agriculture and "back-to-school" sessions for some 400 bakers and baking industry representatives will highlight a four-day convention of the Ohio Bakers Association, beginning here Saturday.

Bread, cake, sweet rolls, cookies and pie will be among 23 types of baked foods on display at the organization's show from 2-5 p.m. Sunday in the Commodore Perry Hotel Patio Room.

Entries will be previewed by convention participants Saturday night and judged the next morning.

Raleigh A. Yaeck of Toledo, association president, said topics at the convention's meetings will cover cake decorating, labeling of bakery products, sales methods, trends in home service, pie baking techniques and other phases of bakery and allied operations.

Robert H. Terhune, Ohio director of agriculture, will be the principal speaker during a presidents' reception and dinner Sunday night. New state officers and the site of the 1961 convention will be chosen Tuesday.

The meeting is the 54th for the association, which was founded in 1906 to help maintain standards of the baking industry and for exchange of ideas in the field.

Lengthy Session Due 15 Judges Of Watershed Court

DEFIANCE, Ohio (AP)—The 15 judges who comprise the Maumee Watershed Conservancy District Court should pack overnight bags when they convene at 10 a. m. Monday, Feb. 8, in the common pleas courtroom here.

Such was the advice of the court's presiding judge, Russell Maxwell of Bryan, as he authorized that notices be sent to the judges setting the Feb. 8 date.

Judge Maxwell asked that the judges arrange their affairs in their home counties so that they may remain in session here more than one day if necessary, he explained.

The session will combine the court's annual meeting and the formal hearing, required by law, on any objections to the district's official plan of improvement.

The call for the court to assemble follows certification by the board of directors of the conservancy district of their action on Dec. 31 when they approved the official plan.

The plan provides for improvements of channels as follows: Tiffin River, estimated to cost $1,321,900; Little Auglaize River, $1,026,100, and Grassy Creek, $571,000.

None of the projects can be put into operation until after the conservancy court gives approval.

Before leaving by train for St. Thomas, Ont., Wednesday, the 17-year-old English girl said she will return here if any dogs turn up fitting the description of Jinty.

The year-old female Alsatian Shepherd escaped from a railroad baggage car in Detroit Dec. 23 as Judy and her mother were traveling from Southampton, England, to St. Thomas.

Judy attracted international attention by hitchhiking from St. Thomas to Detroit to look for the dog.

Detroiters have donated more than $100 to buy Judy a new dog or pay expenses during her search. Three newspapers have offered rewards totaling $250 for return of the dog.

Rep. Simpson Claimed After Brain Surgery

Death came at 8:15 a. m. at the Naval Medical Center at nearby Bethesda, Md., where Simpson underwent brain surgery Dec. 14. The operation was to determine whether Simpson had a brain tumor. The results never were announced.

Shortly before Christmas, Simpson's family reported he was progressing. But shortly after that he took a turn for the worse. On Dec. 28 his condition was described as serious.

Simpson, a member of Congress since 1937, had been regarded for years as one of the leading champions in the House of high tariffs and traditional Republican economic policy.

Dear Santa Congress: Save Us!

The public prints and airways are packed with lists of things Congress will be asked to do in behalf of the American people until the time comes to knock it off for the political conventions in midsummer.

Chances are if you are one of the millions who expect Congress to save you with ministrations of public money your name is on the list.

But millions who do not expect Congress to save them with other people's money are watching something else this year. They think there is a new idea in the making in Washington. They are interested in every jot and tittle of evidence to that effect.

When these people write a Santa Congress letter, they do not ask for more. They ask for less. This is a revolutionary point of view. But in a country that was built on revolutionary points of view, there always should be room for a new idea.

The idea in this instance is that Congress should get back to a concept of government that hasn't been talked about often enough in recent years—the concept that representatives and senators should think and vote in behalf of all their constituents.

In recent years far too many members of Congress have been voting in behalf only of those constituents who were doing the best job of bellyaching and making the loudest threat of reprisals at the polls if their demands were refused.

This has led to government by minority pressure blocs. This always is a threat and certainly nothing new. But it is a menace to the principle of a republic.

IN A REPUBLIC, those who are elected to legislate bear delegated responsibility. It never was intended that they would make up their minds according to spot surveys, telegrams, telephone messages, post cards, or ax-grinding. Perhaps the founding fathers were too hopeful, but they hoped these people would think of themselves as trustees, not as public address systems for screaming minorities back home.

That's one thing, then, Congress could do for voters who do not want any special handouts. It could say No.

The other thing it could do—if it wants to give a push to a revolutionary point of view—is to bear down hard on the thought that the United States should pay for what it already has bought.

This is an oversimplified way to say what money specialists are talking about with fierce intensity, because they know it's the nation's biggest problem and they despair of getting politicians to do something about it in time.

NON-AMERICANS who handle dollars are beginning to bite them, figuratively, to make sure they're real. The United States has spread its dollar commitments around so lavishly that some of the world's money handlers are beginning to wonder about the dollar's long-term value.

If they became uneasy enough to start a run on the assets of the country that has tried to be the world's banker and philanthropist rolled in one, it would be an international monetary disaster. What that could do to Americans shouldn't happen to Frenchmen, who finally have revalued their currency by counting it 100 to 1, thus making the 100-to-1 franc come out at the two-bit level it occupied when many of us were school children.

If Congress can't lay off spending to save the buck, maybe it could lay off to save the buckeroos, though—and here is that same revolutionary thought again.

The buckeroos now are pretty well convinced, if they have thought about it as long as a quarter of an hour, that the built-in weakness of their government is its tendency to piddle itself away by trying to please everybody and thereby bankrupting everybody.

Every observer of the United States has pointed to this danger. In the United States, everybody is supposed to be happy. The recent years has been to spread the fun by handing out other people's money.

THE GIVEAWAY idea has been worn threadbare. The new idea in Washington is to admit it. The trouble is that the idea may die a-borning, despite the tender loving care it has been given by Secretary of the Treasury Anderson, Budget Director Stans and President Eisenhower, himself, who started to be a handout president and only recently has been converted to a holdback president.

Voters need to get behind it.

There could be a bright future in this for a lot of people. It could be the prime talking point of the national election this year, because the Democratic party already is under the thumb of the spenders. Voters should have an alternative.

Or, to sum up in a sentence what some Americans would like to write to Santa Congress in 1960:

"Save us from giveaway artists who will win our gratitude if it takes our last dollar."

Twenty-Six All-Americans

While the pigskins are deflated and the all-American football players are busy signing contracts for professional careers, National Merit Scholarship Corp. is asking for a few minutes of attention.

This is the nonprofit organization established and supported by philanthropists to discover, recognize and encourage young men and women whose academic ability is as outstanding as the football ability of the all-Americans.

The corporation is now making its fourth report, and all is well. Its idea is paying off in future brain power for the United States. More than 80 per cent of the students it has helped to continue their education ranked in the top fourth of their college classes.

Its competition for scholarships has put more than 30,000 students through rigorous tests as finalists. Another 55,000 students have gone through preliminary testing and about half of them have been helped to go to college by other sponsors as the result of their showing in competitive examinations.

Engineering and science, especially mathematics, have been chosen by most scholarship winners. They are working in 389 different colleges and universities. The first 26 Merit Scholarship students to be graduated did outstanding work; they were the first all-American students to prove the value of this significant project.

Its significance lies in the single fact it attempts to do for bona fide students in an organized way what previously had been done in a hit-and-miss way. The National Merit Scholarship Corp. contends that every possessor of an exceptional brain should have at least as good a chance to go to college as the possessors of exceptional ability to play football. It does not say it that way, but that is the import of what it is doing.

The idea is working. If it continues to work, the United States might be justified in not worrying so much about the fact football players draw more praise than students in some parts of the U.S. school system.

For Safety's Sake

Samuel Chertoff's approach to the many problems that go with his duties as judge of the Municipal Court is highly encouraging. Everything to date points to increased efficiency.

The warning of a crackdown against speeders was especially welcome. This isn't the first time a judge in Municipal Court has taken such action, but the start of a new year certainly is a most appropriate period in which to wage a new offensive in the interest of safety.

Various reports, including the recent one by the Lisbon barracks of the Highway Patrol, show that speeding is the No. 1 cause of traffic accidents.

The individual motorist shouldn't look upon the new campaign as a violation of his rights. Rather it should be considered as a protective measure on his behalf. There's nothing in the books for a speeder but legal headaches and possible physical harm.

Anything a court can do to curb fast driving should be appreciated, not resented.

Industry Borough

Nearby Industry has begun functioning as a borough, joining many other communities in Western Pennsylvania which have that form of government. It previously was under a Board of Supervisors.

The move is a step forward. There will be new and pressing problems that go with any such change in operation. But with the problems will come the opportunity for continued advancement in government and expansion in physical property.

Harry H. Davis, the new burgess, and C. R. Dunlap, president of Council, have a well-deserved opportunity to get the borough moving in the proper direction.

We wish them and the people of the subdivision well as they go about the change-over.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Now for the split-level supermarket! A model has been exhibited showing a half-dozen levels, all reached by circular escalator, with shopping done by push-button. The building looks like a combination Frank Lloys Wright art museum, a roller coaster, a chute-the-chutes, a giant eggbeater and a modern multiple-level garage.

Shoppers are carried past groceries, floor by floor, to the top where they make selections by button.

The load is automatically carried to checkout booth and — presto! — delivered to auto area for pickup. This gives grocery-hunting housewife everything but music and floor show with the baloney, frankfurters and canned songs.

It does away with wire wagons. But will shoppers take this lying down? The wagon gives the shopper fortitude and self-confidence as they gather at Armegeddon and battle for the pork chops. It is their top weapon for defense and offense.

They depend on it for ground gaining.

The little woman thinks it establishes her economic status. Loaded up, it places her in the upper brackets. Half full it is still of importance. Only when it transports one jar of pickles and a half-dozen buns does it embarrass her. No snub surpasses that of Mrs. Plunkett wheeling $14.46 worth of grub by Mrs. Printwhistle who is cruising practically empty.

SUPERMARKET of the future also wipes out sharp corners, dangerous alley crossroads, etc. and the hardened housewife may miss the mood of adventure, excitement and combat now possible in all supermarkets.

The danger is that shopping may be made too easy and dull, with even the stirring battles in checkout line eliminated. To some housewives these fights have long been a most popular feature of the food hunt.

'You'd Look Sweet Upon The Seat . . .'

No Bowl Of Roses For Mr. Nixon

By Victor Riesel

That was no bowl of roses for Richard Milhous Nixon. It was a rough tournament between him and California's labor leaders. They didn't want him as grand master of the New Year's Day parade. They demanded that the official invitation be withdrawn. They wanted him to stay East—until he came West permanently.

Victor Riesel

This will not be the year known as "be kind to Nixon year." The New Year's Day incident was the kick-off for the union drive to label the vice president anti-labor. In Washington, the nation's labor policy makers hold him personally responsible for passage of the toughest law since King George's tea tax.

They say there would have been no Landrum-Griffin Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act if not for the skillful political coaching of the vice president.

They want the law amended. They'll start fighting within the next few weeks under Oregon's Wayne Morse's leadership in the Senate.

They believe there would have been no law making them a series of living statistics open to public view in the Labor Department's Disclosure Room if President Eisenhower hadn't gone on the air asking for the passage of the Landrum-Griffin Bill.

THEY BELIEVE that the President hit the TV waves at the specific suggestion of Indiana's Rep. Charles Halleck. They believe that Halleck went to the President on the advice and with the consent of the Senate's president. Then Richard Nixon made certain his chief would not be repudiated by the Congress.

There is no doubt that the "veep" pressured congressmen into voting for the thing labor hated most in 1959. Mr. Nixon breakfasted with two congressional groups on Aug. 11 and 12. They broke buttered rolls in the Capitol those two key mornings before the critical vote on the bill which came in the House on Aug. 13.

There is no evidence to prove that the vice president summoned members of the House of Representatives to the coffee conferences just to pressure them.

But at one of the breakfasts there were 16 representatives, all of whom had told labor leaders they would say "nay" to the proposal.

Mr. Nixon talked of many things but especially of sealing the vote and of the Republican party and the President and the public's attitude on recent exposures.

After he left, the representatives were talked to by Nixon's close friend and political ally, the personable Attorney General William Rogers and by the hard-hitting Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield.

AFTER THAT there was noticeably less wavering in the political wind. The representatives voted for the bill.

Dick Nixon will find himself, therefore, hit hard and often and early. Shortly after Congress opens, the AFL-CIO will hold a legislative conference in Washington.

That will open on the morning of Jan. 11, dedicated to a plague on both houses of Congress and especially the head of the upper one.

Watch this parley. It will be practically a national labor convention. The call to the conference by George Meany and his first lieutenant, William Schnitzler, asked that the unions "send delegations of responsible officials from all geographical areas, in like numbers as their delegate strength at national conventions of the AFL-CIO."

A tip to labor's action on The Hill can be noted in this part of the official notice sent to all national labor presidents. It said: "The political realities mean that the 1960 session of the Congress will be short. It is not expected that the Congress will be meeting after the Fourth of July. That means no time can be lost if the 86th Congress is to enact the program of progressive legislation. . . ."

The labor people will all be aligned against Mr. Nixon—including virtually all the Steel Union leaders. The union leaders practice politics as they bargain—collectively and hard. This is a presidential year, you know.

Democrats' Last Chance

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

This is the Democrats' last chance to throw off President Eisenhower's Indian sign. But they probably won't. He's had it on them for years.

Three times in a row since 1954 the country has watched the extraordinary spectacle of a Republican president dealing with a Democratic-run Congress, a situation made to order for brawls and bruises.

Instead, the Democrats got into few quarrels with Eisenhower, didn't call names, were mostly docile and, particularly last year, moved like sheep under prodding.

This was most remarkable last year when Democrats, as a result of the 1958 elections, outnumbered Republicans in Congress by the greatest majority since early New Deal days.

They complained about Eisenhower's lack of leadership. But they showed scant aggressiveness of their own. Their most consistent quality throughout these years has been a healthy respect for the popular Eisenhower.

It was almost as if he had them hypnotized or they felt it was the better part of political wisdom not to antagonize the voters who seemed highly pleased with Eisenhower, as they showed by electing him twice.

The result last year was a mediocre congressional performance, with Democrats joining with Republicans in shoving under the rug until 1960 legislation which could have been tackled in 1959. Civil rights and aid to education, for example.

There were some practical political reasons for the shoving, of course: This is both a presidential and congressional election year and the closer to election day popular legislation is passed the more apt the voters are to remember.

Still, while there is talk in the new session of Congress about big and bold performances, the rest of the country can calmty maintain a "show me" attitude until talk becomes a reality.

It will probably be Eisenhower who does the punching this year, as he did last, by banging at the Democrats to keep down spending. Arguments about the budget will occupy most of the year.

There will be political entanglements, for sure, since, with the exception of Adlai Stevenson, the only would-be presidential candidates now in sight in both parties are concentrated in the Senate.

Even if the Democrats want to kick over the traces by belittling Eisenhower's presidency, he'll probably still be able to keep them in a trance by playing up the peace theme, supplemented by his journeys in search of it.

The Democrats would be in an awkward spot if they try to play rough with a President who, although nearing 70 and retirement, is working more strenuously than at any time since entering the White House.

It seems a good guess that 1960 will be a busy year but not a rambunctious one, at least in the Democrats' dealings with Eisenhower. Last year he piped and they danced. This year he can be expected to call the tune again.

Progressive Inflation

By David Lawrence

Unions Win, Public Loses In Steel Accord

The die has been cast. The steel settlement means more inflation. It could mean a devaluation of the dollar sometime in the 1960's.

David Lawrence

For years to come the "agreement" just reached under pressure of a variety of forces, some of them political will plague the management of American industry as well as the unions and, because of this very defeat of the public interest, state control of wages and prices may someday spell the end of the voluntary system of negotiation between labor and management.

Another costly strike, such as has just occurred in steel, would surely settle the issue in the direction of state control.

The inside story of what happened in the final hours of the steel negotiations should not come as a surprise. When economic power wielded by two major groups faces government pressure, there is a tendency to abandon extreme demands and accept a "compromise."

THE REAL ISSUE in the steel controversy was not what wages should be increased or what prices should be raised. It revolved around the basic question of whether management should have the right to say how many workers should be allotted to certain duties in a plant—in effect, the right to manage.

The employers didn't lose out entirely on this issue. For there now are vague promises in writing in the new contract that the subject will be studied and some reforms will be instituted on work rules but the so-called "past practices" provisions stayed in the contract unchanged.

On this, the unions won a victory and the American people lost. In the future prices will have to be raised to cover these extra costs of inefficiency and unproductive labor.

For the time being, the companies will not increase prices. They will try to absorb the added costs but the steel companies buy many products from other industries and, if the wage-price spiral continues, it is only a question of time when the steel companies will find it necessary to increase their prices.

This may be months off but it seems inevitable for the future, despite what is being said to the contrary today by the companies.

"We will hold out as long as we can against a price increase," said one steel man, "but we can't tell how long the people from whom we buy will hold the line on prices. If they exercise statesmanship and prudence, maybe they'll benefit by the fight we have made."

THE SETTLEMENT reached does call for a substantial wage increase. It doesn't solve the inflation problem. It doesn't bring the hoped for stability. Other industries now will find themselves compelled to grant wage increases of similar proportions.

In the end, the whole price structure will be affected. The net result over the next five or six years will be a steady diminution in the purchasing power of the dollar.

Could anything have been done to prevent the inflationary settlement of the steel strike?

The politicians say nothing could have been done. They argue that, if the strike were resumed, Congress would have been compelled to enact restrictive legislation, possibly along the lines of compulsory arbitration or its corollary—wage and price control.

This possibility had its influence on both labor and management representatives in the steel conferences. Presumably the fear of what Congress might do prompted the two sides to agree. Basically it was something else—politics.

Thus, today, as the presidential and congressional campaign is about to be fought, it is obvious that labor unions have a considerable strength in Congress because a majority of the candidates depend to a certain extent on the campaign contributions furnished through labor-union efforts.

THE COMPANIES had hoped that the election among the union members, scheduled to take place under the Taft-Hartley Act procedure and based on the "last offer," would at least reveal a considerable opposition to the leadership of David McDonald.

While this might be true in some companies—according to the private polls taken—it wasn't in others. The result was that both sides came to the conclusion that the election ought to be avoided if possible.

The labor leadership, for instance, didn't like the idea of a company-by-company vote in the election, because this might reveal the weaknesses of the present officers of the steel unions in certain areas.

All in all, both sides had logical reasons for coming to an agreement. But the public interest was not served.

Although the steel management did wage a dramatic fight to emphasize the relationship between the wage-price spiral and inflation, this is not something the steel companies could be expected to carry on indefinitely by themselves. They now have, in effect, transferred the responsibility to the public as a whole.

So it must be recorded that the unions have won a victory and the public has lost the first round in the big battle of the 1960's to save the purchasing power of the dollar from being further devalued.

Purely Personal

By Truman Twill

Realizing that people who cling to Christmas decorations after the rest of us have put them away are likely to be called peculiar, I want to be among the first to say I think the sight of a Christmas tree still standing in a living room in mid-January is poignant.

I cannot share the professional politician's view of presidential politics — that the whole thing is a big game played by good-natured people who understand one another. The catch is that I don't understand them, and that leaves me out in the cold with the rest of the boobs.

The trouble with athletic coaches is that they are forced to talk out of both sides of their mouths to hold their jobs. It is this built-in double standard that keeps members of the coaching profession in hot water, though I cannot honestly say I feel sorry for them, win or lose.

The trouble with television — and the thing that has tempted it to commit its embarrassing excesses — is that viewers expect it to come up with brand new thrills. The show that was good enough last year or even last month isn't good enough now. This will be the thing that finally will cool off the novelty of TV as a red-hot sales medium.

As a chronic knocker of what I consider to be a bad climate, it is a pleasure this winter to be able to say, "No complaints."

You will not go far wrong in a national election year if you switch from "Cherchez la femme" to "Cherchez le politique" as the likeliest clue to all puzzles, ranging from settlements of steel strikes to odds and ends of news about baffling speeches.

My favorite story of the week is about the retriever that ran over the top of the water to bring in the ducks the two hunters shot after a long wait with a bottle for comfort. Neither wanted to say anything for fear the other would think he had drunk too much. But on the trip home, the subject came up. "Notice anything funny about the dog?" "Yeah, come to think of it, I did notice something. Only retriever I ever saw that couldn't swim."

Of all quibbles, the one about when decades and centuries begin must be the silliest. People celebrate the beginnings of centuries when the new figure turns up on the calendar — like Jan. 1, 1960. Likewise with decades. I'm already looking forward to New Year's Eve in 1999, when I expect to welcome in the 21st century, starting with Jan. 1, 2000.

Nothing will be done about it, but license plates large enough for full-size cars are incongruously large for small cars and should be miniaturized for the sake of proportion.

I am less disturbed by what children may not pick up in the way of education than in what they are not picking up in the way of manners. Education they can get along without in a pinch, but no one can get along without a modicum of manners — even a whiz kid.

Though it did not strike me with any special force at the time, it has crossed my mind since that I appreciated the New Year's Eve kissing this time more than before and that this must be another sign of encroaching antiquity — this gratitude for perfunctory favors unfeelingly bestowed.

A recent column describing the agony of getting up in the morning seems to have struck sinus sufferers with special force. SSers are people who bear their crosses inside — spiked fast between the eyes — with white-hot nails.

Dear Santa Congress: Save Us!

The public prints and airways are packed with lists of things Congress will be asked to do in behalf of the American people until the time comes to knock it off for the political conventions in midsummer.

Chances are if you are one of the millions who expect Congress to save you with ministrations of public money your name is on the list.

But millions who do not expect Congress to save them with other people's money are watching something else this year. They think there is a new idea in the making in Washington. They are interested in every jot and tittle of evidence to that effect.

When these people write a Santa Congress letter, they do not ask for more. They ask for less. This is a revolutionary point of view. But in a country that was built on revolutionary points of view, there always should be room for a new idea.

The idea in this instance is that Congress should get back to a concept of government that hasn't been talked about often enough in recent years—the concept that representatives and senators should think and vote in behalf of all their constituents.

In recent years far too many members of Congress have been voting in behalf only of those constituents who were doing the best job of bellyaching and making the loudest threat of reprisals at the polls if their demands were refused.

This has led to government by minority pressure blocs. This always is a threat and certainly nothing new. But it is a menace to the principle of a republic.

IN A REPUBLIC, those who are elected to legislate bear delegated responsibility. It never was intended that they would make up their minds according to spot surveys, telegrams, telephone messages, post cards, or ax-grinding. Perhaps the founding fathers were too hopeful, but they hoped these people would think of themselves as trustees, not as public address systems for screaming minorities back home.

That's one thing, then, Congress could do for voters who do not want any special handouts. It could say No.

The other thing it could do—if it wants to give a push to a revolutionary point of view—is to bear down hard on the thought that the United States should pay for what it already has bought.

This is an oversimplified way to say what money specialists are talking about with fierce intensity, because they know it's the nation's biggest problem and they despair of getting politicians to do something about it in time.

NON-AMERICANS who handle dollars are beginning to bite them, figuratively, to make sure they're real. The United States has spread its dollar commitments around so lavishly that some of the world's money handlers are beginning to wonder about the dollar's long-term value.

If they became uneasy enough to start a run on the assets of the country that has tried to be the world's banker and philanthropist rolled in one, it would be an international monetary disaster. What that could do to Americans shouldn't happen to Frenchmen, who finally have revalued their currency by counting it 100 to 1, thus making the 100-to-1 franc come out at the two-bit level it occupied when many of us were school children.

If Congress can't lay off spending to save the buck, maybe it could lay off to save the buckeroos, though—and here is that same revolutionary thought again.

The buckeroos now are pretty well convinced, if they have thought about it as long as a quarter of an hour, that the built-in weakness of their government is its tendency to piddle itself away by trying to please everybody and thereby bankrupting everybody.

Every observer of the United States has pointed to this danger. In the United States, everybody is supposed to be happy. The recent years has been to spread the fun by handing out other people's money.

THE GIVEAWAY idea has been worn threadbare. The new idea in Washington is to admit it. The trouble is that the idea may die a-borning, despite the tender loving care it has been given by Secretary of the Treasury Anderson, Budget Director Stans and President Eisenhower, himself, who started to be a handout president and only recently has been converted to a holdback president.

Voters need to get behind it.

There could be a bright future in this for a lot of people. It could be the prime talking point of the national election this year, because the Democratic party already is under the thumb of the spenders. Voters should have an alternative.

Or, to sum up in a sentence what some Americans would like to write to Santa Congress in 1960:

"Save us from giveaway artists who will win our gratitude if it takes our last dollar."

Twenty-Six All-Americans

While the pigskins are deflated and the all-American football players are busy signing contracts for professional careers, National Merit Scholarship Corp. is asking for a few minutes of attention.

This is the nonprofit organization established and supported by philanthropists to discover, recognize and encourage young men and women whose academic ability is as outstanding as the football ability of the all-Americans.

The corporation is now making its fourth report, and all is well. Its idea is paying off in future brain power for the United States. More than 80 per cent of the students it has helped to continue their education ranked in the top fourth of their college classes.

Its competition for scholarships has put more than 30,000 students through rigorous tests as finalists. Another 55,000 students have gone through preliminary testing and about half of them have been helped to go to college by other sponsors as the result of their showing in competitive examinations.

Engineering and science, especially mathematics, have been chosen by most scholarship winners. They are working in 339 different colleges and universities. The first 26 Merit Scholarship students to be graduated did outstanding work; they were the first all-American students to prove the value of this significant project.

Its significance lies in the single fact it attempts to do for bona fide students in an organized way what previously had been done in a hit-and-miss way. The National Merit Scholarship Corp. contends that every possessor of an exceptional brain should have at least as good a chance to go to college as the possessors of exceptional ability to play football. It does not say it that way, but that is the import of what it is doing.

The idea is working. If it continues to work, the United States might be justified in not worrying so much about the fact football players draw more praise than students in some parts of the U.S. school system.

For Safety's Sake

Samuel Chertoff's approach to the many problems that go with his duties as judge of the Municipal Court is highly encouraging. Everything to date points to increased efficiency.

The warning of a crackdown against speeders was especially welcome. This isn't the first time a judge in Municipal Court has taken such action, but the start of a new year certainly is a most appropriate period in which to wage a new offensive in the interest of safety.

Various reports, including the recent one by the Lisbon barracks of the Highway Patrol, show that speeding is the No. 1 cause of traffic accidents.

The individual motorist shouldn't look upon the new campaign as a violation of his rights. Rather it should be considered as a protective measure on his behalf. There's nothing in the books for a speeder but legal headaches and possible physical harm.

Anything a court can do to curb fast driving should be appreciated, not resented.

Industry Borough

Nearby Industry has begun functioning as a borough, joining many other communities in Western Pennsylvania which have that form of government. It previously was under a Board of Supervisors.

The move is a step forward. There will be new and pressing problems that go with any such change in operation. But with the problems will come the opportunity for continued advancement in government and expansion in physical property.

Harry H. Davis, the new burgess, and C. R. Dunlap, president of Council, have a well-deserved opportunity to get the borough moving in the proper direction.

We wish them and the people of the subdivision well as they go about the change-over.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Now for the split-level supermarket! A model has been exhibited showing a half-dozen levels, all reached by circular escalator, with shopping done by push-button. The building looks like a combination Frank Lloys Wright art museum, a roller coaster, a chute-the-chutes, a giant eggbeater and a modern multiple-level garage.

Shoppers are carried past groceries, floor by floor, to the top where they make selections by button.

The load is automatically carried to checkout booth and — presto! — delivered to auto area for pickup. This gives grocery-hunting housewife everything but music and floor show with the baloney, frankfurters and canned songs.

It does away with wire wagons. But will shoppers take this lying down? The wagon gives the shopper fortitude and self-confidence as they gather at Armegeddon and battle for the pork chops. It is their top weapon for defense and offense.

They depend on it for ground gaining.

The little woman thinks it establishes her economic status. Loaded up, it places her in the upper brackets. Half full it is still of importance. Only when it transports one jar of pickles and a half-dozen buns does it embarrass her. No snub surpasses that of Mrs. Plunkett wheeling $14.46 worth of grub by Mrs. Printwhistle who is cruising practically empty.

SUPERMARKET of the future also wipes out sharp corners, dangerous alley crossroads, etc. and the hardened housewife may miss the mood of adventure, excitement and combat now possible in all supermarkets.

The danger is that shopping may be made too easy and dull, with even the stirring battles in checkout line eliminated. To some housewives these fights have long been a most popular feature of the food hunt.

'You'd Look Sweet Upon The Seat . . .'

No Bowl Of Roses For Mr. Nixon

By Victor Riesel

That was no bowl of roses for Richard Milhous Nixon. It was a rough tournament between him and California's labor leaders. They didn't want him as grand master of the New Year's Day parade. They demanded that the official invitation be withdrawn. They wanted him to stay East—until he came West permanently.

Victor Riesel

This will not be the year known as "be kind to Nixon year." The New Year's Day incident was the kick-off for the union drive to label the vice president anti-labor. In Washington, the nation's labor policy makers hold him personally responsible for passage of the toughest law since King George's tea tax.

They say there would have been no Landrum-Griffin Labor-Management Reporting and Disclosure Act if not for the skillful political coaching of the vice president.

They want the law amended. They'll start fighting within the next few weeks under Oregon's Wayne Morse's leadership in the Senate.

They believe there would have been no law making them a series of living statistics open to public view in the Labor Department's Disclosure Room if President Eisenhower hadn't gone on the air asking for the passage of the Landrum-Griffin Bill.

THEY BELIEVE that the President hit the TV waves at the specific suggestion of Indiana's Rep. Charles Halleck. They believe that Halleck went to the President on the advice and with the consent of the Senate's president. Then Richard Nixon made certain his chief would not be repudiated by the Congress.

There is no doubt that the "veep" pressured congressmen into voting for the thing labor hated most in 1959. Mr. Nixon breakfasted with two congressional groups on Aug. 11 and 12. They broke buttered rolls in the Capitol those two key mornings before the critical vote on the bill which came in the House on Aug. 13.

There is no evidence to prove that the vice president summoned members of the House of Representatives to the coffee conferences just to pressure them.

But at one of the breakfasts there were 16 representatives, all of whom had told labor leaders they would say "nay" to the proposal.

Mr. Nixon talked of many things but especially of sealing the vote and of the Republican party and the President and the public's attitude on recent exposures.

After he left, the representatives were talked to by Nixon's close friend and political ally, the personable Attorney General William Rogers and by the hard-hitting Postmaster General Arthur Summerfield.

AFTER THAT there was noticeably less wavering in the political wind. The representatives voted for the bill.

Dick Nixon will find himself, therefore, hit hard and often and early. Shortly after Congress opens, the AFL-CIO will hold a legislative conference in Washington.

That will open on the morning of Jan. 11, dedicated to a plague on both houses of Congress and especially the head of the upper one.

Watch this parley. It will be practically a national labor convention. The call to the conference by George Meany and his first lieutenant, William Schnitzler, asked that the unions "send delegations of responsible officials from all geographical areas, in like numbers as their delegate strength at national conventions of the AFL-CIO."

A tip to labor's action on The Hill can be noted in this part of the official notice sent to all national labor presidents. It said: "The political realities mean that the 1960 session of the Congress will be short. It is not expected that the Congress will be meeting after the Fourth of July. That means no time can be lost if the 86th Congress is to enact the program of progressive legislation. . . ."

The labor people will all be aligned against Mr. Nixon—including virtually all the Steel Union leaders. The union leaders practice politics as they bargain—collectively and hard. This is a presidential year, you know.

Democrats' Last Chance

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

This is the Democrats' last chance to throw off President Eisenhower's Indian sign. But they probably won't. He's had it on them for years.

Three times in a row since 1954 the country has watched the extraordinary spectacle of a Republican president dealing with a Democratic-run Congress, a situation made to order for brawls and bruises.

Instead, the Democrats got into few quarrels with Eisenhower, didn't call names, were mostly docile and, particularly last year, moved like sheep under prodding.

This was most remarkable last year when Democrats, as a result of the 1958 elections, outnumbered Republicans in Congress by the greatest majority since early New Deal days.

They complained about Eisenhower's lack of leadership. But they showed scant aggressiveness of their own. Their most consistent quality throughout these years has been a healthy respect for the popular Eisenhower.

It was almost as if he had them hypnotized or they felt it was the better part of political wisdom not to antagonize the voters who seemed highly pleased with Eisenhower, as they showed by electing him twice.

The result last year was a mediocre congressional performance, with Democrats joining with Republicans in shoving under the rug until 1960 legislation which could have been tackled in 1959. Civil rights and aid to education, for example.

There were some practical political reasons for the shoving, of course: This is both a presidential and congressional election year and the closer to election day popular legislation is passed the more apt the voters are to remember.

Still, while there is talk in the new session of Congress about big and bold performances, the rest of the country can calmty maintain a "show me" attitude until talk becomes a reality.

It will probably be Eisenhower who does the punching this year, as he did last, by banging at the Democrats to keep down spending. Arguments about the budget will occupy most of the year.

There will be political entanglements, for sure, since, with the exception of Adlai Stevenson, the only would-be presidential candidates now in sight in both parties are concentrated in the Senate.

Even if the Democrats want to kick over the traces by belittling Eisenhower's presidency, he'll probably still be able to keep them in a trance by playing up the peace theme, supplemented by his journeys in search of it.

The Democrats would be in an awkward spot if they try to play rough with a President who, although nearing 70 and retirement, is working more strenuously than at any time since entering the White House.

It seems a good guess that 1960 will be a busy year but not a rambunctious one, at least in the Democrats' dealings with Eisenhower. Last year he piped and they danced. This year he can be expected to call the tune again.

Progressive Inflation

By David Lawrence

Unions Win, Public Loses In Steel Accord

The die has been cast. The steel settlement means more inflation. It could mean a devaluation of the dollar sometime in the 1960's.

David Lawrence

For years to come the "agreement" just reached under pressure of a variety of forces, some of them political will plague the management of American industry as well as the unions and, because of this very defeat of the public interest, state control of wages and prices may someday spell the end of the voluntary system of negotiation between labor and management.

Another costly strike, such as has just occurred in steel, would surely settle the issue in the direction of state control.

The inside story of what happened in the final hours of the steel negotiations should not come as a surprise. When economic power wielded by two major groups faces government pressure, there is a tendency to abandon extreme demands and accept a "compromise."

THE REAL ISSUE in the steel controversy was not what wages should be increased or what prices should be raised. It revolved around the basic question of whether management should have the right to say how many workers should be allotted to certain duties in a plant—in effect, the right to manage.

The employers didn't lose out entirely on this issue. For there now are vague promises in writing in the new contract that the subject will be studied and some reforms will be instituted on work rules but the so-called "past practices" provisions stayed in the contract unchanged.

On this, the unions won a victory and the American people lost. In the future prices will have to be raised to cover these extra costs of inefficiency and unproductive labor.

For the time being, the companies will not increase prices. They will try to absorb the added costs but the steel companies buy many products from other industries and, if the wage-price spiral continues, it is only a question of time when the steel companies will find it necessary to increase their prices.

This may be months off but it seems inevitable for the future, despite what is being said to the contrary today by the companies.

"We will hold out as long as we can against a price increase," said one steel man, "but we can't tell how long the people from whom we buy will hold the line on prices. If they exercise statesmanship and prudence, maybe they'll benefit by the fight we have made."

THE SETTLEMENT reached does call for a substantial wage increase. It doesn't solve the inflation problem. It doesn't bring the hoped for stability. Other industries now will find themselves compelled to grant wage increases of similar proportions.

In the end, the whole price structure will be affected. The net result over the next five or six years will be a steady diminution in the purchasing power of the dollar.

Could anything have been done to prevent the inflationary settlement of the steel strike?

The politicians say nothing could have been done. They argue that, if the strike were resumed, Congress would have been compelled to enact restrictive legislation, possibly along the lines of compulsory arbitration or its corollary—wage and price control.

This possibility had its influence on both labor and management representatives in the steel conferences. Presumably the fear of what Congress might do prompted the two sides to agree. Basically it was something else—politics.

Thus, today, as the presidential and congressional campaign is about to be fought, it is obvious that labor unions have a considerable strength in Congress because a majority of the candidates depend to a certain extent on the campaign contributions furnished through labor-union efforts.

THE COMPANIES had hoped that the election among the union members, scheduled to take place under the Taft-Hartley Act procedure and based on the "last offer," would at least reveal a considerable opposition to the leadership of David McDonald.

While this might be true in some companies—according to the private polls taken—it wasn't in others. The result was that both sides came to the conclusion that the election ought to be avoided if possible.

The labor leadership, for instance, didn't like the idea of a company-by-company vote in the election, because this might reveal the weaknesses of the present officers of the steel unions in certain areas.

All in all, both sides had logical reasons for coming to an agreement. But the public interest was not served.

Although the steel management did wage a dramatic fight to emphasize the relationship between the wage-price spiral and inflation, this is not something the steel companies could be expected to carry on indefinitely by themselves. They now have, in effect, transferred the responsibility to the public as a whole.

So it must be recorded that the unions have won a victory and the public has lost the first round in the big battle of the 1960's to save the purchasing power of the dollar from being further devalued.

Purely Personal

By Truman Twill

Realizing that people who cling to Christmas decorations after the rest of us have put them away are likely to be called peculiar, I want to be among the first to say I think the sight of a Christmas tree still standing in a living room in mid-January is poignant.

I cannot share the professional politician's view of presidential politics — that the whole thing is a big game played by good-natured people who understand one another. The catch is that I don't understand them, and that leaves me out in the cold with the rest of the boobs.

The trouble with athletic coaches is that they are forced to talk out of both sides of their mouths to hold their jobs. It is this built-in double standard that keeps members of the coaching profession in hot water, though I cannot honestly say I feel sorry for them, win or lose.

The trouble with television — and the thing that has tempted it to commit its embarrassing excesses — is that viewers expect it to come up with brand new thrills. The show that was good enough last year or even last month isn't good enough now. This will be the thing that finally will cool off the novelty of TV as a red-hot sales medium.

As a chronic knocker of what I consider to be a bad climate, it is a pleasure this winter to be able to say, "No complaints."

You will not go far wrong in a national election year if you switch from "Cherchez la femme" to "Cherchez le politique" as the likeliest clue to all puzzles, ranging from settlements of steel strikes to odds and ends of news about baffling speeches.

My favorite story of the week is about the retriever that ran over the top of the water to bring in the ducks the two hunters shot after a long wait with a bottle for comfort. Neither wanted to say anything for fear the other would think he had drunk too much. But on the trip home, the subject came up. "Notice anything funny about the dog?" "Yeah, come to think of it, I did notice something. Only retriever I ever saw that couldn't swim."

Of all quibbles, the one about when decades and centuries begin must be the silliest. People celebrate the beginnings of centuries when the new figure turns up on the calendar — like Jan. 1, 1960. Likewise with decades. I'm already looking forward to New Year's Eve in 1999, when I expect to welcome in the 21st century, starting with Jan. 1, 2000.

Nothing will be done about it, but license plates large enough for full-size cars are incongruously large for small cars and should be miniaturized for the sake of proportion.

I am less disturbed by what children may not pick up in the way of education than in what they are not picking up in the way of manners. Education they can get along without in a pinch, but no one can get along without a modicum of manners — even a whiz kid.

Though it did not strike me with any special force at the time, it has crossed my mind since that I appreciated the New Year's Eve kissing this time more than before and that this must be another sign of encroaching antiquity — this gratitude for perfunctory favors unfeelingly bestowed.

A recent column describing the agony of getting up in the morning seems to have struck sinus sufferers with special force. SSers are people who bear their crosses inside — spiked fast between the eyes — with white-hot nails.

Maid Bursts Into Tears

Screaming Of Mrs. Finch Described By Key Witness

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The state's key witness, a slim, 19-year - old Swedish housemaid, burst into tears on the witness stand after describing Barbara Finch's violent last moments of life.

Near the handsome surgeon, his one-time receptionist and mistress Carole Tregoff, sat erect, her brown eyes flashing from witness to prosecutor and back.

Finch, 41, and Miss Tregoff, 23, are charged with murdering his 36-year-old estranged wife so they could marry and retain community property valued by Mrs. Finch at $750,000.

Miss Lidholm came to this country in September 1958 to study English. A girl acquaintance found her a job with the Finches.

She told a six-man, six-woman jury and a packed courtroom on direct examination Wednesday of the hectic night of July 18 at the Finches' swank home in suburban West Covina.

This was her testimony:

She heard Mrs. Finch scream, ran to the garage of the $65,000 Finch home, and saw the pretty, socialite unconscious on the garage floor.

Dr. Finch smashed Miss Lidholm's head against the garage wall, then brandished a gun and ordered her into the family car. The doctor made Mrs. Finch — who apparently had revived—get into the car. Mrs. Finch fled. The doctor pursued her.

The maid said she heard a shot and a scream—"help!"—a moment later.

Mrs. Finch was found shot to death on the lawn next door. Finch and Miss Tregoff were found by police the next day in Las Vegas, Nev.

After the maid finished testifying for the state, Grant B. Cooper, Finch's attorney, cross-examined Miss Lindholm. He asked about a statement she gave West Covina Police Capt. William M. Ryan the morning after the murder.

Cooper noted that Ryan's report said Miss Lidholm ran to the garage and saw Finch brandishing a pistol. On the stand she said he didn't have the pistol until a little later.

"Is it as you told Ryan," asked Cooper, "or is it as you testified here?"

The blonde maid began to lose her composure.

"At this time I didn't know Mrs. Finch was dead," she began.

"But you knew he (Ryan) was a policeman, didn't you?" asked Cooper.

"Honey," Cooper asked consolingly, "would you rather take a recess at this time?" She nodded.

Deputies Probing Jailbreak Plot Turn Up Weapons

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Investigating a report of a planned jailbreak, Summit County deputies turned up an array of hand-fashioned weapons in county jail Wednesday.

Among them: Sharply honed can lids, an iron bar, a wooden handle whittled to a sharp point, makeshift ropes devised from strips of mattress covers and a home-made blackjack loaded with pieces of broken cups, food trays and a bar of soap.

Deputies rushed into a cell block shortly after midnight to stop a fight between two prisoners. One of the fighters told deputies 11 inmates planned to hang him to attract guards. They planned to overpower the guards, he said, and escape.

Chief Deputy George Vaughn said Huston L. Terrell, 21, and Wilbert K. Woods Jr., 23, both charged with armed robbery, were ringleaders in the action.

Maid Bursts Into Tears

Screaming Of Mrs. Finch Described By Key Witness

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The state's key witness, a slim, 19-year - old Swedish housemaid, burst into tears on the witness stand after describing Barbara Finch's violent last moments of life.

Near the handsome surgeon, his one-time receptionist and mistress Carole Tregoff, sat erect, her brown eyes flashing from witness to prosecutor and back.

Finch, 41, and Miss Tregoff, 23, are charged with murdering his 36-year-old estranged wife so they could marry and retain community property valued by Mrs. Finch at $750,000.

Miss Lidholm came to this country in September 1958 to study English. A girl acquaintance found her a job with the Finches.

She told a six-man, six-woman jury and a packed courtroom on direct examination Wednesday of the hectic night of July 18 at the Finches' swank home in suburban West Covina.

This was her testimony:

She heard Mrs. Finch scream, ran to the garage of the $65,000 Finch home, and saw the pretty, socialite unconscious on the garage floor.

Dr. Finch smashed Miss Lidholm's head against the garage wall, then brandished a gun and ordered her into the family car. The doctor made Mrs. Finch — who apparently had revived—get into the car. Mrs. Finch fled. The doctor pursued her.

The maid said she heard a shot and a scream—"help!"—a moment later.

Mrs. Finch was found shot to death on the lawn next door. Finch and Miss Tregoff were found by police the next day in Las Vegas, Nev.

After the maid finished testifying for the state, Grant B. Cooper, Finch's attorney, cross-examined Miss Lindholm. He asked about a statement she gave West Covina Police Capt. William M. Ryan the morning after the murder.

Cooper noted that Ryan's report said Miss Lidholm ran to the garage and saw Finch brandishing a pistol. On the stand she said he didn't have the pistol until a little later.

"Is it as you told Ryan," asked Cooper, "or is it as you testified here?"

The blonde maid began to lose her composure.

"At this time I didn't know Mrs. Finch was dead," she began.

"But you knew he (Ryan) was a policeman, didn't you?" asked Cooper.

"Honey," Cooper asked consolingly, "would you rather take a recess at this time?" She nodded.

Deputies Probing Jailbreak Plot Turn Up Weapons

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—Investigating a report of a planned jailbreak, Summit County deputies turned up an array of hand-fashioned weapons in county jail Wednesday.

Among them: Sharply honed can lids, an iron bar, a wooden handle whittled to a sharp point, makeshift ropes devised from strips of mattress covers and a home-made blackjack loaded with pieces of broken cups, food trays and a bar of soap.

Deputies rushed into a cell block shortly after midnight to stop a fight between two prisoners. One of the fighters told deputies 11 inmates planned to hang him to attract guards. They planned to overpower the guards, he said, and escape.

Chief Deputy George Vaughn said Huston L. Terrell, 21, and Wilbert K. Woods Jr., 23, both charged with armed robbery, were ringleaders in the action.

Ike Predicts Banner Year

between the White House and the Democratic-controlled Congress.

"Every minute spent in irrelevant interbranch wrangling is precious time taken from the intelligent initiation and adoption of coherent policies for our national survival and policies," he said.

The President, who has had to work with a Democratic-run Congress the last five of his seven years in office, remarked that nevertheless "we have weathered the storms." And he pledged in his final year to "devote my full energies to the tasks at hand, whether these involve travel for the promoting of world understanding, negotiations to reduce international discord, or constant discussions and communications with the Congress and the American people on issues both domestic and foreign."

The President's State of the Union message sketched the administration's 1960 program in only broad outline. The details will be set forth in his Jan. 18 budget message which he announced formally today will call for balanced spending and income in the new fiscal year, starting July 1. The reported scheduled spending figure is a peacetime record — about 81 billion dollars.

Eisenhower said that despite the long steel dispute, marked by a 116-day strike and then a back-to-work court order, the budget for the current fiscal year ending June 30 will show a surplus of about 200 million dollars.

The message contained no real surprises in the field of legislation. Among other things, he called for continuance of foreign aid to bolster the free world against communism; for enactment of the civil rights program he recommended last year, particularly with respect to protecting the right to vote; new farm laws—also recommended previously—to replace "an outmoded system which has failed to protect farm income" and a school aid program with federal incentives to encourage state and local classroom construction.

Alluding to the threat of the free world from communism, Eisenhower said: "With both sides of this divided world in possession of unbelievably destructive weapons, mankind approaches a state where mutual annihilation becomes a possibility."

He said recent Soviet deportment and pronouncements "suggest the possible opening of a somewhat less-strained period in the relationships between the Soviet Union and the free world."

Eisenhower cautioned free nations against being "misled by pleasant promises," but he said the United States intends to deal with the Soviet Union with the utmost seriousness.

Eisenhower made it plain he does not expect the Soviet Union to touch off an all-out war.

"It is my studied conviction that no nation will ever risk war against us unless we should be so foolish as to neglect the defense forces we now so powerfully support," he said.

"It is worldwide knowledge that any nation which might be tempted to attack the United States, even though our country might sustain great losses, would itself promptly suffer a terrible destruction."

Civil Rights

Johnson publicly recalled an agreement to bring up civil rights for debate in that body about mid-February.

But both sides appeared in agreement to this extent: Congress almost certainly will pass some kind of civil rights legislation this year. And the present bill is probably as much as the House will agree on, at least initially.

Bidding Time Extended On Post Office Project

Bidders have been granted an extra week to submit offers for extension of a driveway and construction of a new marquee at the Post Office, Postmaster Samuel W. Brown said today.

The new deadline for bids, which will be opened at the U. S. Courthouse in Chicago, is Tuesday, he said.

The ground between the present building and the Masonic Temple will be filled from the present drive to the sidewalk and the entire area blacktopped, Brown said.

The marquee will be constructed over the loading space at the side and rear of the building, he explained.

Juvenile Court Gives General Fund $11,333

LISBON — Judge Louis Tobin reported today Juvenile Court and the Support Division turned over to the general fund last year a total of $11,333 in fines and poundage fees from collections in the division for 1959.

The division handled $389,506 and received a poundage of $8,173, while fines totaled $3,160.

Judges To Air Camp Project

Judge Louis Tobin of East Liverpool, who proposed the co-operative work camp program in line with a law approved by the state legislature in 1959, will preside.

Plans call for the survey of a camp program, needs, availability and other aspects, with the cost of the proposed survey to be paid by $200 authorized by commissioners of each of the counties involved. An investigator would be retained to make the survey.

The camp would be for "twilight offenders," youths who have not committed serious crimes and who could be rehabilited instead of being sent to the Boys Industrial School at Lancaster.

Cost of such a camp would be too great for any one smaller county to operate, but would be feasible as a joint project of the several counties, according to an agreement reached by the judges at a December meeting.

between the White House and the Democratic-controlled Congress.

"Every minute spent in irrelevant interbranch wrangling is precious time taken from the intelligent initiation and adoption of coherent policies for our national survival and policies," he said.

The President, who has had to work with a Democratic-run Congress the last five of his seven years in office, remarked that nevertheless "we have weathered the storms." And he pledged in his final year to "devote my full energies to the tasks at hand, whether these involve travel for the promoting of world understanding, negotiations to reduce international discord, or constant discussions and communications with the Congress and the American people on issues both domestic and foreign."

The President's State of the Union message sketched the administration's 1960 program in only broad outline. The details will be set forth in his Jan. 18 budget message which he announced formally today will call for balanced spending and income in the new fiscal year, starting July 1. The reported scheduled spending figure is a peacetime record — about 81 billion dollars.

Eisenhower said that despite the long steel dispute, marked by a 116-day strike and then a back-to-work court order, the budget for the current fiscal year ending June 30 will show a surplus of about 200 million dollars.

The message contained no real surprises in the field of legislation. Among other things, he called for continuance of foreign aid to bolster the free world against communism; for enactment of the civil rights program he recommended last year, particularly with respect to protecting the right to vote; new farm laws—also recommended previously—to replace "an outmoded system which has failed to protect farm income" and a school aid program with federal incentives to encourage state and local classroom construction.

Alluding to the threat of the free world from communism, Eisenhower said: "With both sides of this divided world in possession of unbelievably destructive weapons, mankind approaches a state where mutual annihilation becomes a possibility."

He said recent Soviet deportment and pronouncements "suggest the possible opening of a somewhat less-strained period in the relationships between the Soviet Union and the free world."

Eisenhower cautioned free nations against being "misled by pleasant promises," but he said the United States intends to deal with the Soviet Union with the utmost seriousness.

Eisenhower made it plain he does not expect the Soviet Union to touch off an all-out war.

"It is my studied conviction that no nation will ever risk war against us unless we should be so foolish as to neglect the defense forces we now so powerfully support," he said.

"It is worldwide knowledge that any nation which might be tempted to attack the United States, even though our country might sustain great losses, would itself promptly suffer a terrible destruction."

Civil Rights

Johnson publicly recalled an agreement to bring up civil rights for debate in that body about mid-February.

But both sides appeared in agreement to this extent: Congress almost certainly will pass some kind of civil rights legislation this year. And the present bill is probably as much as the House will agree on, at least initially.

Juvenile Court Gives General Fund $11,333

LISBON — Judge Louis Tobin reported today Juvenile Court and the Support Division turned over to the general fund last year a total of $11,333 in fines and poundage fees from collections in the division for 1959.

The division handled $389,506 and received a poundage of $8,173, while fines totaled $3,160.

Judges To Air Camp Project

Judge Louis Tobin of East Liverpool, who proposed the co-operative work camp program in line with a law approved by the state legislature in 1959, will preside.

Plans call for the survey of a camp program, needs, availability and other aspects, with the cost of the proposed survey to be paid by $200 authorized by commissioners of each of the counties involved. An investigator would be retained to make the survey.

The camp would be for "twilight offenders," youths who have not committed serious crimes and who could be rehabilited instead of being sent to the Boys Industrial School at Lancaster.

Cost of such a camp would be too great for any one smaller county to operate, but would be feasible as a joint project of the several counties, according to an agreement reached by the judges at a December meeting.

Council Ends Insurance For Chester Staff

Termination of a group insurance program for Chester city employes and officials was authorized by Council Monday night as a result of a ruling from the state auditor's office.

State officials advised Council a few months ago that the program, in which the city paid part of the premiums, was not permitted by state regulation because such municipal payments were not authorized.

Following a lengthy discussion last night, Council agreed to let the insurance expire at the end of the grace period Sunday. The program was started Dec. 10, 1958, for city and water works staffs and some officials.

Councilman Charles Kology suggested the employes be granted a salary increase to enable them to retain the policies for this year.

Councilman John Olash pointed out the budget for 1959-60 is completed, and does not include enough funds for such a salary bike.

Those who participated in the insurance program last year are obligated to pay back to the city the amount in the premiums paid by city funds, state officials said.

A payment of $2,000 due a Newell firm for recent street work was delayed further upon the recommendation of Mayor Burton Ward, who said city officials and many residents are not satisfied with the project.

The payment was due the River Asphalt Co. Jan. 1. Mayor Ward said the firm should remedy certain conditions on some streets before the payment is authorized by Council.

Council re-appointed John Burnquist to the City Park Commission for a seven-year term on the recommendation of Mayor Ward.

Earl Jackson and Albert Kell reported a rise in the surface of an alley at the rear of the First Christian Church which causes water to drain into the church. Kology, chairman of the street committee, said the condition will be corrected by grading the alley level. Kology said the street department is repairing alleys throughout the city.

Abrams reported complaints that a hedge fence on Louisiana Ave. blocks visibility of motorists making a turn onto the street, and Mayor Ward and Councilman Walter McSwegin agreed to confer with the property owner concerning the condition.

City Clerk Roy Cashdollar, who had been directed to ask the Taylor, Smith & Taylor Co. about providing ashes for use on city streets, reported the pottery officials said the city may obtain ashes.

Mayor Ward reported $878 collected in fines for the quarter ended Dec. 31. Cashdollar reported $143 collected in license fees. The balance in city funds is $4,688, compared to the balance of $6,727 for Sept. 30.

58 Britons Ask U.S. To Renew A-Test Ban

LONDON (AP) — Fifty-eight prominent Britons today urged the United States to renew its ban on nuclear weapon tests.

The group called the U. S. decision to resume tests when it sees fit "a setback to progress made toward agreement in 1959 and a threat to hopes for an advance towards disarmament in 1960."

In a statement issued by Britain's Campaign for Nuclear Disarmament, the Britons asked their countrymen to write President Eisenhower immediately, requesting that he reconsidered the decision and state that the United States would never be the first nation to resume tests.

Hitch-Hiking Terrier May Have New Home

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — Butch, a hitch-hiking fox terrier with a ready paw, not only got a ride but may have a new home.

Mr. and Mrs. E.H. Lance of Fort Worth noticed the dog waving frantically at cars on a snow-blown highway in North Texas last week.

"The veterinarian at Midwest said he belonged to an airman there who hadn't brought him in since 1958," Mrs. Lance said. "I may keep him if we can't locate the owner."

"He kept standing on his back paws and waving his front ones," Mrs. Lance said in explaining how he attracted their attention on the highway.

'Land Pollution' Termed As Major Future Problem

CINCINNATI (AP)—"Land pollution" resulting from disposal of wastes including those which are radioactive may become a major problem of the future.

M. H. Klegerman, a New York consulting engineer, told a sanitary engineering division conference of the American Society of Civil Egineers today that "our poisoned earth" may replace the more commonly known term, "our polluted streams."

The conference is the first of its kind in this country — covering water, air and land pollution. It is sponsored by the Cincinnati section of the American Society of Civil Engineers, the Taft Sanitary Engineering Center here and the University of Cincinnati College of Engineering.

Klegerman used the problem of disposal of radioactive waste as an example of the "land pollution." He declared the oceans of the world cannot accept nuclear power industry waste without being significantly affected. The only other disposal method, he added, is burial in concrete chambers in the ground which doubtless will continue and even may be accelerated.

"The staking out of permanent cemeteries and associated problems of policing them for the burial of such wastes, with active lives up to 5,000 years, may prove to be in itself an engineering problem of major proportions," Klegerman said.

Hearing Fixed In Check Case

A Municipal Court hearing is scheduled Friday at 10 a. m. for Harold Jacobs of Steubenville, arrested Wednesday on warrants charging he cashed two $50 checks at the East Liverpool A. & P. Super-market Nov. 13 without having sufficient funds on deposit in the bank on which they were drawn.

The charges were filed Dec. 23 by Charles W. Shriver, manager of the market, alleging that Jacobs cashed the two checks "with intent to defraud" and knowing that "he had insufficient funds and credit" with the Miners & Mechanics Savings & Trust Co. of Steubenville. Attached to the affidavits, the two checks were identical except for their numbers.

Jacobs pleaded not guilty this morning before Judge Samuel M. Chertoff, who granted his request for a continuance until tomorrow. Bond was fixed at $500 in each case.

Jacobs told the judge he formerly was employed at the Riverview Hotel in Wellsville. He said in connection with both charges that: "I didn't do it intentionally; I had money in the bank at the time to cover both checks." Jacobs also said that he wants to make restitution of the $100. He said his wife was to wire him the money, but the judge said that has no connection with the two criminal charges.

Under the Ohio law, the charge could be either a felony or a misdemeanor, Judge Chertoff told Jacobs.

Salary Board Fills 2 Posts

BEAVER FALLS — The Beaver County Salary Board held its reorganization meeting Wednesday and elected County Commissioner Gordon Camp, chairman, and Controller James F. Tress, secretary.

The board set the salaries of Paul Doughty of Hopewell Township, new chief clerk for Beaver County commissioners, at $5,500 a year, and that of Mrs. Stella Kilpatrick of Beaver Falls, assistant clerk, at $4,360.

The board, made up of the three county commissioners and the controller, agreed that any economy move should start in the commissioners' office.

The chief clerk received $5,740 previously and the assistant $4,620.

The board agreed to eliminate the elevator operator at the Courthouse, a saving of $2,720. Commissioner James Ross said the elevator is automatic and self - operating.

During court trials, a temporary operator may be hired from the janitorial staff, he said. The commissioners also plan improvements in the janitorial setup.

Other salaries will be set as the board meets with the elected heads of each office.

property owners, the representative pointed out, but he added that there have been very few complaints of re-assessments in other counties where the plan was completed.

Haislop pointed out "it is a fallacy that people storm the county Courthouse in protest of assessments."

Value of the re-appraisals shall be defended for one year after date of delivery to the county assessor, he added.

The plan calls for re-appraisals to be at a "reasonable market value and to apply to actual sales value," the official told commissioners.

Haislop also commented that "it is hard for the state's 55 county assessors to properly measure the value of complex machinery."

He added that "25 per cent are paying more than they should and 25 per cent are not paying enough."

The appraisal firm will give a complete inventory of property—correctly classified, he said.

Bids will be accepted in Charleston and a contract let to the appraising firm to complete the project in the county, Haislop said.

Age will be considered first in re-appraisal of houses, the official said. Appraisers will consider many factors, such as location of homes in areas that are readily hit by floods.

Haislop was questioned extensively by the three commissioners—especially Graham—and all indicated that they believe that the plan is badly needed in the county.

Palestine Reported 'In Black' With Water, Electric Use Up

EAST PALESTINE — Increased water and electricity consumption and a financial year which left all municipal funds "in the black" were reported by city officials in a summary of 1959.

Ex-Safety Service Director Elmer Dishong said the city power plant produced 17,975,000 kilowatts during the year, about 200,000 kilowatts over 1958, but behind the record set in the late 1940's.

The plant used over 19,000 tons of coal according to Dishong. Light plant receipts totaled $291,229, and expenditures amounted to $257,743. A final payment of $30,000 on mortgage revenue bonds for a turbine generator was made.

Street department expenses were $57,162, up $17,000 from the previous year. City crews applied 1,900 tons of blacktop on streets during the annual repair program.

Sewer fund receipts amounted to $22,909, an increase of 2,000 over 1958, and water department receipts were $36,834, an increase over the previous $33,875.

Water consumption totaled 556,315,000 gallons, a near record, due to increased use during a dry spell last summer, Dishong said.

George Archibald, city auditor, said all city funds showed a balance at the end of the year. The water fund, in deficit $2,413 at the beginning of 1959, ended up with $2,516 ahead, he said.

The balance in active funds was $102,352, with $90,000 in the inactive or depreciation funds, including $72,000 for the city light plant. There was $28,000 in the general fund, which includes the parking meter fund, he said.

NATIONAL STEEL BUILDS FOR THE FUTURE

with a $300 million program now in full swing to produce more of the products most in demand

A new expansion program already well underway will enable National Steel to produce and market more of America's most wanted steels—and to make them significantly better.

CONTINUING A POSTWAR POLICY. This program calls for the expenditure of $300 million over a three-year period. It follows hard on the heels of a $500 million investment in plant improvements and new properties which began in 1952. The current program will further broaden our share of the market and consolidate our position in the front rank of the nation's steel companies. Let's look at some of the major developments involved.

A "MILL OF THE FUTURE." National Steel's Great Lakes Steel Corporation in Detroit is a major supplier of hot- and cold-rolled sheets and strip in the automotive industry, America's biggest steel customer. Here, we've started work on a "mill of the future"—an 80-inch, four-high continuous strip mill which will be the fastest and most powerful facility of its kind in existence. We'll supply to our car-building customers larger coils of sheet steel of the highest quality. And also at Great Lakes Steel, we're increasing ingot capacity by 500,000 tons to 4.2 million tons a year for this division alone.

A NEW KIND OF PLANT FOR A NEW DIVISION. On a 750-acre tract at Portage, Indiana, on the Lake Michigan shore, we're building a totally new plant for our newest division, Midwest Steel Corporation. From it will roll electrolytic tin plate, galvanized sheet steel and other flat rolled products for manufacturers in mid-America—one of the nation's largest consuming districts. These products will be finished from hot-rolled coils to be supplied by our Detroit operations.

STILL MORE TIN PLATE CAPACITY. At our Weirton Steel Company plants in Weirton, West Virginia, and Steubenville, Ohio, we've installed two continuous annealing lines and two electrolytic tin plate lines to increase production and improve the processing of tin plate. Weirton Steel already is one of the world's largest tin plate producers. Other improvements include facilities to increase the production of cold-rolled sheets.

OTHER NEW CONSTRUCTION. A new 48-inch coating line is being installed at Allentown, Pennsylvania, for our Enamelstrip Corporation, which produces a line of decorative plastic and enamel pre-coated steels in coils. At Terre Haute, Indiana, we have enlarged existing plant facilities and completed an addition for our Stran-Steel Corporation, producer of pre-engineered buildings and architectural products.

ACCELERATING RESEARCH. Backstopping all this expansion, we are constructing a new corporation-wide research center at Weirton, where National Steel scientists will accelerate their search for new and better materials, methods and products.

This continued emphasis on facilities for producing more and better products for our customers has made National Steel the fifth-ranked American steel producer and a major supplier of the steels most in demand.

We are convinced that there will be more dramatic advances in the steel industry's future than in its past—advances in which National Steel intends to play a prominent part.

Rail Unions Fire Question Of 'Who's Getting Rich?'

By ROGER GREENE
Associated Press Staff Writer

"Who's getting rich?"

That's the challenge raised by the big five railroad unions when the industry sets up a howl about engineers and firemen getting four or five days' pay for a day's work.

The industry, for example, says a typical case is the 1,034-mile run between Chicago and Denver which a fast passenger train covers in 16½ hours.

Since pay is based on a long-established rule of a day's basic pay for each 100 miles, the railroad has to pay 10 1-3 days' pay for each engine crew position on the Chicago-Denver trip.

"All right," say the unions, "if that's the way you want to play, let's analyze it. Let's see who is getting rich on all this fabulous pay."

During the first half of July 1958, engineer M.E. White drove the Burlington Zephyr over the 162-mile stretch between Lincoln, Neb., and Creston, Iowa, on the Chicago-Denver run, averaging 2 hours 51 minutes per trip. For this he received $32.11 a trip on the mileage-pay basis.

In 15 days, White spent 210½ hours on duty or laying over at the far terminal between trips, and he received $481.63, or $2.29 per hour for the total elapsed time he spent in service.

"Is that too much for a highly skilled worker?" the union asks.

"What the engineer actually got paid was $481.63 for 15 trips totalling 42¾ hours of work, or $11.26 an hour. That means he gets paid at the rate of $90.08 for an eight-hour work day or $450.40 for a 40-hour week. No wonder the railroads are taking a licking?"

Union: "What about his layover time at the far terminal? And remember, he doesn't get paid for away-from-home expenses — hotel room and meals — nor does he get paid a differential for night, Sunday or holiday work."

Railroad: "Are we supposed to pay for the time he's sleeping at the far terminal between runs? What company pays its employes for sleep time?"

Ticking off other points raised by the unions, the industry says that in World War II the five train-operating unions accepted a special award of five cents an hour to compensate them for away-from-home expenses. The award remains in the present pay structure.

As for premium pay for working on holidays, the industry says Presidential Emergency Board 116 denied extra holiday pay to trainmen because their mileage-pay rules put them "in a much more favorable position, earnings-wise," than nonoperating employes.

Commenting on the unions' observation that few if any railroad employes are "getting rich," the industry says one reason is the unions' own spread-the-work rules which set a limit on the number of miles train crews may work and hence restrict their earnings.

Some union officials concede privately that mileage-pay and some work rules are obsolete, based on conditions which prevailed half a century or so ago, and that both need a general overhauling.

But they insist that any revision must not result in the firing of thousands of employes.

The 100-mile formula for a day's basic pay—or "unit of work," as the unions prefer to call it—was born in the days when it took considerable sweat and hustle to drive a pokey coal-burning locomotive 100 miles. It wasn't unusual, in those days, for a brawny fireman to shovel 10 to 12 tons of coal in a day's run.

Today, powerful oil - burning diesels zip over the tracks twice as fast as the old Iron Horse, and the fireman, with no furnace to feed, serves chiefly as an extra lookout for possible danger.

Thus the railroads contend they are being forced to perpetuate jobs as outmoded as the chief whip tested in a buggy whip factory. They say it costs them 230 million dollars a year to provide surplus firemen in freight and yard service alone.

But the unions insist the fireman is just as important to railroad safety as the co-pilot of an airliner.

Far from twiddling his thumbs, the unions say, the fireman must keep a constant safety watch on the blind side of the cab—keeping tabs on wayside signals, speed zones, track obstructions, hot-boxes, and highway traffic at crossings.

Politics And Finance Among Library's New 'Guide Books'

Guides for the New Year in every facet of living are featured in this week's new book shelf at the Carnegie Public Library, according to Miss Frances Jones, librarian.

Eric Sevareid, noted radio commentator, has assembled thumbnail sketches of presidential hopefuls in "Candidates 1960." There are nine fairly detailed biographies, two of Republicans — Nixon and Rockefeller, and seven portraits of likely Democrats.

Eleven news correspondents have participated in the writing. He describes his book as an attempt to alert the intelligent voter "before the political publicist has subtly or overtly been able to color his judgement."

Financial guidance in the New Year is offered in Benjamin Graham's "Intelligent Investor." This is a revision of a standard work published originally 10 years ago. The author has been a professor of finance in Columbia University and later at the University of California. He includes Dow - Jones predictions through 1964 and he also discusses the problems found in dealing in common stocks.

Domestic concerns can sometimes be alleviated by the perspective offered in books. Dr. Evelyn Millis Duvall has made an original study of inter-personal relations which she sums up in a book, "In-Laws Pro and Con." Surprisingly enough there are some very popular and beloved mothers-in-law. Sisters-in-law, however, are sometimes a thorny problem, according to this study. The library has just received James A. Pike's "If You Marry Outside Your Church." This is excellent counsel on mixed marriages.

"Across the Threshold" is a guide for the Jewish homemaker by Shonie Levi and Sylvia B. Kaplan. It relates the significance of all the Holy Days and customs, includes menus, and even tips on naming the baby and planning a wedding.

For those who hope to find greater pleasure in the arts, books can open doors. George Balanchine's "Complete Stories of the Great Ballets" is dedicated to the audience of today and tomorrow. Some 131 ballets now in the repertories of the world's great ballet companies are described in mood-by-mood action accompanied with photographs. The author, who has been director of the New York City Ballet, also devotes a fourth of the book to students and their interests. Leonard Bernstein's "The Joy of Music" collects between hard covers the television scripts of America's best known music teacher. It is full of photographs and musical examples which render it intrigning even to the layman.

If readers want to spice their New Year with adventure, two new books on Africa should provide a good springboard:

Cmdr. Attilo Gatti has led 10 scientific expeditions through all regions of the dark continent and many of the thrills are recounted in "Africa Is Adventure." The novelist, Elspeth Huxley, went to live in Kenya as a child of 6. Her family's pioneer existence is the subject of "Flame Trees of Thika."

Hearing Fixed In Check Case

A Municipal Court hearing is scheduled Friday at 10 a. m. for Harold Jacobs of Steubenville, arrested Wednesday on warrants charging he cashed two $50 checks at the East Liverpool A. & P. Super-market Nov. 13 without having sufficient funds on deposit in the bank on which they were drawn.

The charges were filed Dec. 23 by Charles W. Shriver, manager of the market, alleging that Jacobs cashed the two checks "with intent to defraud" and knowing that "he had insufficient funds and credit" with the Miners & Mechanics Savings & Trust Co. of Steubenville. Attached to the affidavits, the two checks were identical except for their numbers.

Jacobs pleaded not guilty this morning before Judge Samuel M. Chertoff, who granted his request for a continuance until tomorrow. Bond was fixed at $500 in each case.

Jacobs told the judge he formerly was employed at the Riverview Hotel in Wellsville. He said in connection with both charges that: "I didn't do it intentionally; I had money in the bank at the time to cover both checks." Jacobs also said that he wants to make restitution of the $100. He said his wife was to wire him the money, but the judge said that has no connection with the two criminal charges.

Under the Ohio law, the charge could be either a felony or a misdemeanor, Judge Chertoff told Jacobs.

BEAVER FALLS — The Beaver County Salary Board held its reorganization meeting Wednesday and elected County Commissioner Gordon Camp, chairman, and Controller James F. Tress, secretary.

The board set the salaries of Paul Doughty of Hopewell Township, new chief clerk for Beaver County commissioners, at $5,500 a year, and that of Mrs. Stella Kilpatrick of Beaver Falls, assistant clerk, at $4,360.

During court trials, a temporary operator may be hired from the janitorial staff, he said. The commissioners also plan improvements in the janitorial setup.

Other salaries will be set as the board meets with the elected heads of each office.

property owners, the representative pointed out, but he added that there have been very few complaints of re-assessments in other counties where the plan was completed.

Haislop pointed out "it is a fallacy that people storm the county Courthouse in protest of assessments."

Value of the re-appraisals shall be defended for one year after date of delivery to the county assessor, he added.

The plan calls for re-appraisals to be at a "reasonable market value and to apply to actual sales value," the official told commissioners.

Haislop also commented that "it is hard for the state's 55 county assessors to properly measure the value of complex machinery."

He added that "25 per cent are paying more than they should and 25 per cent are not paying enough."

The appraisal firm will give a complete inventory of property—correctly classified, he said.

Bids will be accepted in Charleston and a contract let to the appraising firm to complete the project in the county, Haislop said.

Age will be considered first in re-appraisal of houses, the official said. Appraisers will consider many factors, such as location of homes in areas that are readily hit by floods.

Haislop was questioned extensively by the three commissioners—especially Graham—and all indicated that they believe that the plan is badly needed in the county.

Palestine Reported 'In Black' With Water, Electric Use Up

EAST PALESTINE — Increased water and electricity consumption and a financial year which left all municipal funds "in the black" were reported by city officials in a summary of 1959.

Ex-Safety Service Director Elmer Dishong said the city power plant produced 17,975,000 kilowatts during the year, about 200,000 kilowatts over 1958, but behind the record set in the late 1940's.

The plant used over 19,000 tons of coal according to Dishong. Light plant receipts totaled $291,229, and expenditures amounted to $257,743. A final payment of $30,000 on mortgage revenue bonds for a turbine generator was made.

Street department expenses were $57,162, up $17,000 from the previous year. City crews applied 1,900 tons of blacktop on streets during the annual repair program.

Sewer fund receipts amounted to $22,909, an increase of 2,000 over 1958, and water department receipts were $36,834, an increase over the previous $33,875.

Water consumption totaled 556,315,000 gallons, a near record, due to increased use during a dry spell last summer, Dishong said.

George Archibald, city auditor, said all city funds showed a balance at the end of the year. The water fund, in deficit $2,413 at the beginning of 1959, ended up with $2,516 ahead, he said.

The balance in active funds was $102,352, with $90,000 in the inactive or depreciation funds, including $72,000 for the city light plant. There was $28,000 in the general fund, which includes the parking meter fund, he said.

NATIONAL STEEL BUILDS FOR THE FUTURE

A new expansion program already well underway will enable National Steel to produce and market more of America's most wanted steels—and to make them significantly better.

CONTINUING A POSTWAR POLICY. This program calls for the expenditure of $300 million over a three-year period. It follows hard on the heels of a $500 million investment in plant improvements and new properties which began in 1952. The current program will further broaden our share of the market and consolidate our position in the front rank of the nation's steel companies. Let's look at some of the major developments involved.

A "MILL OF THE FUTURE." National Steel's Great Lakes Steel Corporation in Detroit is a major supplier of hot- and cold-rolled sheets and strip in the automotive industry, America's biggest steel customer. Here, we've started work on a "mill of the future"—an 80-inch, four-high continuous strip mill which will be the fastest and most powerful facility of its kind in existence. We'll supply to our car-building customers larger coils of sheet steel of the highest quality. And also at Great Lakes Steel, we're increasing ingot capacity by 500,000 tons to 4.2 million tons a year for this division alone.

A NEW KIND OF PLANT FOR A NEW DIVISION. On a 750-acre tract at Portage, Indiana, on the Lake Michigan shore, we're building a totally new plant for our newest division, Midwest Steel Corporation. From it will roll electrolytic tin plate, galvanized sheet steel and other flat rolled products for manufacturers in mid-America—one of the nation's largest consuming districts. These products will be finished from hot-rolled coils to be supplied by our Detroit operations.

STILL MORE TIN PLATE CAPACITY. At our Weirton Steel Company plants in Weirton, West Virginia, and Steubenville, Ohio, we've installed two continuous annealing lines and two electrolytic tin plate lines to increase production and improve the processing of tin plate. Weirton Steel already is one of the world's largest tin plate producers. Other improvements include facilities to increase the production of cold-rolled sheets.

OTHER NEW CONSTRUCTION. A new 48-inch coating line is being installed at Allentown, Pennsylvania, for our Enamelstrip Corporation, which produces a line of decorative plastic and enamel pre-coated steels in coils. At Terre Haute, Indiana, we have enlarged existing plant facilities and completed an addition for our Stran-Steel Corporation, producer of pre-engineered buildings and architectural products.

with a $300 million program now in full swing to produce more of the products most in demand

ACCELERATING RESEARCH. Backstopping all this expansion, we are constructing a new corporation-wide research center at Weirton, where National Steel scientists will accelerate their search for new and better materials, methods and products.

This continued emphasis on facilities for producing more and better products for our customers has made National Steel the fifth-ranked American steel producer and a major supplier of the steels most in demand.

We are convinced that there will be more dramatic advances in the steel industry's future than in its past—advances in which National Steel intends to play a prominent part.

Indefinite Probation Put On Sooners By NCAA Group

Recruiting Fund Cited As Reason

NEW YORK (AP)—The University of Oklahoma, already smarting from its worst football season in 13 seasons, now faces a period of indefinite probation imposed by the executive council of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn.

And the mighty Sooners, three times national champions under the genius of Coach Bud Wilkinson are practically powerless to do anything about the stiff penalties imposed Wednesday.

Under the terms of the probation, Oklahoma cannot participate in any post-season football games and cannot appear on any NCAA-controlled TV programs. No other sport is involved.

This will cost the university, perennial Big Eight football champion, a possible berth in the Orange Bowl and its share of the $209,000 which participating teams in a nationally televised regular-season game now receive.

All this is gone for an indefinite period unless Oklahoma can convince Arthur L. Wood, a booster of the university's athletic program, that he should divulge financial records of a recruiting fund.

Wood, who lives in Oklahoma City, administered an athletic fund which, the NCAA said, was used for improper aid to at least one athlete and improper recruiting of football players.

The fund existed in the period 1952-54. The NCAA investigated Oklahoma in 1954-55 and on Oct. 26, 1955, the university was placed on probation for a two-year period. No additional sanctions were imposed.

But the NCAA said it has now discovered it did not have the full information on the recruiting fund at that time or the Oklahoma penalty might have been different.

Now, the NCAA said in effect, if Wood will disclose complete details of the fund, the association will review Oklahoma's case.

Wood, the NCAA said, has consistently refused requests to make known the records of the fund on the grounds that he would jeopardize his own position.

Wednesday night Wood said he considers the matter a closed issue, that NCAA rules were not violated and that "as a certified public accountant I would be liable to a $10,000 fine for disclosing such information on a confidential basis."

Two Philly Quints Remain Unbeaten On College Front

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Philadelphia, home of the Liberty Bell, and good basketball teams, has another couple of hardwood dandies this season in Villanova and LaSalle.

Representing 50 per cent of the nation's skimpy list of four major unbeatens, both fattened their streaks Wednesday in a doubleheader at the Palestra.

Villanova, maybe the tougher of the two, made it eight in a row with a 87-65 rout of Duquesne after LaSalle had run its unbeaten string to seven by drubbing Canisius 82-68.

Add Temple, Penn and St. Josephs. (Pa), the latter beaten only by top-ranked Cincinnati, and you have five good reasons why the Philadelphia Story of basketball is a strong one again.

Ed Diddle got his 701st coaching victory at Western Kentucky, 86-65 over DePaul; Dayton won its ninth in 12 starts 54-51 over Xavier (0); Temple (9-3) whipped Pitt 82-74 and Holy Cross (7-2) downed Massachusetts 82-58. Marquette romped 98-64 over St. Norbert (Wis), and NYU crushed Fairleigh-Dickinson, 82-44.

Maine won its 10th without a loss 73-33 over Bowdoin, and Virginia nailed its second straight Southern Conference victory, 73-65 over Richmond.

Toledo (8-1) whipped Kent State 73-68, and once-beaten Army and Navy won again—the Cadets over Colgate 91-86 and Navy over Gettysburg 64-61. Virginia resitered an 83-71 thumping of VMI. Syracuse (4-2) handed Fordham its fourth straight loss, 84-65 as Sandy Salz hit for 18 points and Pete Chudy 17. Fordham's John Coalmon led scorers with 26.

Georgetown (DC), with five players in double figures, upset George Washington 86-82, and Seton Hall downed Baltimore Loyola 69-59.

South Learns System Quick For Bowl Tilt

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Players in Saturday's 11th annual Senior Bowl all-star football game must learn their plays in less than a week but South Coach Weeb Ewbank says his team doesn't need that much time.

The coach of the world champion Baltimore Colts said his squad has already mastered the plays, worked out by him and Asst. Coach Charley Winner.

"It's remarkable how fast they have picked up our offense, especially when you consider the fact we have given them more in three days than we would the Colts in two weeks," Ewbank said.

The North team of Coach Jim Lee Howell of the New York Giants is not lacking in brainpower either. Howell introduced his squad to the last of his plays Wednesday morning and by noon the team was running them without missing any assignments.

Senior Bowl practice began Monday.

The 50 players will be going for the $600 which each member of the winning team will receive. The losers will get $500 each.

Kickoff for the televised game is set for 3 p. m. (EST).

Action Continues After Hubbard Is Given TKO

CHICAGO (AP)—There was as much action in the Chicago Stadium ring after the fight Wednesday night as there was during it.

Unbeaten Carl Hubbard of Philadelphia was awarded a seventh-round technical knockout over Stefan Redl, a former refugee from Hungary who now lives in Passaic, N.J.

The decision had chain reaction. Redl's manager, husky Lou Duva, made a bull-like rush into the ring, furiously protesting to Chairman Frank Gilmer of the Illinois Athletic Commission, sitting at ringside.

Redl had been knocked down in the sixth round with a wild Hubbard left and took a mandatory eight count while on his knees. When he arose, he waded into Hubbard with lefts and rights.

Hubbard belted him with a combination and Redl became groggy. By the bell, however, he seemed to have snapped out of it.

"This man is too dazed to continue," Slott said.

Duva then vented his rage. Gilmer and Commissioner Lou Radzienda were so angered by his outburst inside the ring, and before a nationwide television audience, that they ordered Redl's purse held up and told Duva to appear before the commission today.

Aussie Tennis Star Honored

ADELAIDE, Australia. (AP) — Maria Bueno's usually solemn face broke into a broad grin today when she was told that she had been named female "athlete of of the year" in the yearend Associated Press poll.

"That's wonderful but I don't deserve it — it's too big," said the 19-year-old Brazilian girl who last year won both the Wimbledon and U.S. women's tennis championships.

Miss Bueno, a one-time school teachers from Sao Paulo, received 126 votes from the 288 sports writers and broadcasters who participated in the poll.

Maria is playing here in the South Australia Tennis Championships.

"I have aspired for many things in my life but I never expected to rate such a distinction," she said. "There must be plenty of other prominent women in sports who could have been selected."

The only other woman to get more than 100 votes was Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C., leading money winner of women's professional golf, who drew 102 for second place.

Chris Von Saltza of Saratoga, Fla., winner of five gold swimmig medals in the Pan American Games, was third with 43 votes. Sprinter Lucinda Williams of Tennessee State was fourth, followed by Ilsa Konrads, Australia's world record - breaker in swimming.

Philadelphia, Royals Win In Pro Cage Loop

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— Rookie Wilt Chamberlain of Philadelphia has shoved veteran teammate Paul Arizin into the shadows in National Basketball Assn. play but Arizin doesn't mind as long as the Warriors are winning.

"It doesn't bother me," the former Villanova All-America said Wednesday night after he dumped in 34 points to lead the Warriors to a 121-101 victory over Western Division leader St. Louis in the nightcap of a doubleheader. It was their fifth straight victory.

In the opener, Jack Twyman connected for 30 points to boost Cincinnati to a 129-113 triumph over the New York Knicks. This was the only action in the league.

Last year it was Arizin who usually emerged the high scorer and grabbed off the spotlight. But this year it has been Chamberlain, the 7-1 Kansas All-America, most of the time with Arizin second.

Wednesday night was an exception as Chamberlain was the runnerup with 27 points.

Arizin is in his eighth season of NBA play.

Hockey Stars Draw Big Fine

By The Associated Press

A bloodless, stick-wielding draw between Chicago's scoring ace Bobby Hull and Louie Fontinato of the New York Rangers already has cost the National Hockey League stars $100 apiece.

Whether there will be further punishment is up to league President Clarence Campbell.

Campbell, in Montreal, said today he would consider "whether any further action need be taken" when he receives formal reports Saturday from the game's officials.

Both Hull and Fontinato were tossed out of the game Wednesday night by Referee Vern Buffey at the end of the first period when they began slashing at each other with their sticks. No one was hurt, except financially.

This was the main excitement in the New York contest won by Chicago, 2-1. The game had been tied, 1-1 on Camille Henry's 30-footer for the Rangers and Ken Wharram's equalizer later in the period. Rookie Bill Hay's angled 30-footer at 19:31 of the second frame gave Chicago the victory.

In the only other game Wednesday night Toronto whipped Detroit 3-1 on Frank Mahovlich's two goals and assist.

Showdown Set In National League . . .

By BOB DUFFY

The brief vacation is over and district bowlers are back pounding the pines this week.

All eyes will be focused on the tight National League race Monday night when a "natural" is coming up between the two leaders.

As the situation stands now, Tonti Hotel is in first place with 31½ points and Gengarellas is in second with 31.

These two rivals will meet Monday on the last night of the current round in what should be the highlight of the National League bowling for this season.

While the two leaders battle it out, CIO 1212 in third place with 29½ points has an outside chance to sneak in should they split.

Gengarellas moved up on Tonti's last Monday by sweeping three from Homer Laughlin. Tonti's had a rough night, losing one game and total pins to the Turf Bar entry.

DURING the holiday lull, a new high game and series was turned in by Corrine Richards in the Cats and Dogs League.

She set the new women's high game with a 201 and the series mark with 534. CIO 1212 fired a 2229 for the new high three-game series.

TRAVELER'S HOTEL and Eason's Insurance broke on top by sweeping three games in a new round starting for the Big League in East End.

Carter Introduces New Glove . . .

There was quite a bit of laughter about the first golfer who appeared on the links wearing a glove, but now you're not much of a golfer without one.

This may be the same story in bowling, where Carter has introduced what he claims helps him the most — a bowling glove.

Several keglars already are sporting this latest inovation.

By ROGER GREENE
Associated Press Staff Writer

"Who's getting rich?"

That's the challenge raised by the big five railroad unions when the industry sets up a howl about engineers and firemen getting four or five days' pay for a day's work.

The industry, for example, says a typical case is the 1,034-mile run between Chicago and Denver which a fast passenger train covers in 16½ hours.

Since pay is based on a long-established rule of a day's basic pay for each 100 miles, the railroad has to pay 10 1-3 days' pay for each engine crew position on the Chicago-Denver trip.

"All right," say the unions, "if that's the way you want to play, let's analyze it. Let's see who is getting rich on all this fabulous pay."

During the first half of July 1958, engineer M.E. White drove the Burlington Zephyr over the 162-mile stretch between Lincoln, Neb., and Creston, Iowa, on the Chicago-Denver run, averaging 2 hours 51 minutes per trip. For this he received $32.11 a trip on the mileage-pay basis.

In 15 days, White spent 210½ hours on duty or laying over at the far terminal between trips, and he received $481.63, or $2.29 per hour for the total elapsed time he spent in service.

"Is that too much for a highly skilled worker?" the union asks.

"What the engineer actually got paid was $481.63 for 15 trips totalling 42¾ hours of work, or $11.26 an hour. That means he gets paid at the rate of $90.08 for an eight-hour work day or $450.40 for a 40-hour week. No wonder the railroads are taking a licking?"

Union: "What about his layover time at the far terminal? And remember, he doesn't get paid for away-from-home expenses — hotel room and meals — nor does he get paid a differential for night, Sunday or holiday work."

Railroad: "Are we supposed to pay for the time he's sleeping at the far terminal between runs? What company pays its employes for sleep time?"

Ticking off other points raised by the unions, the industry says that in World War II the five train-operating unions accepted a special award of five cents an hour to compensate them for away-from-home expenses. The award remains in the present pay structure.

As for premium pay for working on holidays, the industry says Presidential Emergency Board 116 denied extra holiday pay to trainmen because their mileage-pay rules put them "in a much more favorable position, earnings-wise," than nonoperating employes.

Commenting on the unions' observation that few if any railroad employes are "getting rich," the industry says one reason is the unions' own spread-the-work rules which set a limit on the number of miles train crews may work and hence restrict their earnings.

Some union officials concede privately that mileage-pay and some work rules are obsolete, based on conditions which prevailed half a century or so ago, and that both need a general overhauling.

But they insist that any revision must not result in the firing of thousands of employes.

The 100-mile formula for a day's basic pay—or "unit of work," as the unions prefer to call it—was born in the days when it took considerable sweat and hustle to drive a pokey coal-burning locomotive 100 miles. It wasn't unusual, in those days, for a brawny fireman to shovel 10 to 12 tons of coal in a day's run.

Today, powerful oil - burning diesels zip over the tracks twice as fast as the old Iron Horse, and the fireman, with no furnace to feed, serves chiefly as an extra lookout for possible danger.

Thus the railroads contend they are being forced to perpetuate jobs as outmoded as the chief whip tested in a buggy whip factory. They say it costs them 230 million dollars a year to provide surplus firemen in freight and yard service alone.

But the unions insist the fireman is just as important to railroad safety as the co-pilot of an airliner.

Far from twiddling his thumbs, the unions say, the fireman must keep a constant safety watch on the blind side of the cab—keeping tabs on wayside signals, speed zones, track obstructions, hotboxes, and highway traffic at crossings.

Politics And Finance Among Library's New 'Guide Books'

Guides for the New Year in every facet of living are featured in this week's new book shelf at the Carnegie Public Library, according to Miss Frances Jones, librarian.

Eric Sevareid, noted radio commentator, has assembled thumbnail sketches of presidential hopefuls in "Candidates 1960." There are nine fairly detailed biographies, two of Republicans — Nixon and Rockefeller, and seven portraits of likely Democrats.

Eleven news correspondents have participated in the writing. He describes his book as an attempt to alert the intelligent voter "before the political publicist has subtly or overtly been able to color his judgement."

Financial guidance in the New Year is offered in Benjamin Graham's "Intelligent Investor." This is a revision of a standard work published originally 10 years ago. The author has been a professor of finance in Columbia University and later at the University of California. He includes Dow - Jones predictions through 1964 and he also discusses the problems found in dealing in common stocks.

Domestic concerns can sometimes be alleviated by the perspective offered in books. Dr. Evelyn Millis Duvall has made an original study of inter-personal relations which she sums up in a book, "In-Laws Pro and Con." Surprisingly enough there are some very popular and beloved mothers-in-law. Sisters-in-law, however, are sometimes a thorny problem, according to this study. The library has just received James A. Pike's "If You Marry Outside Your Church." This is excellent counsel on mixed marriages.

"Across the Threshold" is a guide for the Jewish homemaker by Shonie Levi and Sylvia B. Kaplan. It relates the significance of all the Holy Days and customs, includes menus, and even tips on naming the baby and planning a wedding.

For those who hope to find greater pleasure in the arts, books can open doors. George Balanchine's "Complete Stories of the Great Ballets" is dedicated to the audience of today and tomorrow. Some 131 ballets now in the repertories of the world's great ballet companies are described in mood-by-mood action accompanied with photographs. The author, who has been director of the New York City Ballet, also devotes a fourth of the book to students and their interests. Leonard Bernstein's "The Joy of Music" collects between hard covers the television scripts of America's best known music teacher. It is full of photographs and musical examples which render it intriguing even to the layman.

If readers want to spice their New Year with adventure, two new books on Africa should provide a good springboard:

Cmdr. Attilo Gatti has led 10 scientific expeditions through all regions of the dark continent and many of the thrills are recounted in "Africa Is Adventure." The novelist, Elspeth Huxley, went to live in Kenya as a child of 6. Her family's pioneer existence is the subject of "Flame Trees of Thika."

British To Use Big Golf Ball

LONDON (AP) — Britain is going to hold a revolutionary — for Britain — golf tournament next August. Every player will use the larger American ball.

Nothing like that has happened in 100 years of competitive golf in Briatin.

The tournament idea stemmed from a remark made by Dai Rees, captain of the British Ryder Cup team, after his team was beaten by the Americans in this year's competition.

Rees said "I know we were as good as they were from tee to green but around the greens their bigger ball was easier to handle. They beat us there."

Other British critics have suggested that British golfers play the larger ball.

So a British sponsor announced the new tournament today. It will be played at Wentworth, near London, Aug. 18-19-20. Prize money will be $15,400 with $3,500 going to the winner.

Sponsors said they hoped leading American golfers would compete against British Common - wealth stars to help decide the big ball vs. small ball controversy.

Argonauts Sign Tobin Rote For Record $23,000

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Argonauts today have in Tobin Rote the player they hope will boost their football fortunes, but they had to pay a prize never matched since Canadian pro teams began a spending spree 12 years ago.

Rote is a 10-year National Football League quarterback who soared on the Detroit Lions and played out his option in 1959, leaving him a free agent.

His price was a reported $23,000 a season and what amounts to a two-year, no-trade contract.

The pact, made after two days of negotiations, was announced Wednesday.

Rote, 32 this month, actually signed two contracts — one for 1960, the other for 1961. Although no salary terms were disclosed officially, he indicated it was at least as much as the $23,000 Detroit paid him last season.

This would be $1,000 more than the reported $22,000 — the highest previously salary for a player in Canadian football — which quarterback George Ratterman got to play for the Montreal Alouettes in 1951.

Minor Loops Push 'Fan Fun' Program

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Three field representatives will work with minor league baseball teams this year to promote the "it's fun to be a fan" program which is credited with increasing attendance slightly last season.

George M. Trautman, minor leagues president, said that G. E. Gilliland of DeLand, Fla., and Warren LeTarte of Ossining, N. Y., veteran baseball executives, will work with Carl Lundquist, minor leagues public relations director.

Gilliland will be assigned to the Florida State, Alabama-Florida, South Atlantic and Southern Assn. circuits. LeTarte will have the Carolina, New York-Pennsylvania and Eastern leagues.

Lundquist will handle the Three-I, Midwest and Northern leagues.

Quebec Losing Streak Snapped By 'Hat Trick'

By The Associated Press

It took the "hat trick" by Norm Corcoran to pull the Quebec Aces out of a six-game losing streak.

Corcoran fired three goals in sparking the last-place Aces to a 4-2 victory over second - place Providence in an American Hockey League contest at Quebec Wednesday.

Providence's defeat combined with Rochester's 4-3 edge over the Bisons at Buffalo lifted the third-place Americans within two points of the Reds. It also boosted the Americans' margin over fourth-place Buffalo to three points.

In the other game Wednesday night the league-leading Springfield Indians and fifth-place Hershey battled to a 2-2 tie in overtime at Hershey. Sixth - place Cleveland was idle.

Ron Waller, Ex-Ram, Signs With Chargers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ron Waller, former Los Angeles Rams halfback, is signed up for two years with the Los Angeles Chargers of the American Football League. His Ram contract expired last season and the former University of Maryland star signed with the Chargers Wednesday as a free agent.

Rickey Urges Player Pool For Continental

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Branch Rickey is gambling on another revolutionary baseball move—a common player pool aimed at equalizing team strengths—to put the new Continental League in business.

It would mean the virtual rejection of individual team farm systems that Rickey himself pioneered when he ran the St. Louis Cardinals.

The 79-year-old president of the proposed third major league detailed the plan Wednesday as part of a personal campaign to beef up enthusiasm for the league in Minneapolis-St. Paul, which have a continental franchise.

Rickey told a news conference the idea is to prevent wealth from dominating the game. He described current bidding by the major leagues for untried talent as "ruinous."

Under the Continental plan, the league would maintain a staff of scouts who would provide league headquarters with the names of prospects. These would be placed in a pool, subject to thrice-yearly drafts by all teams on the basis of a draw.

Into it also would go players made available by the American and National leagues under agreements Rickey hopes to arrange. He wants the Continental to have a crack at players not retained by the American and National leagues on their lists of 40 active players.

Hargrove Lawyer Will Seek To Have Plea Set Aside

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Attorney Louis A. Turi says a plea of guilty to first-degree murder, entered Monday by Floyd E. Hargrove, should not have been accepted by Painesville Municipal Court.

Hargrove's attorney said he will seek to have the oral plea set aside. Under a new law, Turi said, Hargrove should have been required to enter his plea and waiver of preliminary hearing in writing.

Since this was not done, the court should have ruled that a preliminary hearing was mandatory, he said.

Turi also criticized Lake County authorities for bringing Hargrove into court while he still was apparently under the effects of sodium amytal, a so-called truth serum.

"I think it was a violation of his rights to drag him into court drugged and ask him to plead to a crime which may mean his life," Turi said.

Sentence Of Man, 83, Reduced To 95 Years

The convicted murderer, committed in 1931, will be eligible for parole in 1973 as a result of the board's action. If he lives to his parole eligibility date he will be 96.

Rehearing Denied On Crosley Field Parking Lot Case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court has denied a rehearing on its recent decision paving the way for a parking lot at Crosley Field, home of baseball's Cincinnati Reds.

Property owners near the ball park sought to prevent the city of Cincinnati from appropriating their land for the 2,600-car lot. They contended that condemnation would use public funds for private purposes.

No constitutional question was involved, the court ruled Wednesday in its latest action on the issue.

The baseball club guaranteed it would keep its National League franchise in the city through 1962 if the city approved a two-million-dollar bond issue for the land and the county commissioners agreed to make street improvements in the area costing another million. Cincinnati approved the bond issue.

Schools Complain They're Getting Chased Starlings

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Officials of the Youngstown Board of Education and Youngstown University complain they are getting the birds that Otto Standke, the Kansas bird expert, is chasing out of old haunts in downtown Youngstown.

Standke, who started his war on starlings last Saturday, says he scared the birds off the Mahoning courthouse but denies these are the birds that are flocking to buildings on the northern edge of the downtown district.

"The air was literally black with starlings Tuesday night," said Dr. J. Fred Essig, superintendent of schools. "We had a few before. Now we can count them in the thousands."

Standke, who keeps his method secret, would say only: "If you knew birds' habits like I do, you'd know they don't change buildings. They leave town."

Sword Dancer Won Honors By Beating Older Horses

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Thoroughbred racing in 1959 must go down as Sword Dancer's year. The 3 - year - old chestnut colt from the Brookmeade Stable of Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane developed during the season as one of the finest thoroughbreds of recent years.

Unanimously acclaimed as the American champion, as well as best 3-year-old, the gritty Sword Dancer got away with only one third of the triple crown. He was nosed out by Tomy Lee in the Kentucky Derby, then finished second to Royal Orbit in the Preakness.

But, from then on he was a little tiger. Sword Dancer tangled with older horses in the Metropolitan Handicap, and gave them a whipping. He then handed Bagdad and Royal Orbit a trouncing in the tragic but exciting Belmont Stakes in which Black Hills fell and Eddie Arcaro was injured.

Sword Dancer met older horses again in the Monmouth Park Handicap and won with ease. A week later, perhaps too soon, he finished second to Babu in the Brooklyn Handicap, giving weight to older runners. After winning the Travers at Saratoga against 3-year-olds, he was the absolute king again.

His most sensational victory was in another $100,000 race, the Woodward Stakes at new Aqueduct in late September. Hillsdale, who with Round Table were tops among the older horses, challenged Sword Dancer in the 1¼ mile race billed as the one to settle horse of the year honors.

Hillsdale led, followed by Round Table, until the turn for home. Arcaro had planned to go outside of the two at the top of the stretch, but that route was blocked by Inside Tract. Then Eddie saw an opening as Hillsdale drifted off the rail slightly. Arcaro shot Sword Dancer through the hole, and in a blistering drive got the Brookmeade Colt home first.

In the TRA poll, Round Table was voted the champion older horse. The Kerr Stable 5-year-old was retired to stud after being beaten a second time by Sword Dancer in the Jockey Club Gold Cup at Aqueduct. Round Table, winner of $413,380 in 1959, retired as the world's greatest money winner with $1,749,869.

Other champions in the TRA list were Warfare, best 2-year-old colt; My Dear Girl, champion 2-year-old filly; Silver Spoon, best 3-year-old filly; Tempted, champion older filly; and Ancestor, champion steeplechaser.

Willie Shoemaker, who won the Derby with Tomy Lee and added fame for his rides on Round Table and Sword Dancer, led the jockeys in winners for the fifth year.

Harness racing enjoyed another prosperous year. The season was highlighted when Jamin, the French champion, won the International Trot at Westbury, N. Y. He also scored in California. Diller Hanover won the Hambletonian at DuQuoin, Ill., in straight heats. Outstanding pacers were Bye Bye Byrd and Adios Butler. The latter won the Little Brown Jug and the rich Messenger Stakes.

BRT Committee Picked To Discuss Merger Proposal

CLEVELAND (AP)—A committee has been named by the head of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (BRT) to discuss a merger proposal from the head of another railroad union—the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (BLF & E).

The commmttee is to report back to the current BRT convention, which heard the proposal from H. E. Gilbert, BLF & E president.

The BRT, with 200,000 members, and the 87,000-member BLF & E are the nation's largest railroad operating unions. Gilbert previously has made merger overtures to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, which has 60,000 members, on at least three occasions but has been rebuffed each time.

Gilbert's merger offer was picked up by a BRT delegate, who moved that the convention consider the question.

Indefinite Probation Put On Sooners By NCAA Group

* * * * * *

Recruiting Fund Cited As Reason

NEW YORK (AP)—The University of Oklahoma, already smarting from its worst football season in 13 seasons, now faces a period of indefinite probation imposed by the executive council of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn.

And the mighty Sooners, three times national champions under the genius of Coach Bud Wilkinson are practically powerless to do anything about the stiff penalties imposed Wednesday.

Under the terms of the probation, Oklahoma cannot participate in any post-season football games and cannot appear on any NCAA-controlled TV programs. No other sport is involved.

This will cost the university, perennial Big Eight football champion, a possible berth in the Orange Bowl and its share of the $209,000 which participating teams in a nationally televised regular-season game now receive.

All this is gone for an indefinite period unless Oklahoma can convince Arthur L. Wood, a booster of the university's athletic program, that he should divulge financial records of a recruiting fund.

Wood, who lives in Oklahoma City, administered an athletic fund which, the NCAA said, was used for improper aid to at least one athlete and improper recruiting of football players.

The fund existed in the period 1952-54. The NCAA investigated Oklahoma in 1954-55 and on Oct. 26, 1955, the university was placed on probation for a two-year period. No additional sanctions were imposed.

But the NCAA said it has now discovered it did not have the full information on the recruiting fund at that time or the Oklahoma penalty might have been different.

Now, the NCAA said in effect, if Wood will disclose complete details of the fund, the association will review Oklahoma's case.

Wood, the NCAA said, has consistently refused requests to make known the records of the fund on the grounds that he would jeopardize his own position.

Wednesday night Wood said he considers the matter a closed issue, that NCAA rules were not violated and that "as a certified public accountant I would be liable to a $10,000 fine for disclosing such information on a confidential basis."

Two Philly Quints Remain Unbeaten On College Front

By DON WEISS
Associated Press Sports Writer

Philadelphia, home of the Liberty Bell, and good basketball teams, has another couple of hardwood dandies this season in Villanova and LaSalle.

Representing 50 per cent of the nation's skimpy list of four major unbeatens, both fattened their streaks Wednesday in a doubleheader at the Palestra.

Villanova, maybe the tougher of the two, made it eight in a row with a 87-65 rout of Duquesne after LaSalle had run its unbeaten string to seven by drubbing Canisius 82-68.

Add Temple, Penn and St. Josephs. (Pa), the latter beaten only by top-ranked Cincinnati, and you have five good reasons why the Philadelphia Story of basketball is a strong one again.

Ed Diddle got his 701st coaching victory at Western Kentucky, 86-65 over DePaul; Dayton won its ninth in 12 starts 54-51 over Xavier (O); Temple (9-3) whipped Pitt 82-74 and Holy Cross (7-2) downed Massachusetts 82-58. Marquette romped 98-64 over St. Norbert (Wis), and NYU crushed Fairleigh-Dickinson, 82-44.

Maine won its 10th without a loss 73-33 over Bowdoin, and Virginia nailed its second straight Southern Conference victory, 73-65 over Richmond.

Toledo (8-1) whipped Kent State 73-68, and once-beaten Army and Navy won again—the Cadets over Colgate 91-86 and Navy over Gettysburg 64-61. Virginia resitered an 83-71 thumping of VMI. Syracuse (4-2) handed Fordham its fourth straight loss, 84-65 as Sandy Salz hit for 18 points and Pete Chudy 17. Fordham's John Coalmon led scorers with 26.

Georgetown (DC), with five players in double figures, upset George Washington 86-82, and Seton Hall downed Baltimore Loyola 69-59.

South Learns System Quick For Bowl Tilt

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Players in Saturday's 11th annual Senior Bowl all-star football game must learn their plays in less than a week but South Coach Weeb Ewbank says his team doesn't need that much time.

The coach of the world champion Baltimore Colts said his squad has already mastered the plays, worked out by him and Asst. Coach Charley Winner.

"It's remarkable how fast they have picked up our offense, especially when you consider the fact we have given them more in three days than we would the Colts in two weeks," Ewbank said.

The North team of Coach Jim Lee Howell of the New York Giants is not lacking in brainpower either. Howell introduced his squad to the last of his plays Wednesday morning and by noon the team was running them without missing any assignments.

Senior Bowl practice began Monday.

The 50 players will be going for the $600 which each member of the winning team will receive. The losers will get $500 each.

Kickoff for the televised game is set for 3 p. m. (EST).

Action Continues After Hubbard Is Given TKO

CHICAGO (AP)—There was as much action in the Chicago Stadium ring after the fight Wednesday night as there was during it.

Unbeaten Carl Hubbard of Philadelphia was awarded a seventh-round technical knockout over Stefan Redl, a former refugee from Hungary who now lives in Passaic, N.J.

The decision had chain reaction. Redl's manager, husky Lou Duva, made a bull-like rush into the ring, furiously protesting to Chairman Frank Gilmer of the Illinois Athletic Commission, sitting at ringside.

Hubbard belted him with a combination and Redl became groggy. By the bell, however, he seemed to have snapped out of it.

"This man is too dazed to continue," Slott said.

Duva then vented his rage. Gilmer and Commissioner Lou Radzienda were so angered by his outburst inside the ring, and before a nationwide television audience, that they ordered Redl's purse held up and told Duva to appear before the commission today.

Wooster Coach To Speak At Beaver Local Banquet

Beaver Local's football team will be honored at a coverdish dinner Monday night at 6:30 in the school gymnasium.

Philip Shipe, head football coach at Wooster College, will be guest speaker for the event sponsored by the Beaver Local Booster Club.

Under Shipe, Wooster tied for the Ohio Conference title this past season. A graduate of Ohio Northern, Shipe coached at Ada, Fremont and Defiance High School before coming to Wooster.

George Dunn, Booster Club president, will be master of ceremonies.

The Rev. Robert Fogal of the Longs Run Presbyterian Church will give the invocation.

The banquet, originally set for Jan. 13, was moved up to Monday.

Philadelphia, Royals Win In Pro Cage Loop

PHILADELPHIA (AP)— Rookie Wilt Chamberlain of Philadelphia has shoved veteran teammate Paul Arizin into the shadows in National Basketball Assn. play but Arizin doesn't mind as long as the Warriors are winning.

"It doesn't bother me," the former Villanova All-America said Wednesday night after he dumped in 34 points to lead the Warriors to a 121-101 victory over Western Division leader St. Louis in the nightcap of a doubleheader. It was their fifth straight victory.

In the opener, Jack Twyman connected for 30 points to boost Cincinnati to a 129-113 triumph over the New York Knicks. This was the only action in the league.

Last year it was Arizin who usually emerged the high scorer and grabbed off the spotlight. But this year it has been Chamberlain, the 7-1 Kansas All-America, most of the time with Arizin second.

Wednesday night was an exception as Chamberlain was the runnerup with 27 points.

Arizin is in his eighth season of NBA play.

Hockey Stars Draw Big Fine

By The Associated Press

A bloodless, stick-wielding draw between Chicago's scoring ace Bobby Hull and Louie Fontinato of the New York Rangers already has cost the National Hockey League stars $100 apiece.

Whether there will be further punishment is up to league President Clarence Campbell.

Campbell, in Montreal, said today he would consider "whether any further action need be taken" when he receives formal reports Saturday from the game's officials.

Both Hull and Fontinato were tossed out of the game Wednesday night by Referee Vern Buffey at the end of the first period when they began slashing at each other with their sticks. No one was hurt, except financially.

This was the main excitement in the New York contest won by Chicago, 2-1. The game had been tied, 1-1 on Camille Henry's 30-footer for the Rangers and Ken Wharram's equalizer later in the period. Rookie Bill Hay's angled 30-footer at 19:31 of the second frame gave Chicago the victory.

In the only other game Wednesday night Toronto whipped Detroit 3-1 on Frank Mahovlich's two goals and assist.

Tribe Signs Johnson, Veteran Relief Hurler

An eight-year major league veteran, the righthander compiled a 40-23 won-lost record with the Milwaukee Braves and the Baltimore Orioles, who released him after the 1959 season in which he won four and lost one.

As the situation stands now, Tonti Hotel is in first place with 31½ points and Gengarellas is in second with 31.

These two rivals will meet Monday on the last night of the current round in what should be the highlight of the National League bowling for this season.

Gengarellas moved up on Tonti's last Monday by sweeping three from Homer Laughlin. Tonti's had a rough night, losing one game and total pins to the Turf Bar entry.

DURING the holiday lull, a new high game and series was turned in by Corrine Richards in the Cats and Dogs League.

TRAVELER'S HOTEL and Eason's Insurance broke on top by sweeping three games in a new round starting for the Big League in East End.

Carter Introduces New Glove . . .

There was quite a bit of laughter about the first golfer who appeared on the links wearing a glove, but now you're not much of a golfer without one.

This may be the same story in bowling, where Carter has introduced what he claims helps him the most — a bowling glove.

Several keglars already are sporting this latest inovation.

Aussie Tennis Star Honored

ADELAIDE, Australia. (AP) — Maria Bueno's usually solemn face broke into a broad grin today when she was told that she had been named female "athlete of of the year" in the yearend Associated Press poll.

"That's wonderful but I don't deserve it — it's too big," said the 19-year-old Brazilian girl who last year won both the Wimbledon and U.S. women's tennis championships.

Miss Bueno, a one-time school teachers from Sao Paulo, received 126 votes from the 288 sports writers and broadcasters who participated in the poll.

Maria is playing here in the South Australia Tennis Championships.

"I have aspired for many things in my life but I never expected to rate such a distinction," she said. "There must be plenty of other prominent women in sports who could have been selected."

The only other woman to get more than 100 votes was Betsy Rawls of Spartanburg, S.C., leading money winner of women's professional golf, who drew 102 for second place.

Chris Von Saltza of Saratoga, Fla., winner of five gold swimmig medals in the Pan American Games, was third with 43 votes. Sprinter Lucinda Williams of Tennessee State was fourth, followed by Ilsa Konrads, Australia's world record - breaker in swimming.

Neighbor Children Can Cause Problems

With neighbor children, there's many a problem hard to solve. A mother of two children (girl, 5 and boy, 6) writes from Georgia: "The children around our particular street do not fight physically, but with words. They seem to enjoy snubbing and unfriendliness in general to one child. "Since these children live on either side and in front of us, this can't be ignored any longer. "They say ugly things like, 'We don't want to play with you,' 'Get out of my yard,' 'We don't like you,' 'You have an ugly dress on,' etc. My children won't do a thing or even make a reply. They just come inside and play alone or go into their backyard and play alone. They don't cry; they just seem bewildered.

By Garry Meyers

"I HAVE tried to tell them to just pretend they don't care. But they evidently don't know how to pretend well enough to hide their feelings.

"The situation has grown so that neither of my children wants to play with these children. They only give the reason that 'They won't play with us.' But I feel it is because they are trying to avoid harsh words. It distresses me, because I know they have to learn to get along with all types of children."

My reply, in part:

I can see how you are distressed over this problem. Some children can be very cruel. When they gang up on one or more neighbor children, they can do a great deal of damage. But it is always hard to deal with other people's children.

I have a notion that your children are wise in not talking back or saying anything ugly to those other children. I doubt whether you are going to help by urging them to be aggressive.

Even when you often talk with them about how mean the other children are, you can do harm. While you should not forbid their wanting to play with the other children, you should not press them to do so.

PERHAPS YOU should try to win the good will of those children yourself. When you know something good about them, tell of it in the presence of their parents.

Now and then you might invite them to your home. Maybe you could set up some quiet games for all of them to play. Or you could read to the whole group or set them to making one or several things they could work at together.

While these children are present, you might study your own children and try to learn if they have ways that could cause the children in the neighborhood not to like them.

Family Of Five Saved As Fumes Are Detected

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A family of five was saved from possible death here early today when firemen discovered their home was pervaded by carbon monoxide.

Charles Raabe, 30, his wife, Barbara, 30, and their children Bob, 7, Carol, 6, and Fred, 4, were treated in Mt. Carmel Hospital for carbon monoxide poisoning.

Firemen said the mother became alarmed when, upon returning from a church meeting, she found the rest of the family suffering headaches. She told firemen she earlier had suffered a headache but it had cleared after she left the house.

Officials said the concentration of the gas in the house probably would have been fatal if it had gone undetected until morning. The house is in a new addition on the west edge of the city. Officials said the gas was coming from a gas furnace.

Fate Of Father Of 4 In Hands Of Auditor

FREMONT, Ohio (AP) — Sandusky County Auditor Charles J. Hammer, the only official who can free a game violator here, is faced with judging the fate of a father of four children.

The father is Walter Stacey, 27, of Bay View, who is in the county jail serving a 421-day sentence to pay for four hen pheasants at the rate of $1 a day for each day in jail.

Stacey was fined $400 and assessed $21.80 in costs for illegal possession of the pheasants. He said he couldn't pay, because he and his wife and children are on relief in Erie County.

If the young father appeals to Hammer, pleads poverty and Hammer is satisfied the claim is true, Stacey can be released. So far he has served 41 days of the sentence.

Tape Measure Gives Figure Facts

Place hands on either side of your waist, thumbs pointing back, forefingers encircling waist in front, remaining fingers spread wide apart. Press down and in. This is vital territory since excess pounds are prone to settle on the middle measurement. Weight on the waist and abdomen cramps your style.

By Ida Jean Kain

To get the true facts, get out the tape and measure. Borrow the children's crayons so you can mark your present measurements —in red.

With excess weight, all measurements will be too large, but some may be more out of proportion than others.

Using the bust measurement as the gauge, the waistline is rightly proportioned at 8 to 10 inches less than the bust circumference. The average is 8½ inches less. The abdomen should have only a slight curve and ideally should measure from one-half to two and a half inches smaller than the bust. The hip measurement will vary with body type. Ultra-streamlined hips measure the same as the bust.

Hips that measure from 1 to 2 inches larger than the bust are average. Hips that measure 3 to 4 inches larger than the bust are termed full.

There is never much question as to where your figure needs slimming and the place to begin is usually in the middle. Tomorrow: Special exercises.

British To Use Big Golf Ball

LONDON (AP) — Britain is going to hold a revolutionary — for Britain — golf tournament next August. Every player will use the larger American ball.

Nothing like that has happened in 100 years of competitive golf in Briatin.

The tournament idea stemmed from a remark made by Dai Rees, captain of the British Ryder Cup team, after his team was beaten by the Americans in this year's competition.

Rees said "I know we were as good as they were from tee to green but around the greens their bigger ball was easier to handle. They beat us there."

Other British critics have suggested that British golfers play the larger ball.

So a British sponsor announced the new tournament today. It will be played at Wentworth, near London, Aug. 18-19-20. Prize money will be $15,400 with $3,500 going to the winner.

Sponsors said they hoped leading American golfers would compete against British Common - wealth stars to help decide the big ball vs. small ball controversy.

Argonauts Sign Tobin Rote For Record $23,000

TORONTO (AP) — The Toronto Argonauts today have in Tobin Rote the player they hope will boost their football fortunes, but they had to pay a prize never matched since Canadian pro teams began a spending spree 12 years ago.

Rote is a 10-year National Football League quarterback who soared on the Detroit Lions and played out his option in 1959, leaving him a free agent.

His price was a reported $23,000 a season and what amounts to a two-year, no-trade contract.

The pact, made after two days of negotiations, was announced Wednesday.

Rote, 32 this month, actually signed two contracts — one for 1960, the other for 1961. Although no salary terms were disclosed officially, he indicated it was at least as much as the $23,000 Detroit paid him last season.

This would be $1,000 more than the reported $22,000 — the highest previously salary for a player in Canadian football — which quarterback George Ratterman got to play for the Montreal Alouettes in 1951.

Minor Loops Push 'Fan Fun' Program

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Three field representatives will work with minor league baseball teams this year to promote the "it's fun to be a fan" program which is credited with increasing attendance slightly last season.

George M. Trautman, minor leagues president, said that G. E. Gilliland of DeLand, Fla., and Warren LeTarte of Ossining, N. Y., veteran baseball executives, will work with Carl Lundquist, minor leagues public relations director.

Gilliland will be assigned to the Florida State, Alabama-Florida, South Atlantic and Southern Assn. circuits. LeTarte will have the Carolina, New York-Pennsylvania and Eastern leagues.

Lundquist will handle the Three-I, Midwest and Northern leagues.

Quebec Losing Streak Snapped By 'Hat Trick'

By The Associated Press

It took the "hat trick" by Norm Corcoran to pull the Quebec Aces out of a six-game losing streak.

Corcoran fired three goals in sparking the last-place Aces to a 4-2 victory over second - place Providence in an American Hockey League contest at Quebec Wednesday.

Providence's defeat combined with Rochester's 4-3 edge over the Bisons at Buffalo lifted the third-place Americans within two points of the Reds. It also boosted the Americans' margin over fourth-place Buffalo to three points.

In the other game Wednesday night the league-leading Springfield Indians and fifth-place Hershey battled to a 2-2 tie in overtime at Hershey. Sixth - place Cleveland was idle.

Ron Waller, Ex-Ram, Signs With Chargers

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Ron Waller, former Los Angeles Rams halfback, is signed up for two years with the Los Angeles Chargers of the American Football League. His Ram contract expired last season and the former University of Maryland star signed with the Chargers Wednesday as a free agent.

Rickey Urges Player Pool For Continental

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Branch Rickey is gambling on another revolutionary baseball move—a common player pool aimed at equalizing team strengths—to put the new Continental League in business.

It would mean the virtual rejection of individual team farm systems that Rickey himself pioneered when he ran the St. Louis Cardinals.

The 79-year-old president of the proposed third major league detailed the plan Wednesday as part of a personal campaign to beef up enthusiasm for the league in Minneapolis-St. Paul, which have a continental franchise.

Rickey told a news conference the idea is to prevent wealth from dominating the game. He described current bidding by the major leagues for untried talent as "ruinous."

Under the Continental plan, the league would maintain a staff of scouts who would provide league headquarters with the names of prospects. These would be placed in a pool, subject to thrice-yearly drafts by all teams on the basis of a draw.

Into it also would go players made available by the American and National leagues under agreements Rickey hopes to arrange. He wants the Continental to have a crack at players not retained by the American and National leagues on their lists of 40 active players.

Hargrove Lawyer Will Seek To Have Plea Set Aside

PAINESVILLE, Ohio (AP)—Attorney Louis A. Turi says a plea of guilty to first-degree murder, entered Monday by Floyd E. Hargrove, should not have been accepted by Painesville Municipal Court.

Hargrove's attorney said he will seek to have the oral plea set aside. Under a new law, Turi said, Hargrove should have been required to enter his plea and waiver of preliminary hearing in writing.

Since this was not done, the court should have ruled that a preliminary hearing was mandatory, he said.

Turi also criticized Lake County authorities for bringing Hargrove into court while he still was apparently under the effects of sodium amytal, a so-called truth serum.

"I think it was a violation of his rights to drag him into court drugged and ask him to plead to a crime which may mean his life," Turi said.

Sentence Of Man, 83, Reduced To 95 Years

The convicted murderer, committed in 1931, will be eligible for parole in 1973 as a result of the board's action. If he lives to his parole eligibility date he will be 96.

Rehearing Denied On Crosley Field Parking Lot Case

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The Ohio Supreme Court has denied a rehearing on its recent decision paving the way for a parking lot at Crosley Field, home of baseball's Cincinnati Reds.

Property owners near the ball park sought to prevent the city of Cincinnati from appropriating their land for the 2,600-car lot. They contended that condemnation would use public funds for private purposes.

No constitutional question was involved, the court ruled Wednesday in its latest action on the issue.

The baseball club guaranteed it would keep its National League franchise in the city through 1962 if the city approved a two-million-dollar bond issue for the land and the county commissioners agreed to make street improvements in the area costing another million. Cincinnati approved the bond issue.

Schools Complain They're Getting Chased Starlings

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — Officials of the Youngstown Board of Education and Youngstown University complain they are getting the birds that Otto Standke, the Kansas bird expert, is chasing out of old haunts in downtown Youngstown.

Standke, who started his war on starlings last Saturday, says he scared the birds off the Mahoning courthouse but denies these are the birds that are flocking to buildings on the northern edge of the downtown district.

"The air was literally black with starlings Tuesday night," said Dr. J. Fred Essig, superintendent of schools. "We had a few before. Now we can count them in the thousands."

Standke, who keeps his method secret, would say only: "If you knew birds' habits like I do, you'd know they don't change buildings. They leave town."

Sword Dancer Won Honors By Beating Older Horses

By JOHN CHANDLER
Associated Press Sports Writer

Thoroughbred racing in 1959 must go down as Sword Dancer's year. The 3 - year - old chestnut colt from the Brookmeade Stable of Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane developed during the season as one of the finest thoroughbreds of recent years.

Unanimously acclaimed as the American champion, as well as best 3-year-old, the gritty Sword Dancer got away with only one third of the triple crown. He was nosed out by Tomy Lee in the Kentucky Derby, then finished second to Royal Orbit in the Preakness.

But, from then on he was a little tiger. Sword Dancer tangled with older horses in the Metropolitan Handicap, and gave them a whipping. He then handed Bagdad and Royal Orbit a trouncing in the tragic but exciting Belmont Stakes in which Black Hills fell and Eddie Arcaro was injured.

Sword Dancer met older horses again in the Monmouth Park Handicap and won with ease. A week later, perhaps too soon, he finished second to Babu in the Brooklyn Handicap, giving weight to older runners. After winning the Travers at Saratoga against 3-year-olds, he was the absolute king again.

His most sensational victory was in another $100,000 race, the Woodward Stakes at new Aqueduct in late September. Hillsdale, who with Round Table were tops among the older horses, challenged Sword Dancer in the 1¼ mile race billed as the one to settle horse of the year honors.

Hillsdale led, followed by Round Table, until the turn for home. Arcaro had planned to go outside of the two at the top of the stretch, but that route was blocked by Inside Tract. Then Eddie saw an opening as Hillsdale drifted off the rail slightly. Arcaro shot Sword Dancer through the hole, and in a blistering drive got the Brookmeade Colt home first.

In the TRA poll, Round Table was voted the champion older horse. The Kerr Stable 5-year-old was retired to stud after being beaten a second time by Sword Dancer in the Jockey Club Gold Cup at Aqueduct. Round Table, winner of $413,380 in 1959, retired as the world's greatest money winner with $1,749,869.

Other champions in the TRA list were Warfare, best 2-year-old colt; My Dear Girl, champion 2-year-old filly; Silver Spoon, best 3-year-old filly; Tempted, champion older filly; and Ancestor, champion steeplechaser.

Willie Shoemaker, who won the Derby with Tomy Lee and added fame for his rides on Round Table and Sword Dancer, led the jockeys in winners for the fifth year.

Harness racing enjoyed another prosperous year. The season was highlighted when Jamin, the French champion, won the International Trot at Westbury, N. Y. He also scored in California. Diller Hanover won the Hambletonian at DuQuoin, Ill., in straight heats. Outstanding pacers were Bye Bye Byrd and Adios Butler. The latter won the Little Brown Jug and the rich Messenger Stakes.

BRT Committee Picked To Discuss Merger Proposal

CLEVELAND (AP)—A committee has been named by the head of the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen (BRT) to discuss a merger proposal from the head of another railroad union—the Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen (BLF & E).

The commmttee is to report back to the current BRT convention, which heard the proposal from H. E. Gilbert, BLF & E president.

The BRT, with 200,000 members, and the 87,000-member BLF & E are the nation's largest railroad operating unions. Gilbert previously has made merger overtures to the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, which has 60,000 members, on at least three occasions but has been rebuffed each time.

Gilbert's merger offer was picked up by a BRT delegate, who moved that the convention consider the question.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Neighbor Children Can Cause Problems

With neighbor children, there's many a problem hard to solve. A mother of two children (girl, 5 and boy, 6) writes from Georgia: "The children around our particular street do not fight physically, but with words. They seem to enjoy snubbing and unfriendliness in general to one child. "Since these children live on either side and in front of us, this can't be ignored any longer. "They say ugly things like, 'We don't want to play with you,' 'Get out of my yard,' 'We don't like you,' 'You have an ugly dress on,' etc. My children won't do a thing or even make a reply. They just come inside and play alone or go into their backyard and play alone. They don't cry; they just seem bewildered.

"I HAVE tried to tell them to just pretend they don't care. But they evidently don't know how to pretend well enough to hide their feelings.

"The situation has grown so that neither of my children wants to play with these children. They only give the reason that 'They won't play with us.' But I feel it is because they are trying to avoid harsh words. It distresses me, because I know they have to learn to get along with all types of children."

My reply, in part:

I can see how you are distressed over this problem. Some children can be very cruel. When they gang up on one or more neighbor children, they can do a great deal of damage. But it is always hard to deal with other people's children.

I have a notion that your children are wise in not talking back or saying anything ugly to those other children. I doubt whether you are going to help by urging them to be aggressive.

Even when you often talk with them about how mean the other children are, you can do harm. While you should not forbid their wanting to play with the other children, you should not press them to do so.

PERHAPS YOU should try to win the good will of those children yourself. When you know something good about them, tell of it in the presence of their parents.

Now and then you might invite them to your home. Maybe you could set up some quiet games for all of them to play. Or you could read to the whole group or set them to making one or several things they could work at together.

While these children are present, you might study your own children and try to learn if they have ways that could cause the children in the neighborhood not to like them.

My bulletins, "Your Child and His Playmates" and "Tot Learning to Be Sociable," may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Family Of Five Saved As Fumes Are Detected

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A family of five was saved from possible death here early today when firemen discovered their home was pervaded by carbon monoxide.

Charles Raabe, 30, his wife, Barbara, 30, and their children Bob, 7, Carol, 6, and Fred, 4, were treated in Mt. Carmel Hospital for carbon monoxide poisoning.

Firemen said the mother became alarmed when, upon returning from a church meeting, she found the rest of the family suffering headaches. She told firemen she earlier had suffered a headache but it had cleared after she left the house.

Officials said the concentration of the gas in the house probably would have been fatal if it had gone undetected until morning. The house is in a new addition on the west edge of the city. Officials said the gas was coming from a gas furnace.

Fate Of Father Of 4 In Hands Of Auditor

FREMONT, Ohio (AP) — Sandusky County Auditor Charles J. Hammer, the only official who can free a game violator here, is faced with judging the fate of a father of four children.

The father is Walter Stacey, 27, of Bay View, who is in the county jail serving a 421-day sentence to pay for four hen pheasants at the rate of $1 a day for each day in jail.

Stacey was fined $400 and assessed $21.80 in costs for illegal possession of the pheasants. He said he couldn't pay, because he and his wife and children are on relief in Erie County.

If the young father appeals to Hammer, pleads poverty and Hammer is satisfied the claim is true, Stacey can be released. So far he has served 41 days of the sentence.

Tape Measure Gives Figure Facts

Place hands on either side of your waist, thumbs pointing back, forefingers encircling waist in front, remaining fingers spread wide apart. Press down and in. This is vital territory since excess pounds are prone to settle on the middle measurement. Weight on the waist and abdomen cramps your style.

By Ida Jean Kain

To get the true facts, get out the tape and measure. Borrow the children's crayons so you can mark your present measurements —in red.

With excess weight, all measurements will be too large, but some may be more out of proportion than others.

Using the bust measurement as the gauge, the waistline is rightly proportioned at 8 to 10 inches less than the bust circumference. The average is 8½ inches less. The abdomen should have only a slight curve and ideally should measure from one-half to two and a half inches smaller than the bust. The hip measurement will vary with body type. Ultra-streamlined hips measure the same as the bust.

Hips that measure from 1 to 2 inches larger than the bust are average. Hips that measure 3 to 4 inches larger than the bust are termed full.

There is never much question as to where your figure needs slimming and the place to begin is usually in the middle. Tomorrow: Special exercises.

Supreme Court Gets Case Started At Bingo

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—A legal case that began at a church bingo game has reached Ohio's highest court.

The State Supreme Court received an appeal Wednesday from a $20,000 award to Elizabeth Blankenship of Cincinnati. Hamilton County courts made the award after she claimed in a lawsuit that she suffered back injuries when her chair collapsed Aug. 2, 1952, at St. Joseph's Church. The suit named Archbishop Karl J. Alter of Cincinnati as defendant.

Democratic Majority Re-Elects Republican

OSWEGO, Kan. (AP) — The Democratic majority on the Labette County Commission Wednesday re-elected the lone Republican member as chairman.

The two Democrats couldn't agree which one of them should have the chairmanship. So they settled the matter by re-electing Dale Westervest.

Police Pension Board Reorganization Slated

The beginning of a new biennium has cleared the way for the annual reorganization of the Police Pension Board, which administers the police department pension system.

Atty. Jason H. Brookes is chairman; O. Earl Greenawalt, vice chairman, and Lt. Mike Winters Jr., secretary. New Council representatives on the board, appointed Monday by President Charles N. Edwards, are John A. Melvin and Clinton R. Seevers.

They replace George E. Willshaw and Robert W. Sample Jr., whose Council terms expired at the end of 1959. The sixth member of the board is Patrolman Charles E. (Bill) Tice. The board is comprised of two public representatives, two councilmen and two members of the police department. No date has been set for the reorganization meeting, Atty. Brookes said.

Fifth District Judge Won't Seek New Term

MILLERSBURG, Ohio (AP) — Judge Robert B. Putnam, who has sat on the Fifth District Court of Appeals for 18 years, will not be a candidate for another term.

The veteran jurist announced Wednesday that he plans to retire when his present term ends in February, 1961. He also served 12 years as a common pleas judge in Holmes County.

Judge Leland Rutherford of Morrow County Common Pleas Court in Mount Gilead announced immediately that he would be a candidate for the appeals bench in the May primary. Both Rutherford and Putnam are Republicans, and Rutherford has been a judge 16 years.

Stark County Common Pleas Judge Paul Van Nostran also said he may seek the GOP nomination.

Putnam, 68, said reasons of health spurred his decision to retire.

Classes will begin Jan. 18 and meet every Monday and Wednesday from 7 to 9 p. m. for a 10-week period. To form a class, 20 or more persons must register, except for the comptometer class which requires only 10.

Police Pension Board Reorganization Slated

The beginning of a new biennium has cleared the way for the annual reorganization of the Police Pension Board, which administers the police department pension system.

Atty. Jason H. Brookes is chairman; O. Earl Greenawalt, vice chairman, and Lt. Mike Winters Jr., secretary. New Council representatives on the board, appointed Monday by President Charles N. Edwards, are John A. Melvin and Clinton R. Seevers.

They replace George E. Willshaw and Robert W. Sample Jr., whose Council terms expired at the end of 1959. The sixth member of the board is Patrolman Charles E. (Bill) Tice. The board is comprised of two public representatives, two councilmen and two members of the police department. No date has been set for the reorganization meeting, Atty. Brookes said.

Fifth District Judge Won't Seek New Term

MILLERSBURG, Ohio (AP) — Judge Robert B. Putnam, who has sat on the Fifth District Court of Appeals for 18 years, will not be a candidate for another term.

The veteran jurist announced Wednesday that he plans to retire when his present term ends in February, 1961. He also served 12 years as a common pleas judge in Holmes County.

Judge Leland Rutherford of Morrow County Common Pleas Court in Mount Gilead announced immediately that he would be a candidate for the appeals bench in the May primary. Both Rutherford and Putnam are Republicans, and Rutherford has been a judge 16 years.

Stark County Common Pleas Judge Paul Van Nostran also said he may seek the GOP nomination.

Farmers Given Reminder On Tax

Most farmers must pay a federal self-employment tax for 1959, Melvin J. Burton, director of internal revenue for Cleveland District, reminded today.

He said the rate of self-employment tax for taxable years beginning in 1959 is 3¾ per cent, and is in addition to any income tax payable.

Under the Federal Social Security law, Burton said, Social Security taxes are paid by employes and their employers, and the self-employment tax must be paid by persons self-employed. These taxes are used to pay old-age, survivors and disability benefits under the Federal Social Security program, he said.

Burton explained a self-employed person is one who operates his own business. A farmer who operates a farm, either on his own land or land rented from someone else, is self-employed. This is true, he said, even though they may employ someone else to do the farm work and not live on the farm himself.

Burton reminded farmers they must file Federal income tax returns and pay any self-employment tax due, even though they owe no income tax.

Ordinarily, he added, no self-employment tax is due unless net earnings from self-employment amount to $400 or more for the year.

However, he continued, farmers who have actual net earnings from the operation of their farms of less than $400 may, under certain circumstances, elect to pay the self-employment tax and may qualify to receive benefits under the Social Security system.

Garfield Group Votes Affiliation With PTA

The Garfield Parent-Teacher League Tuesday night voted to become affiliated with the City PTA Federation.

Tentative plans were discussed for the spring carnival.

Lunch was served by the fifth grade homeroom mothers.

Out Of The Air

By MARIE TORRE

Kate Smith To Stick With Vocal Talent

What brings Kate Smith back to weekly television this month ought to summon almost as much anticipation among music-hungry viewers as the news that she is returning. It's an all-music show, plain and uncomplicated, the kind singers haven't been making. Not for TV, anyway!

Marie Torre

In modern-day television, the TV singer goes far out of his way to distract viewers from the very talent that earned him a show. He dances. He jokes. He acts. He utilizes rooftop settings, fancy trappings and disappearing stages.

And when all is said and done he exhibits more amateur talent than the professional talent for which he's known.

NOW THE WOMAN Kate never has learned to treat a gift from God with irreverence.

The "star" of her coming series, scheduled to alight at 7:30 p.m. on Jan. 25 (Monday), will be the golden voice of Kate Smith, that wide, but not the widest, ray of sunshine now that a diet has trimmed her down to pleasing proportions.

The series represents a turnabout for Miss Smith as well as her long-time manager, Ted Collins, whose heart attack in 1956 caused a retrenchment of the singer's professional activities.

Both vowed they never again would undertake a TV series, but show people like all women, enjoy the prerogative of changing their minds.

"UNTIL RECENTLY," says Collins, "we were dead serious about staying off weekly television. Who needs the pressures? And we don't, to be honest about it, need the money.

"But we couldn't resist this opportunity, chiefly because nobody is doing an all-music show on TV. Every singer's show I see is overproduced, full of starry guests, trick sets and at least 86 dancers.

"All we intend to show is Kate singing, maybe with a little choral support and a piano. I hope it'll be a refreshing change from gangsters, private eyes and "Laramie" for Monday night viewers."

To Collins, who will act as executive producer of the show, another appealing aspect of the format is that it will not burden him with the problem of hunting for star guests.

"BOOKING GUESTS has become an impossible job," remarked Collins. "You go to the talent agencies and they offer you the same tired seven names, none of whom wants money for a performance, but a swap appearance deal.

"I know. I've been talking with agency people lately about guests for two specials Kate is supposed to do this season but now I doubt they'll be done at all."

If he says this with the security of one who enjoys financial independence, be assured that he does.

As he says about Miss Smith's coming series, "If the show is scrapped one week after it starts, not a check of ours will bounce."

HOLLYWOOD producer Sam Goldwyn has affixed a five-million-dollar price tag on a library of 19 feature films, including 11 pre-1948 features and eight post-1948 films. Goldwyn would retain theatrical and editing rights to all films.

The Sunday CBS Television Workshop will open, appropriately enough, with a play written by a young author new to television. The author is Lewis John Carlino and his work is titled "The Brick and the Rose." Opening day is Jan. 24 at noon.

NBC's coming Saturday night public affairs series, "Focus 1960," to be launched this month, has a formidable goal: "The contents will be of such nature as to capture the Sunday morning newspaper headlines."

HAVING ALWAYS played the sedulous ape to motion pictures, television—ABC, to be exact—has come around to duplicating the Biblical drama. Two of them, based on the life of David, have been promised for the 1960-61 season by ABC, which has engaged William Goetz to create the one-hour dramas. . . .

The uncertain future of the high-minded "The Play of the Week," whose troubles stem from insufficient sponsorship rather than feeble ratings, has inspired a campaign to save the show, among book publishers. The project was initiated by publisher Lyle Stuart, who urges the book industry to sponsor the series. . . .

Marty Allen, half of the comedy team of Allen and Rossi, was lauded as "another Jimmy Savo" on a recent Perry Como show, and his talent agency (General Artists) believes it. The agency has acquired movie rights to the Jimmy Savo story for Allen.

THE BATTERED and bruised rating surveys face more adversity.

A bill calling for a law to license poll takers, rating services and survey groups will be introduced in the New York State Legislature in a couple of weeks by Charles Henderson (R) of Hornell, N.Y.

Henderson, incidentally, is owner and operator of radio station WLEA at Hornell. He now has a suit pending against A. C. Nielsen claiming damges of $50,000, based on a survey he claims Nielsen made which damaged him.

Stripped Sedan Left For Chester Disposal

Mayor Burton Ward said at a meeting of Council Wednesday night the car was found at a 1st St. service station three weeks ago with a note stating the owner would return.

About two weeks ago the man returned, drove the car to Columbia Dr. and took the wheels, battery, radio and almost all other removable parts, according to the mayor, who said the city will now apparently have to dispose of the vehicle.

$1,300 Loss Set For Fire

Fire caused some $1,300 damage to a two - story frame home on Route 39 about three - quarters a mile from Wellsville at 3:20 a. m. today.

The blaze routed Austin Casto of Wellsville R. D. 1 from his bed. He ran to the highway and flagged down a passing trucker who notified the Wellsville fire department.

The blaze started in the kitchen, firemen said. Casto told firemen he had been working there just before going to bed. He believes he either dropped a lighted match or more likely hot cigarette ashes in a basket of clothing along side a stove.

Farmers Given Reminder On Tax

Most farmers must pay a federal self-employment tax for 1959, Melvin J. Burton, director of internal revenue for Cleveland District, reminded today.

He said the rate of self-employment tax for taxable years beginning in 1959 is 3¾ per cent, and is in addition to any income tax payable.

Under the Federal Social Security law, Burton said, Social Security taxes are paid by employes and their employers, and the self-employment tax must be paid by persons self-employed. These taxes are used to pay old-age, survivors and disability benefits under the Federal Social Security program, he said.

Burton explained a self-employed person is one who operates his own business. A farmer who operates a farm, either on his own land or land rented from someone else, is self-employed. This is true, he said, even though they may employ someone else to do the farm work and not live on the farm himself.

Burton reminded farmers they must file Federal income tax returns and pay any self-employment tax due, even though they owe no income tax.

Ordinarily, he added, no self-employment tax is due unless net earnings from self-employment amount to $400 or more for the year.

However, he continued, farmers who have actual net earnings from the operation of their farms of less than $400 may, under certain circumstances, elect to pay the self-employment tax and may qualify to receive benefits under the Social Security system.

Garfield Group Votes Affiliation With PTA

The Garfield Parent-Teacher League Tuesday night voted to become affiliated with the City PTA Federation.

The group decided to purchase an appropriate uniform for the school guard at Mulberry St. and Pennsylvania Ave.

Tentative plans were discussed for the spring carnival.

Lunch was served by the fifth grade homeroom mothers.

Out Of The Air

By MARIE TORRE

Kate Smith To Stick With Vocal Talent

What brings Kate Smith back to weekly television this month ought to summon almost as much anticipation among music-hungry viewers as the news that she is returning. It's an all-music show, plain and uncomplicated, the kind singers haven't been making. Not for TV, anyway!

Marie Torre

In modern-day television, the TV singer goes far out of his way to distract viewers from the very talent that earned him a show. He dances. He jokes. He acts. He utilizes rooftop settings, fancy trappings and disappearing stages.

And when all is said and done he exhibits more amateur talent than the professional talent for which he's known.

NOW THE WOMAN Kate never has learned to treat a gift from God with irreverence.

The "star" of her coming series, scheduled to alight at 7:30 p.m. on Jan. 25 (Monday), will be the golden voice of Kate Smith, that wide, but not the widest, ray of sunshine now that a diet has trimmed her down to pleasing proportions.

The series represents a turnabout for Miss Smith as well as her long-time manager, Ted Collins, whose heart attack in 1956 caused a retrenchment of the singer's professional activities.

Both vowed they never again would undertake a TV series, but show people like all women, enjoy the prerogative of changing their minds.

"UNTIL RECENTLY," says Collins, "we were dead serious about staying off weekly television. Who needs the pressures? And we don't, to be honest about it, need the money.

"But we couldn't resist this opportunity, chiefly because nobody is doing an all-music show on TV. Every singer's show I see is overproduced, full of starry guests, trick sets and at least 86 dancers.

"All we intend to show is Kate singing, maybe with a little choral support and a piano. I hope it'll be a refreshing change from gangsters, private eyes and "Laramie" for Monday night viewers."

To Collins, who will act as executive producer of the show, another appealing aspect of the format is that it will not burden him with the problem of hunting for star guests.

"BOOKING GUESTS has become an impossible job," remarked Collins. "You go to the talent agencies and they offer you the same tired seven names, none of whom wants money for a performance, but a swap appearance deal.

"I know. I've been talking with agency people lately about guests for two specials Kate is supposed to do this season but now I doubt they'll be done at all."

If he says this with the security of one who enjoys financial independence, be assured that he does.

As he says about Miss Smith's coming series, "If the show is scrapped one week after it starts, not a check of ours will bounce."

HOLLYWOOD producer Sam Goldwyn has affixed a five-million-dollar price tag on a library of 19 feature films, including 11 pre-1948 features and eight post-1948 films. Goldwyn would retain theatrical and editing rights to all films.

The Sunday CBS Television Workshop will open, appropriately enough, with a play written by a young author new to television. The author is Lewis John Carlino and his work is titled "The Brick and the Rose." Opening day is Jan. 24 at noon.

NBC's coming Saturday night public affairs series, "Focus 1960," to be launched this month, has a formidable goal: "The contents will be of such nature as to capture the Sunday morning newspaper headlines."

HAVING ALWAYS played the sedulous ape to motion pictures, television—ABC, to be exact—has come around to duplicating the Biblical drama. Two of them, based on the life of David, have been promised for the 1960-61 season by ABC, which has engaged William Goetz to create the one-hour dramas. . . .

The uncertain future of the high-minded "The Play of the Week," whose troubles stem from insufficient sponsorship rather than feeble ratings, has inspired a campaign to save the show, among book publishers. The project was initiated by publisher Lyle Stuart, who urges the book industry to sponsor the series. . . .

Marty Allen, half of the comedy team of Allen and Rossi, was lauded as "another Jimmy Savo" on a recent Perry Como show, and his talent agency (General Artists) believes it. The agency has acquired movie rights to the Jimmy Savo story for Allen.

THE BATTERED and bruised rating surveys face more adversity.

A bill calling for a law to license poll takers, rating services and survey groups will be introduced in the New York State Legislature in a couple of weeks by Charles Henderson (R) of Hornell, N.Y.

Henderson, incidentally, is owner and operator of radio station WLEA at Hornell. He now has a suit pending against A. C. Nielsen claiming damges of $50,000, based on a survey he claims Nielsen made which damaged him.

Stripped Sedan Left For Chester Disposal

Mayor Burton Ward said at a meeting of Council Wednesday night the car was found at a 1st St. service station three weeks ago with a note stating the owner would return.

About two weeks ago the man returned, drove the car to Columbia Dr. and took the wheels, battery, radio and almost all other removable parts, according to the mayor, who said the city will now apparently have to dispose of the vehicle.

28 Registrars Appointed For Voters Check

The names of 28 northern Hancock County women were approved as registrars for a voters' check for the May 10 primary during an all-day session of county commissioners Wednesday in New Cumberland.

Commissioners also appointed 42 registrars in Butler District with a Republican and Democrat still to be named for Precinct in Weirton.

Both Democratic and Republican registrars will receive instructions at a "school" to be held Monday in New Cumberland. Those approved by County Court will be paid $7 each for attending the session.

Commissioners said that registrars working rural areas of the county will be paid 8 cents for previous registrants checked, whether canceled or not and for each transfer, and 15 cents for all new registrants.

Women working city areas will receive 5 cents for each previous registration checked, whether canceled or not and each transfer, and 10 cents for each new one.

Women approved to check precincts in the upper county, in Grant and Clay Districts, are:

Grant District, Democrats — Ann Smusz, Pct. 1; Helen White, Pct. 2; Lorna McKnight, Pct. 3; Margaret Tridico, Pct. 4; Mrs. Shirley Gallop, Pct. 5; Beatrice Pryor, Pct. 6; Audrey Lugano, Pct. 7; Louise Staley, Pct. 8, and Margaret Gertrude Anderson, Pct. 9.

Republicans — Mrs. Geneva Hill, Pct. 1; Mrs. Betty Cashdollar, Pct. 2; Mrs. Roy Gibbs, Pct. 3; Mrs. Percy Willison, Pct. 4; Mrs. Charles Nonemaker, Pct. 5; Mrs. William Oyster, Pct. 6; Mrs. Louise Dent, Pct. 7; Mrs. Mae Hupp, Pct. 8, and Mrs. Allen DeBee, Pct. 9.

Clay District, Democrats — Mrs. Agnes Herron, Pct. 11; Betty A. Adams, Pct. 12; Mrs. Mildred Morrison, Pct. 13; Barbara Rainey, Pct. 14, and Mrs. Thomas Lafferty, Pct. 15.

Republicans — Thelma W. Phillips, Pct. 11; Garnet K. Joy, Pct. 12; Clara V. McLaughlin, Pct. 13; Elsie Gilmer, Pct. 14, and Mrs. Norma V. McHaffie, Pct. 15.

Commissioners also approved elimination of Precinct 20 in Weirton in accordance with the new permanent registration law.

Fairview Grange Holds Memorial

Charter draping ceremonies were conducted in memory of the late Otto Grove when members of the Fairview Grange met Tuesday night in the Grange Hall. Mr. Grove, a member of the Grange, died in December.

Five officers conducted the ceremonies. They included Mrs. Robert Dawson, Mrs. Earl Sherman, Charles Richards, Earl Sherman and Mrs. Wesley Saucer. Mrs. Richards and Mrs. Paul Dawson sang a hymn. Mrs. Paul McGaffick was pianist.

Charles Richards, master, conducted business.

A quiz, "The History of Jacks," was won by Robert Dawson and Sherman. Miss Dorothy Brdar, lecturer, was in charge of the program.

Mrs. Rade Brdar won the mystery package.

Cleveland Gambler Dies Suddenly In Car

CLEVELAND (AP) — Anthony (Big Head) Gallina, well known to police here, said his auto passenger apparently died when he struck his head against the dashboard in a sudden stop to avoid a pedestrian Wednesday. The passenger was Harry Goldstein, also known as Harry Goldman, 65, of Cleveland Heights.

$1,300 Loss Set For Fire

Fire caused some $1,300 damage to a two - story frame home on Route 39 about three - quarters a mile from Wellsville at 3:20 a. m. today.

The blaze routed Austin Casto of Wellsville R. D. 1 from his bed. He ran to the highway and flagged down a passing trucker who notified the Wellsville fire department.

The blaze started in the kitchen, firemen said. Casto told firemen he had been working there just before going to bed. He believes he either dropped a lighted match or more likely hot cigarette ashes in a basket of clothing along side a stove.

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: I have two daughters who are running me ragged. Can you tell me what to do without getting them mad at me?

Almost every weekend they bring their children to "Mama Bertha" (that's me) so they can take trips, go to parties and be free of responsibility.

It never occurs to them that Dad and I might have plans. They assume I'm strong as a mule and ready, willing and able to run after their spirited youngsters.

They also bring their mending and unfinished knitting. When they entertain they expect me to come to their homes, not as a guest, but to help cook and bake.

My husband gets mad because he says I let them take advantage of me. What can a mother say? —NOT APPRECIATED.

Dear Not Appreciated. A mother can say: "Look, girls, I'm not a nursemaid, cook or seamstress. Please don't plop your kids on me while you go off to enjoy yourselves. Occasionally I'll offer to take them but don't assume I have nothing else to do. Your children are YOUR responsibility, just as you were mine. And don't invite me to your home to do your cooking and baking. I have enough of my own, thank you."

Father Knows Best

Dear Ann: I'm 15 and have been going steady with this fellow for a year. My folks don't like him because he rides a motor scooter and wears dark glasses, a leather jacket and boots. I don't see anything wrong with this. After all, what is a fellow supposed to wear when he rides a motor scooter—a tuxedo?

He's a very careful scooter pilot and never has had an accident.

Last night my father saw in the paper where two teen-agers were seriously injured on a scooter. He read the article at the dinner table and said, "No more scooter rides for you. And that ends it." Do you think this is fair?—CRIED OUT.

Dear Cried: If your father forbids you to ride on the scooter that should settle it. Even if it doesn't make sense to your 15-year-old noodle, accept his decision and give him peace of mind. (And I agree with Dad.)

Burned Up

Dear Ann: The other day I got into a crowded elevator on my way back from coffee break. A woman who is a supervisor in our department was in the elevator with a cigarette in her mouth. As I was leaving the elevator I noticed she had burned a hole in my sweater. She noticed it at the same moment and said, "Oh, I'm terribly sorry."

The cleaner tells me the sweater can be rewoven for $5.50. The sweater cost $22.50, so it's worth it. Shall I ask this woman to pay for it, send her a bill in the mail or what?—BURNED UP.

Dear Burned: Don't send a bill in the mail. Tell her the sweater which she burned can be restored for $5.50. Ask if she'd like to pay for it. If she says "No," forget it. If she says "Yes" give her the bill when you get it. And suggest to the superintendent of the building that he post a no smoking sign in the elevator.

Confidentially

TO A LONELY DOCTOR: You mean "A Lonely Novelist" don't you? Why not try to sell that far-out yarn to a magazine. No sale here, Bub.

TO SICK AT HEART MOTHER: Don't waste your breath telling her, "It doesn't matter." To her 16-year-old mind it matters very much. Tell her no one gets everything her own way all the time. Life is filled with failures and disappointments. Let her know it's not what happens to us but how we take it that counts.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

8 December Army Recruits In Training At Ft. Knox, Ky.

Eight area men enlisted in the Army during December and are receiving eight weeks basic training at Ft. Knox, Ky., Sgt. Emuel Bosley, local recruiter, ssaid today.

Sgt. Bosley said 19 men applied for enlistment but only the 8 qualified. Following basic training, the men will receive a two-week leave and then report to other stations for specialized training selected prior to enlistment.

The last man to sign up in 1959 from this area was Robert F. Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Taylor of Lisbon. He re-enlisted for six years. He had served three years previously and was last stationed in Europe with the Ordnance Corps as an ammunition technician, the job he will return to.

Also re-enlisting was James A. Burd, son of Mrs. Mary A. Kille of Salem. He has four years service with the Marines and signed for the Army's Technicial School program for an electronics course at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

Signing for Cryptography School at Ft. Gordon, Ga., were James E. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl G. Smith, 238 W. Chestnut St., Lisbon, and Donald F. Fraley, son of Boone L. Fraley of Diamond St., Irondale.

Fraley is a 1959 graduate of Stanton Local High School.

Marvin H. Crawford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Crawford of Fairview St., Chester, selected an operating room procedures course at the Ft. Huston (Tex.) Medical School. He is a 1956 graduate of Chester High School.

Charles R. See, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. See, 210 W. 3rd St., signed under the new "Choose It Yourself Vocational Training Program." He is a 1959 graduate of East Liverpool High School.

Also signing under the program was Dale A. DeBee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. DeBee, 335 Harrison St., Newell, and William E. Peters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allison M. Peters of Newell R.D.

See selected the administrative field, Peters chose the outside telephone plant maintenance course and DeBee signed for construction.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. Please suggest a way I can fill in some deep, ugly-looking nail holes in my plastered wall.

A. Mix up a little talcum powder or cornstarch with a few drops of water, and force this mixture into the holes, smoothing it off with your fingers around the edges.

Q. Please suggest a way to clean leather upholstery.

A. You can do a nice job with a soft cloth dipped into ordinary milk — or, better still, the beaten white of an egg. When this has dried, go over the surface again with a clean soft cloth.

Q. How can I prevent the ice trays from sticking in the freezing unit of my refrigerator?

Dear Cried: If your father forbids you to ride on the scooter that should settle it. Even if it doesn't make sense to your 15-year-old noodle, accept his decision and give him peace of mind. (And I agree with Dad.)

Burned Up

Dear Ann: The other day I got into a crowded elevator on my way back from coffee break. A woman who is a supervisor in our department was in the elevator with a cigarette in her mouth. As I was leaving the elevator I noticed she had burned a hole in my sweater. She noticed it at the same moment and said, "Oh, I'm terribly sorry."

The cleaner tells me the sweater can be rewoven for $5.50. The sweater cost $22.50, so it's worth it. Shall I ask this woman to pay for it, send her a bill in the mail or what?—BURNED UP.

Dear Burned: Don't send a bill in the mail. Tell her the sweater which she burned can be restored for $5.50. Ask if she'd like to pay for it. If she says "No," forget it. If she says "Yes" give her the bill when you get it. And suggest to the superintendent of the building that he post a no smoking sign in the elevator.

Confidentially

TO A LONELY DOCTOR: You mean "A Lonely Novelist" don't you? Why not try to sell that far-out yarn to a magazine. No sale here, Bub.

TO SICK AT HEART MOTHER: Don't waste your breath telling her, "It doesn't matter." To her 16-year-old mind it matters very much. Tell her no one gets everything her own way all the time. Life is filled with failures and disappointments. Let her know it's not what happens to us but how we take it that counts.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

The last man to sign up in 1959 from this area was Robert F. Taylor, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Taylor of Lisbon. He re-enlisted for six years. He had served three years previously and was last stationed in Europe with the Ordnance Corps as an ammunition technician, the job he will return to.

Also re-enlisting was James A. Burd, son of Mrs. Mary A. Kille of Salem. He has four years service with the Marines and signed for the Army's Technicial School program for an electronics course at Ft. Monmouth, N. J.

Signing for Cryptography School at Ft. Gordon, Ga., were James E. Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl G. Smith, 238 W. Chestnut St., Lisbon, and Donald F. Fraley, son of Boone L. Fraley of Diamond St., Irondale.

Marvin H. Crawford, son of Mr. and Mrs. Homer Crawford of Fairview St., Chester, selected an operating room procedures course at the Ft. Huston (Tex.) Medical School. He is a 1956 graduate of Chester High School.

Charles R. See, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles F. See, 210 W. 3rd St., signed under the new "Choose It Yourself Vocational Training Program." He is a 1959 graduate of East Liverpool High School.

Also signing under the program was Dale A. DeBee, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard A. DeBee, 335 Harrison St., Newell, and William E. Peters, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allison M. Peters of Newell R.D.

See selected the administrative field, Peters chose the outside telephone plant maintenance course and DeBee signed for construction.

How Can I?

By ANNE ASHLEY

Q. Please suggest a way I can fill in some deep, ugly-looking nail holes in my plastered wall.

A. Mix up a little talcum powder or cornstarch with a few drops of water, and force this mixture into the holes, smoothing it off with your fingers around the edges.

Q. Please suggest a way to clean leather upholstery.

A. You can do a nice job with a soft cloth dipped into ordinary milk — or, better still, the beaten white of an egg. When this has dried, go over the surface again with a clean soft cloth.

Q. How can I prevent the ice trays from sticking in the freezing unit of my refrigerator?

Important For Economy

4 Billion Budget Surplus Seen By Ike May Change 'Tight-Money' Situation

Ike Forecast On Surplus Challenged

Democrats, Some GOP Skeptical On Budget Estimates

WASHINGTON (AP)—A skeptical Democratic Congress called on the Eisenhower administration today to demonstrate it can produce a budget surplus without weakening America's defenses.

President Eisenhower's estimate in his State of the Union address Thursday that his new budget will have a $4,200,000,000 surplus was challenged by leading Democrats and even some Republicans.

Influential Democrats made it clear they remain unconvinced that the "enormous defense power" Eisenhower said the nation has is sufficient to offset growing Soviet military might.

Democrats generally joined Republicans in applauding Eisenhower's forecast of prosperity at home and peace in the world—if the Soviets cooperate. But most Democrats thought this is no time to stand on a 41-billion-dollar defense budget when military costs are rising.

Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass), an announced candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, sounded a note echoed by many of his party colleagues.

"I am alarmed at the President's proposals to reduce the budget at a time when we are moving into a deteriorating military situation," he said.

Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey (D-Minn), another avowed candidate for the party nomination, said that Eisenhower's reports on space research, rockets and missiles "do not reflect that we are closing the perilous missile gap or rebuilding our ability to deal with non-nuclear military threats and attacks."

Rep. John McCormack of Massachusetts, majority leader of the House, pinpointed the general Democratic complaint when he said "a defense budget for the next fiscal year about the same as the present budget does not mean as much defense because costs have gone up."

Rep. H. R. Gross (R-Iowa) said he fears Eisenhower can't achieve "all the economy in government he predicted."

Favorite U.S. Testing Ground

Reds Invade Pacific Area To Test Powerful Rocket

MOSCOW (AP) — The Soviets are invading America's favorite testing ground in the Central Pacific to try out a powerful new rocket built for launching heavy earth satellites and space flights to the planets.

The Soviets Thursday night staked out a broad, deserted area 1,100 miles southwest of the Hawaiian Islands for test firings to begin between Jan. 15 and Feb. 15.

Foreign ships and aircraft were warned to steer clear of the target zone — roughly a rectangle 280 miles long and 160 miles wide— during the tests. There was no indication how long they would continue.

(Soviet missiles have been sighted coming into the North Pacific in recent months. Shifting the target south into the region of American interest was viewed in some Washington circles as a deliberate move to impress the West with the reliability and accuracy of the Soviet Union's new missile weapons.

The Moscow announcement came less than six hours after President Eisenhower told Congress American intercontinental ballistic missiles have been hitting within a two-mile area from a launching point 5,000 away.)

The Soviets did not specify the firing site for their new rocket. The announcement by the official Soviet news agency Tass said only that the tests will be to develop "a more powerful rocket to launch heavy earth satellites and undertake space flights to planets of the solar system."

The Soviets indicated they were confident of pin-pointing the rocket landings by announcing that Soviet ships will be sent into the target area to carry out measurements.

One possible Soviet launching site is the Kamchatka Peninsula protruding between the Bering Sea and the Sea of the Okhotsk in the northern Pacific. This would be about 3,800 miles from the impact area designated by Moscow for the new tests.

U. S. government legal authorities said there are many precedents for use of the high seas for such experiments as long as they do not interfere unreasonably with activities of other nations and advance notice is given of the danger zones.

The nearest lands to the testing space are two American-owned islands—Palmyra about 250 miles to the east and Johnston Island 400 miles to the north.

$79 Billion In Spending Is Estimated

Congress Urged To Use Surplus To Cut Debt And Not Taxes

WASHINGTON (AP)—The $4,200,000,000 budget surplus which President Eisenhower foresees for the next fiscal year portends important long-range changes in the "tight money" situation worrying Wall Street and Main Street.

Officials of financial agencies said today a surplus of that size probably would have one of two effects: Bring about a drop in interest rates—now at the highest level in a generation—or make it possible for more Americans to obtain the loans they want.

Thus the budget secret which Eisenhower Thursday slipped into his State of the Union Message to Congress holds important implications for all borrowers and lenders, and for the economy as a whole.

But that would be in the future. Meantime his call for a continuing battle against inflation indicates no immediate easing of the credit situation.

Eisenhower estimated record peacetime spending of $79,800,000,000 in the 1961 fiscal year which begins July 1. However, he said revenues will exceed that figure by $4,200,000,000 to produce the biggest budget surplus in 13 years.

What's more, the President said the current fiscal year will show a 200-million-dollar surplus despite revenue losses caused by the steel strike.

In looking to two balanced budgets in a row, Eisenhower told Congress to use the surpluses to reduce the national debt—not to cut taxes.

U.S. Airlifts Scientists Off Arctic Ice Floe

Air Force Estimates Operation Will Take Five To Seven Days

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (AP)—The Air Force went calmly about the task today of airlifting a group of scientists and servicemen from a research camp on a shrinking ice floe in the Arctic Ocean.

"No sweat," said one officer—the Air Force's way of saying the situation is under control.

"There's always a potential that when you are on an ice floe like that it could break up," said Maj. Phillip Peacock, public information officer at Ladd Air Force Base here.

"An operations plan was devised some time ago. We are putting into effect one phase of it."

Evacuation of military and civilian personnel at the camp, known as "Station Charley," was ordered Thursday after the big chunk of ice began disintegrating.

The Air Force said it believed there were about 25 men at the camp. Radio transmissions were so garbled that it wasn't known here exactly how many. Some of the civilians were believed to have returned recently to the University of Washington in Seattle.

Two men were flown here from the camp Thursday night by a twin-engine C123J cargo plane from Ladd. The Air Force said the rest would be brought out in a series of flights over the next five to seven days.

It will take several days to pack up the camp's equipment, Peacock explained.

The identity of the two men brought out was not known.

The camp, established last May, is 400 miles northwest of Barrow, Alaska, and some 600 from the North Pole. The scientists were studying the depths of the ocean and the earth's magnetic currents.

Weatherman Throws Off 'Spring' Trance

Tired of dilly - dallying with spring-like weather in the dead of winter, the Ohio weatherman got back in the groove today with a forecast of much colder with snow flurries tonight and Saturday.

A low pressure area moving eastward through the Great Lakes will cause strong winds today, diminishing tonight when the temperature may drop to a sub-freezing low of 20 to 25 degrees.

The mercury will have to show a sharp drop late this afternoon as Dam 8 reported a high at noon of 39 degrees after an overnight low of 37. Thursday's high was 44.

Union Pushes Move To Fight Tariff Cutting

The International Brotherhood of Operative Potters today urged all its local unions in the generalware and chinaware branches of the dinnerware industry to send representatives to a meeting of the Nationwide Committee on Import - Export Policy Thursday at Washington that will ask the federal government to refrain from further tariff reductions in 1960-61.

The national committee is supported by both labor and management in U. S. industries that have been affected by a growing influx of cheap foreign imports. In the dinnerware industry, the IBOP and the U. S. Potters Association support the committee.

"We cannot stress too strongly the importance of bench level craftsmen attending this meeting to guard against further lowering of tariff barriers, jeapordizing the jobs of thousands of skilled pottery workers," the IBOP said in the Potters Herald, official union newspaper.

In the past, proponents of lower tariffs have used as one of their arguments before Congress the fact that the move for better protection has not been supported by rank - and - file workers, the union said.

Locals in the tile, porcelain, refractories, artware and sanitary branches of the ceramic industry also may send representatives, as further lowering of tariff barriers might affect their jobs, the IBOP said.

The national committee's Board of Directors already has called upon the U. S. to refrain from further tariff cutting. The general meeting will implement the action of the directors. It also will serve as a general meeting of all the industrial, labor and agricultural groups affected by foreign imports, the IBOP said.

Boy In Firebug Case Made Ward Of Court

BEAVER FALLS — A 10-year-old Beaver Falls boy, who confessed to starting the $300,000 A. & P. super-market fire Dec. 20, is not a delinquent but a neglected and dependent child, Beaver County Judge Robert E. McCreary ruled Thursday at a juvenile hearing.

The child was made a ward of the court under the supervision of the Beaver County Child Welfare Department with placement in a home recommended.

Dr. Herbert I. Levit of the Dixmont state hospital said that the child is not a pyromaniac but has "too much free time on his hands."

Smear Assault Against Jews Is Continued

Attempts To Track Down Hate-Mongers Have Little Success

By The Associated Press

Hit and run hate-mongers operating under the cover of darkness continued their smear campaign against Jews unabated Thursday night. Attempts to track them down were meeting with little success.

More swastikas and abusive slogans appeared in widely scattered countries—most of them crudely splashed on synagogues, homes and public buildings.

Sixteen days after the outbursts began with the desecration of a synagogue in Cologne, government officials, Jewish leaders and social workers still disagreed in trying to place the blame for the continuing situation.

West Germany's Minister of Interior Gerhardt Schroeder told British radio listeners Thursday night that anti-Semitism "represents no political power in Germany today."

"In our opinion, the anti-Semitic outrages primarily involve questions of moral attitudes and humanity," he said.

Many Jewish leaders and groups from other churches blamed leftovers from Hitler's fascism. There have also been suggestions that the Communists inspired the outrages to discredit Chancellor Konrad Adenauer's government.

Authorization Asked For Hancock Tax Step

CHARLESTON — State Tax Commissioner Donald C. Carman has asked three appraisal companies to submit proposals by Jan. 18 for mapping Hancock County under the statewide property appraisal program.

The Hancock County court asked earlier this week that it be brought into the program. Carman said Hancock will become the 22nd County in which mapping has begun under provisions of the reappraisal program set up by a 1958 legislative pact.

Plans call for the completion of aerial survey work, an integral part of the mapping, before foliage appears on trees and shrubs in the spring. Carman said early estimates indicate that Hancock contains about 19,500 parcels of property.

The county is the last in the Northern Panhandle to be brought into the appraisal program. Work is under way or has largely been completed in Marshall, Ohio and Brooke counties.

10 U.S. Fliers Missing

WIESBADEN, Germany (AP)—The U.S. Army today officially declared missing the 10 men aboard an otter aircraft which vanished on a North African flight Monday. Wreckage washed up on the Libyan shore indicated the plane, flying from Wheelus Air Base, Libya, to Bengasi, crashed in the Mediterranean about 75 miles south of Bengasi.

Grand Jurors Indict 18 In Varied Cases

Arraignment Slated Jan. 18 As Prelude To Criminal Trials

Eighteen persons were indicted by the Columbiana County Grand Jury, which reported Thursday afternoon at Lisbon.

The defendants will be arraigned Monday, Jan. 18, before Judge Raymond S. Buzzard, who will handle criminal trials for the January term of Common Pleas Court.

The session began Tuesday with Prosecutor G. William Brokaw presenting a total of 27 cases requiring testimony of 42 witnesses.

Two second degree manslaughter cases, arising from traffic deaths, were ignored.

The panel of 15 jurors returned 18 true bills and ignored nine cases in its report to Judge Buzzard.

Judge Buzzard released the panel of nine men and six women but instructed them they would remain as the Grand Jury for this term of court which ends April 4.

True bills returned were:

John Dalton, 59, of Wheeling, obtaining narcotics illegally by using false name in East Liverpool.

David Anthony Yanni, 19, and Joseph Steward Dick, 20, both of Jury Unable To Indict In Bribe Attempt

The Columbiana County Grand Jury reported Thursday it could find no basis for an indictment concerning a reported $1,000 a week gambling protection bribe ex-Mayor Frederick P. Lawrence said was offered him.

At the request of Prosecutor G. William Brokaw, the former mayor testified before the panel yesterday about the alleged bribe which he first reported at a meeting of Council Dec. 7 when speaking in support of an anti-gambling ordinance.

At that session, the former mayor said he was offered $1,000 weekly before he took office in 1958 to permit gambling to operate unmolested during his term.

Floyd McKee of Salem, foreman of the jury, in submitting the panel's report on criminal cases, said members "found no basis for returning an indictment as a result of Mr. Lawrence's testimony."

The anti - gambling measure, aimed primarily at the numbers racket and due to become effective Jan. 28, was approved by Council Dec. 28 at a meeting which the three opponents of the bill failed to attend.

Man In County Case Agrees To Extradition

Sheriff To Return Prisoner Linked To Salem Motel Holdup

A 30-year-old Newton Falls man, captured in a gun fight with Illinois police, has waived extradition on a fugitive warrant issued by Columbiana County authorities and is slated for return to Lisbon to face charges of an armed holdup of a Salem area motel.

Edmund Maras was ordered held under $10,000 bond in a hearing at Freeport, Ill., where he was taken after he and a companion were captured and a third man was killed in a fight with police at Dixon, Ill., Tuesday.

Charles Harris, 33, of Warren, also reportedly involved with Maras in the robbery of Barnett's Motel Dec. 11, was shot by an officer at Dixon during the struggle.

Maras and his brother, James Maras, 20, of Warren — now being held at the County Jail at Lisbon —were both indicted for the Barnett holdup by the January Grand Jury Thursday.

Dick Godfrey, 24, of Cleveland, captured with Edmund Maras Tuesday, pleaded guilty to robbery with aggravation Thursday at Davenport, Iowa, and was sentenced to 25 years in the Iowa State Penitentiary.

Police said Harris, Godfrey and Edmund Maras took $1,700 in a holdup of a Davenport supermarket Monday.

The trio's car was halted by police at Dixon after they drove through a traffic signal, and the gun fight followed.

Midland Group Awaited After Steel Negotiations

A delegation of officers of three locals of the United Steelworkers Union of the Midland Works of the Crucible Steel Co. was expected to return sometime today after attending contract negotiations in Washington which began Wednesday.

It is expected that a membership meeting will be called soon after the delegation returns. Attending negotiations were officers of Local 1212, Local 5047 of Crucible's Titanium Division, 3177 of Crucible's office workers and James Mullen of East Liverpool, union staff representative.

No word of a new contract agreement has been reported between Crucible and the unions of its several plants.

Kennedy, Nixon, Rockefeller

Names Of Three Injected Into New Hampshire Test

CONCORD, N. H. (AP) — The names of Sen. John F. Kennedy (D-Mass), Vice President Richard M. Nixon and Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller (R-NY) were injected into New Hampshire's first-in-the-nation presidential primary today.

Enthusiastic supporters of Kennedy entered him in the popularity poll section of the March 8 balloting, which will provide the first clue to voter sentiment in this presidential election year. Kennedy also filed a slate of delegate candidates pledged to vote for him at the Democratic National Convention.

At the same time, several Nixon backers filed as candidates for seats at the Republican nominating convention. Their names will be listed in the GOP delegate contest as "favorable to Nixon."

Nixon forces plan to enter his name in the preference poll Saturday, the vice president's 47th birthday.

In another major development that could mean trouble for Nixon, several pro-Rockefeller Republicans leaped into the GOP delegate battle by filing for convention seats as "favorable" to the New York governor.

They said Republicans ought to have a chance to choose between Nixon and Rockefeller despite the fact that Rockefeller says he will not fight the vice president for the GOP presidential nomination.

Congressional Race Indicated

Moundsville Lawyer Enters 1st District

Stephen D. Narick, former prosecuting attorney of Marshall County, has indicated that he will run as a Democratic candidate for the post of West Virginia's 1st District congressman in the May 10 primary.

The district covers Hancock, Brooke, Ohio, Marshall, Wetzel, Marion and Taylor Counties.

Narick is the first to announce for the nomination for the post now held by Rep. Arch A. Moore Jr., a Moundsville attorney and Republican.

Narick, also of Moundsville, has asked the secretary of state in Charleston for the necessary papers to file as a candidate.

Schuck Ruled Legally Sane

But Court Requests More Specific Data

BEAVER — A Sanity Commission was instructed to be more specific in its answers after finding that Arthur G. Schuck, convicted slayer of two Beaver County men, is legally sane.

The commission made its report Thursday to Judge Morgan H. Sohn.

Schuck was convicted and sentenced to death in the ambush slayings of two Beaver County men in April 1958.

Schuck's death sentence was set aside pending outcome of an appeal to the State Supreme Court. That case is expected to be argued in March.

Judge Sohn said he wants the commission to say specifically if it believes Schuck is able to comprehend his own condition and the nature and object of the proceedings against him.

The judge said the commission also should decide if Schuck is able to confer with counsel and if he understands the nature of the punishment that may be inflicted on him.

The commission added:

"It is our opinion that the prisoner is without psychosis (not insane). We believe he is capable of knowing the nature of his acts in consequence of his behavior. We believe he can discern between right and wrong. We believe that care in a mental hospital is neither necessary nor advisable."

Schuck was sentenced Sept. 2, 1958, to die in the electric chair for the "mistake" killing of Vincent J. Quigley of Economy. A second man, William Engle, was killed at the same time.

Richardson Home Damaged

Fire Causes $3,000 Loss

A Richardson Ave. home was damaged Thursday afternoon in a blaze ignited by a short-circuited furnace motor which filled the home with smoke and overcame the dog of the family who were not at home.

About $3,000 damage was reported to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Bluestone in the blaze about 1 p. m. yesterday, according to Robert Badger, assistant fire chief of the Liverpool Township East department.

Badger reported 12 men responded to the alarm phoned in by a neighbor who noticed smoke seeping from about the eaves.

The motor of the furnace apparently became overheated and ignited the blaze in the utility room in the center of the main floor of the home. The flames spread into the attic. Firemen had to chop a hole into the roof to get at the fire in the attic to which there is no stairway.

The family pet was found behind a piece of furniture, and was carried outdoors to revive. The dog later was taken to a veterinarian for further treatment.

Firemen used two reel hoses from the tanker truck to extinguish the blaze. The Calcutta fire department was also called.

Badger said the area about the utility room was damaged by flames, and nearby areas received smoke damage and some water damage. A representative of the state fire marshal's office, visiting here at the time, commended the unit, Badger said.

About 100 took the tests, including five members of the Midland club. They were Adams, Albert Masters, Paul Schlosser, Claude Reed and William Robertson.

Lions Clubs of Beaver County are sponsoring the tests. Dr. Charles McConnell of Beaver will be in charge.

Some 42 baskets of food were distributed to needy families at Christmas by organizations working through a "clearing house," Paul McGeehan, club representative reported.

First 'No Contest' Plea Entered In City's Court

A new "no contest" plea was entered today by a Municipal Court defendant for the first time since the alternative to the traditional "guilty" or "not guilty" was allowed under a new law effective Jan. 1.

Russell Gamble of 3rd Ave., LaCroft, entered the "no contest" plea to a charge of driving a motor vehicle without registration plates. He acted after his rights under Ohio and U. S. law were explained by Judge Samuel M. Chertoff in the usual statement when opening the criminal court session.

Under a "no contest" plea, a defendant places the burden of proof on the city, but stipulates he will make no defense. Police reported Gamble was arrested at 9:56 p. m. Thursday on Harvey Ave. while driving a pickup truck with temporary plates that expired Sept. 24. Judge Chertoff continued the case until 3 this afternoon to arrange the appearance of the arresting officer, Patrolman Jerry Adkins.

Bringing The Report Up To Date

Every president since George Washington who has prepared a state-of-the-Union message, as required by the Constitution, has wittingly or unwittingly prepared a report on himself.

President Eisenhower's 1960 report is clearly intended to be personal. It is the last one that will be heard with the respect due to a chief executive still in office. The report he is expected to prepare before leaving office a year from now will be an anticlimax.

As of January 1960, the President is optimistic. He sees the greatest prosperity of all time in the year ahead and is not inclined to discount it for the windy inflation that puffs up current statistics.

He has not been crushed by the inability of his administration to rise above deficit financing. Once more he is talking about a balanced budget, not only for the current year but for the 81-billion-dollar year ahead.

He feels certain the United States has achieved military security with the weapons it has in being and the weapons of the future that are beginning to dribble into the national arsenal. The missile lag does not undermine his composure.

It is his opinion that the great potential antagonist of the United States, the Soviet Union, is being guided by a man whose affirmaions of peaceful intent are worth listening to seriously. Mr. Eisenhower does not choose to judge Premier Khrushchev harshly.

THE PRESIDENT continues to have faith in his ability to get along with a politically hostile Congress. It never has been his practice to scold congressmen for taking issue with him—and it is interesting to remember that he promised this would be his policy when he was a presidential candidate in 1952. He has kept his promise. There has been no White House sniping at either the legislative or the judicial branches of the government for the seven years of Mr. Eisenhower's presidency.

The President made another promise that has been kept faithfully—that he would try to be the executive head of the whole country. He has been under relentless and savage attack by critics for seeming to favor this or that minority. But the range of this criticism has been significantly wide. He has displeased so many minorities it is obvious he wasn't trying to please any one minority at the expense of any other.

Problems that have nagged many Americans to the point of violence and anger are still being viewed by Mr. Eisenhower with patience and objectivity. He believes progress in civil rights can be made. He is not discouraged by the obduracy of politicians who tinker dangerously with financial matters they do not understand.

The "calamitous cycle of frustrations and crises" that has driven many men of his generation to such despair they are ready to throw in the towel has not crushed President Eisenhower. He does not see any insoluble problems either at home or abroad.

WHERE OTHER men might call on statistics to confirm or refute their views, President Eisenhower calls on faith. It has been the trademark of his administration that he has tried in all ways and at all times to buoy up the faith of his fellow Americans. This, too, was one of his 1952 promises.

He thought then that the nation needed a spiritual rebirth; that it had suffered from an overdose of drab politics that finally had made the asking price for special favors a new mink coat or a food freezer.

"Realists" have poked a lot of fun at Mr. Eisenhower in the intervening years. They have accused him of being "unrealistic," which is the most heinous crime in their book.

But perhaps it dawns on even these people occasionally that they, not Mr. Eisenhower, must stand accused of fleeing from reality. In the world he lives in and the nation he heads, there is hope—and men who have abandoned hope have abandoned the source of purposeful living.

Business Has No Doubt

Whether or not the steel settlement will be inflationary is still being talked about as if it were an open question when in fact the question was closed by the unchallenged estimate it would cost a billion dollars in 30 months.

Any settlement that adds a billion dollars to cost with no offsetting gain in efficiency is inflationary; there can be no doubt about it.

But the significant reaction among business spokesmen is that the settlement is part and parcel of the 1960 boom that now has been transformed from hope into certainty. A few will continue to murmur that they regret the inflation which goes with the settlement, but apparently none would want to say the boom is not worth the inflation it will cost.

Even the steel industry, which has stood virtually alone in its hostility to inflation, is sharing the prospect of a boom that will keep its mills humming as customers try to buy ahead of the price rise they expect to come later.

This has been the enigma of business and, even more so, the enigma of all public officials whose decisions can speed up or slow down inflation. When does the little bit of inflation that stimulates the economy become the overdose of inflation that paralyzes the nation's vitality?

When does the word "inflation" cease to be good and become bad? Or conversely, when does it cease to be bad and become good? Its antonym, "deflation," is never good at all, yet people talk as if there could be a state of monetary Nirvana in which neither inflation nor deflation would be present—only a state of nothingness in which everything would remain static yet somehow kinetic at the same time.

Business as a whole has no doubt that a boom is materializing and will materialize faster than it would have materialized otherwise because the steel industry has made an inflationary settlement with the union that can shut and open the steel mills at will. The end justified the means, as business sees it.

Steel management, which had tried to hold the line at what it considered to be the limit of a non-inflationary settlement, is getting no credit either in the business community or in the political community for its effort.

The point had needed no proving, but never was it more clearly evident that Americans have no concensus on the meaning of "inflation." The thing that makes them shudder in fear when mentioned in one tone of voice makes them shiver with delight when mentioned in another tone of voice. They're shivering with delight this January, though they shuddered in horror last summer.

Hate Knows No Borders

Political experts, sociologists and psychologists are trying to determine the reasons for the current wave of anti-Semitic expressions that has broken out in West Germany and spread across Europe and over the ocean even to New York.

Is it a resurgence of Hitler's old Nazi supporters? Is it a brand new manifestation of the age-old trick that Hitler developed so skillfully? Is it a Communist plot with the double-headed purpose of discrediting the Bonn government and distracting attention from reports of anti-Semitism in Russia? Is it simply another form of the hooliganism that plagues all the places of the earth?

All of those may have a bearing. But whatever the reasons, the crude scrawls are turning red the faces of most officials and of many ordinary citizens in the countries where they have appeared.

The government of Konrad Adenauer is most acutely embarrassed, because Germany is the only nation of modern times that made anti-Semitism a national policy on so massive and murderous a scale.

But West Germany is not the only embarrassed nation. And anti-Semitism is not the only expression of this kind of hate.

It exists everywhere. Crackpots, seething dissidents and self-righteous "saviors of mankind" know no nationality. They sometimes use nationalism as their vehicle, but their derangement is common to all of them.

The Once Over

By H. I. Phillips

Hubert Humphrey in his Horatio Alger pitch for the White House puts candidates with money in a tough spot. Messrs. Kennedy, Symington and others may have to declare an unkind fate put them into the upper brackets and announce they are against pocket money, checking accounts and white meat.

Hubert is hell-bent for presidency in composite role of Whittier's "Barefoot Boy," Riley's "The Raggedy Man" and Abraham Lincoln in the economy-sized package.

Humphrey will battle in the mood of "Ned the Newsboy" and all former shoeshine boys but his platform indicates he is under the impression he is running in the McKinley-Bryan era and determined to fight Mark Hanna, Jim Fisk, Commodore Vanderbilt, the late Hank Ford's $5 a day and horse cars without vestibules for drivers.

AT A TIME when more Americans are employed than ever in history at the highest wages and in the shortest work week, the senator makes his pitch to fight UNEMPLOYMENT and DEPRESSION, even if he has to campaign while caught in a parade of luxury automobiles. He seems to think what the country needs most is somebody in the White House who will guarantee the full dinner pail.

The senator declares prosperity of Americans is lopsided, and he won't admit this is due to the fact they are packing the heavy luggage on one side of the station wagon.

"I know what it means to be a victim of depressions," he says, as if in 1960 he sees voters selling apples from de luxe four-door auto jobs. If the country has a depression in 1960 Hubert will be the handicapper's choice unless it develops William Jennings Bryan is not dead.

GOTHAM HAS HAD its almost annual Quill-Knickerbocker Productions Co. presentation of the best rehearsed program, "Dough or Consequences." It opens with dramatic fury and fiery threats, has a big second act mutual "I will never surrender" crisis and concludes with the City Hall vested choir rendition of Victor Herbert's "Only Make Believe."

The subway workers have no easy job. Few people begrudge them a better break, couldn't the situation be worked out without giving eight million subway riders the creeps unnecessarily?

Just about the best acing on Broadway is that of Albert Dekker and Herbert Berghoff in "The Andersonville Trial."

It saddens ye ed to read that the New Haven Clock Co., in business 142 years, is folding. It was founded in 1817 away back in the day of James Monroe, John Quincy Adams and Andrew Jackson.

Strikes, Politics Loom For 1960

By Victor Riesel

To some, Washington is a district. To me, it is a state of mind. What's on that mind as the 60s come marching in? Strikes and politics, of course.

Victor Riesel

Political leaders know that those of them who mishandle the strikes will be out. The others will be in, as they say among the beatniks.

Dick Nixon knew this when he met secretly at the Waldorf-Astoria in New York on the night of Wednesday, Dec. 30, with the leaders of the nation's 11 major steel companies.

After that meeting, so certain of a steel settlement were the vice president and Labor Secretary Jim Mitchell that they slipped away from the Secret Service for a relaxing nocturnal walk. As they ambled by themselves from the Waldorf to Rockefeller Center's colorful Christmas tree and on to Times Square, they talked jubilantly of the future.

Not until Nixon had that commitment did his people begin telling the story of his behind-the-scenes role. But this is just prelude. Crisis will pile on labor crisis in the next few months. For now the nation is highballing it into an uproar on rails.

THE PERIL POINT here will come with the Maypoles—around the first of May. This prediction you get from those who know the rails best—the shippers of the nation.

These shippers of billions worth of freight keep atop the crisis because delays can cost them their yearly profits. Their associations have told them not to worry until May 1.

They insinuate that they have this from such rail union leaders as George Leighty, chairman of the Railway Labor Executives Assn., a name which soon will become a household phrase along with embargoes, slowdowns and work rules.

Actually the rail crisis may not hit the showdown stage until June —just a month or so before the big political conventions.

And if you think that steel made a noise, just wait. That crisis will sound like a Wright brothers biplane alongside a fleet of incoming jet 707s on a foggy night.

This is early in the year to be writing with such confidence but what's a prediction piece without predictions: So—there probably will be strikes on one or two of the long lines and on some of the small connecting feeder companies. The issues will be almost exactly those in the steel struggle.

And like a strong chord in a symphony, another crescendo will begin off in the distance as everybody listens to the noise on rails. With the militant Jim Carey in the lead, a coalition of five unions will begin pressuring the electrical and electronics industry in mid-February.

THESE UNIONS have some 150,000 members working in General Electric and Westinghouse plants. Their contracts expire the first of October. That's about as close as you can get to the presidential campaign.

Those five unions, grouped around Carey's International Union of Electrical Workers, may well strike that day. This wouldn't exactly be a sedative for the stomachs of the Republican and Democratic nominees and their strategists.

You can be sure that Westinghouse and GE, which make up a great part of the industry, are not now planning a specially engraved pen for Carey to sign a new contract.

First no one really knows what the unions will ask. The AFL-CIO's Industrial Union Dept., headed by Walter Reuther, has sent 150,000 questionnaires to the employes of both companies.

Some 12,000 have replied to questions asking what they prefer to get from Westinghouse and GE. The early returns reveal that higher wages run behind a demand for security of jobs. This, in effect, is what the steel civil war was fought over.

We'll know what the unions want soon enough. On the evening of Feb. 19, in fact. That will mark the end of a two-day joint session in Washington of the IUE's conference of GE employes with their brethren in the Westinghouse conference (a joint board of employe representatives from all plants.).

RESULTS OF THAT meeting will build up a critical point sometime in September. A strike could last right through the winter.

This conflict will have plenty of company. About half of all major union contracts expire this year. There will be about 180 major "disputes."

These will break in the fields from civilian and military jet aircraft production, coal, telephone communications; trucking, rubber, oil and shipping, to missiles and Hollywood movies.

This shapes up as a tough bargaining year and a tougher political year. So watch the political leaders of both parties. They want as few complications as possible.

Watch them move first to prove that the political pros can be tougher than even the labor pros when they have to. They'll be behind the scenes in every strike crisis early and often.

A Quiet Statement

By James Marlow

WASHINGTON

It was a quiet statement, without sparks.

Read President Eisenhower's State of the Union Message to Congress Thursday and you'll find no indication he expects an angry or even unusual year. On the contrary.

Peace and prosperity were central points in what he said.

They are expected to provide the Republicans' political theme song for 1960 and their main selling point to the voters in the presidential election.

There will, of course, be some struggles in Congress between Democrats and Republicans, between Southern Democrats and Northern Democrats, between conservative Republicans and liberal Republicans.

And there will probably be some tiffs between Eisenhower and the Democrats, but mild. All this would be par for the course in any year. But nothing more than that is indicated by congressional reaction to the message.

With some exceptions, it was a sort of "yes, indeed, it's a very nice message" reaction. There was more criticism of what it didn't say than of what it did.

Eisenhower spoke pretty much in generalities.

He touched on a number of issues but the key question is how far he intends to go on any of them, to push them, to fight for them. That won't be answered until and unless he follows up with specific proposals.

One of those proposals called for federal officials to register voters in cases where local registrars discriminated against them. This week word came from the administration that it does not intend to support this part of the commission's proposals.

This will be a point of confusion all year unless Eisenhower soon gets down to cases and in a special message to Congress, or in some other way, say exactly what he'd like Congress to do.

The President, just as he did last year, protested against inflation and asked for restraint in spending. It is one of the ironies of our age that while he was doing that he was also doing this:

He said this year's budget of government spending—he will go into complete detail on this later in a message to Congress—will be almost 80 billion dollars, a peacetime record.

Yet, he said, he expects the government to spend all this and still have around four billion dollars left over from its revenues. In other words: He expects to balance the budget and have a surplus left.

With the nation's growing population and, consequently, the government's growing responsibilities at home and abroad, government spending is likely to get bigger year by year (and its income, too) unless there is disarmament.

Even in the field of peace, arms control and disarmament Eisenhower didn't try to get specific. This of course was one field — since it involves the unpredictable Soviets — where he couldn't get specific.

He seemed to be preparing the nation against excited expectations about his journeys abroad and this year's summit conference. He pointedly warned against quick solutions.

He put it this way: "We cannot expect sudden and revolutionary results. But we must find some place to begin."

A Political Settlement

By David Lawrence

Union Catered To GOP Election Ambitions

A "political" settlement — the kind that solves no basic problems but merely postpones indefinitely their solution — has emerged from the steel controversy. Economic issues, particularly the inflationary effects which can diminish further the purchasing power of the dollar, were disregarded. Already there is talk that the administration has given up its fight for labor-reform legislation at the coming session of Congress and prefers to put it off for the time being.

David Lawrence

This fateful turn of events has come about because the union leaders knew how to play their politics. They found their opportunity in catering to the political ambition of Republican leaders.

For weeks and weeks artificial pressure was built up on the Democratic side through governors, senators and representatives but this was a case where the Democrats were not in charge of the executive branch of the government and could do little to bring about a settlement. So finally it was rightly assumed that the political benefits of a possible settlement had to be dangled alluringly before the Republican leaders and that strategy worked.

ON DEC. 24, this correspondent, discussing the possible success of the union strategy, wrote in these dispatches:

"The future procedure is plainly marked out. The union leaders do not say so but actually they want a 'political' settlement. By this is meant a governmentally - imposed agreement. The union strategists think that in the end the steel managers will be compelled to accept it.

"This is what has happened many times before. The companies will not, of course, accept responsibility for an inflationary settlement. If, however, the government puts them in a situation where they cannot do anything but yield, they will have to agree to such a settlement and then later raise prices.

"This has been the history in major strikes and the unions feel that their influence is such that the administration in power, whether it be Republican or Democratic, must conform to the pattern. . . .

"President Eisenhower has up to this time stood up well against the pressure for a 'political' settlement. Inside his official family nevertheless: are those who have been urging him to change his attitude. It is an open question how long Mr. Eisenhower will be able to stand firm."

THERE WERE TWO men "in the official family" who were fair targets for the union strategists — Vice President Nixon and Secretary of Labor James Mitchell. Both could see political benefits arising from playing a conspicuous part in settling the steel strike.

Logical though this may seem to the politically minded — and Democrats under the same circumstances would have done the same thing — the fact remains that the country has suffered a severe setback. The momentum developed in recent months for a change in existing laws governing monopolies has been slowed down perceptibly.

Just why should a small group of men representing management and labor unions be permitted to shut down a whole industry? The American system has hitherto called for competition, as contrasted with the Khruschev system of state control of management and labor unions.

The 11 steel companies bargained as a unit only because all their workers were combined in a single union against them. Uniform rules and contract provisions have been insisted upon by the union and this is a means of fixing labor costs and, indirectly, prices throughout a whole industry.

Is Congress now to forget all about these monopolies and, as is reported, just because it is an election year, look the other way and avoid what is called a ticklish subject?

Why has the administration weakened on the fundamental principle involved?

Who is to pay the bill for the enormous economic loss suffered by the American people during the 116-day steel strike?

Can a loss like that be ignored and a billion-dollar increase in wage costs now be imposed, which must necessarily encourage other unions to make similar wage demands?

These are basic issues and yet the talk today is along the line of surrender of principle. Many members of Congress are superficially hailing the end of the steel strike and even the method by which it was settled as a salutary development, though it really doesn't get at the root of the evil of industry-wide strikes.

THE STEEL COMPANIES put up an unprecedented battle but had to capitulate in the end. They couldn't stand up against threats of hostile legislation and pressure exerted by the incumbent administration in Washington.

The labor unions acceded to the terms of the settlement because they got nearly everything they wanted and also preserved their own solidarity. Small wonder that the Steelworkers' Wage Policy Committee of 171 cheered Secretary of Labor Mitchell at his meeting with them after the steel settlement was announced!

Big business and big unionism constitute today rival forces which, when they agree, can injure the "party of the third part" — the consumer.

Government, which is supposed to represent all the people, unhappily is beholden to big business and to big unionism for campaign contributions to both political parties.

Some day men in high places may summon up the courage to awaken the public to the damage being done to the competitive system by economic monopolies but leadership in that direction has not yet emerged.

In The Mixing Bowl

By Truman Twill

Real estate agents are sniffing the aroma of a red-hot boom cooking in city residential space, and I'm with them.

This always has been my idea of what is going to be done about urban decay — not what some do-gooder thinks should be done but what is actually going to be done by people, themselves.

I think urban areas are like batter in a mixing bowl. The same force that whips the batter out to the edges ultimately draws it back to the center and this goes on and on.

People spread over the landscape in all directions because the original bowl that held them inside city limits wasn't big enough. In the process of spreading out, people relieved the pressure in the center of the mixture.

The next important move will bring some of the suburbanites back downtown. Furthermore, if prophecy is permissible, there will be a move at the same time that will push some of the people now in the center to the outskirts.

In the biggest cities, this will mean that upper middle class people leaving the suburbs to go back to town after their children have grown up will pass lower middle class people on their way to the country. It isn't necessary to peer very far into the future to see how aging suburban properties will be put up for sale and will be bought by families that couldn't have afforded them when they were new.

It takes no more effort to see that than it does to see that once-expensive land in the heart of a city will become attractive for apartment house sites as it grows cheaper, until finally it is ready for clearing by demolition crews and redevelopment.

This is more than impersonal guesswork on the part of the most enthusiastic sheep rancher who ever grazed a spread on the edge of town.

There are no children any more at the Twillery to play basketball under the big oak at the end of the lane, or to play baseball and whack golf balls in the meadow. The kids are grown up. From now on they will be home only for holidays and summer vacations.

The head sheepherder is older than he used to be. The challenge of acres of verdure is easier to ignore than it was 10 years ago. The vegetable garden has gone down the drain. The pond that leaked has been turned over to archeologists for whatever speculation they may feel inclined to make — perhaps the crater of a meteorite that struck the earth before the birth of Christ.

Trees that were small are larger, and it's a question whether there will be time to wait for new seedlings to reach adolescence.

Winter, which used to be endured impatiently while spring was coming now is endured with patience while spring remains at a safe distance. The whir of a lawn mower and the rat-a-tat-tat of hammer and nails no longer are the sounds of progress.

With no trouble, I can see myself looking out of an apartment window at traffic on a rainy day in the future, with everything close by — the post office, hospital, dentist, handy man, upholsterer, doctor and charge accounts.

It will be that way because that's the way I will want it to be, not because some fancy-pants figured out it would be good for me. Matter of fact, the fancy-pants fellows said I was nuts for moving to the country, which goes to show how looey they can get.

Addition To County Home Visiting Group Is Refused

Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin said at Lisbon Thursday he has no authority to appoint a sub-committee to serve with the Board of County Visitors to co-operate in studying problems at the County Home.

A group of Salem area farmers, with Richard Stamp and Ernest Whitacre as spokesmen, conferred with county commissioners Dec. 31 and requested appointment of such a group.

Commissioners relayed the request to the judge, who cited law which he said does not give him authority to name such a group.

In his answer, the judge also pointed out operations of the home are in the hands of the superintendent, Russell Phillis, and that he — the judge — has the utmost confidence in the board of visitors.

The judge's statement, which reviewed the formation of the board and aspects of jurisdiction over the home, reads in part:

"As you recall, in October 1959 we had a meeting in which a new board of county visitors was requested. The three county commissioners, Frank Wilson, Walter A. Hunston and R. Max Gard, and myself agreed that the board should be composed, not only as the law indicated, to-wit — three Republicans and three Democrats, three men and three women — but that it should be a board interested solely in the welfare of all persons held in public institutions or on which public money is being spent, and to prevent anybody from trying to obtain any personal advantage in any way over the bodies of these poor unfortunates either in the County Home or in any of the welfare homes.

"In keeping with that I agreed that I would appoint two representatives selected by the Republican County chairman, James L. McSweeney, and two selected by the Democratic chairman, Don Gosney.

"Mr. McSweeney selected — and I appointed — Clarence L. Robinson of Lisbon, a former county commissioner, and Mrs. Gladys Hanna of Salem R. D. 2. Mr. Gosney suggested — and I appointed — Guy J. Mauro, Salem attorney, and Mrs. Kay Blackburn, Columbiana housewife. Then I made two selections of my own, George T. Farrall of East Liverpool, a Republican and a businessman, and Mary Anderson of Salem, who has been an officer in the League of Women Voters and who had been suggested to me by the Columbiana County Mental Health association. I do not know her political affiliation.

"I believe that you and I must agree that this is a highly respectable and representative group of fine citizens. I personally have the greatest faith in them. I think any fair - minded person must also realize that this group has been selected by the duly elected representatives of both parties in a truly non-partisan manner."

I personally have the utmost confidence in this group and the work they have done to date, and know they will not permit the poor unfortunates in our County Home or any of our other institutions, be made the subject of a discussion aimed at only a personal advantage to some one person or group.

"As you can see by reading this law, I have no authority to appoint such a sub - committee as suggested. My sole authority is to appoint the Board of County Visitors, which I have done. Furthermore, I do not believe it would be necessary, since we have a fine board, composed of members of both parties and selected by both parties. In addition to that, I would like to refer you to revised code sections which place the operation of the County Home and responsibilities in the hands of the superintendent and makes provision for inspection once a month by the county commissioners.

"I feel that if Mr. Stamp and Ernest Whitacre are sincerely interested only in the manner in which the county home is being kept, and in the treatment of the inmates, they should first bring an authorized complaint to the attention of the superintendent.

"If they are dissatisfied with the manner in which he is operating, they should bring it to the attention of the county commissioners or bring some charges against him. If they feel there has been some abuse to the inmates or that these inmates are not being properly treated at the County Home, they should bring their complaint to this non-partisan Board of County Visitors.

"I feel quite sure this board will listen to the evidence and make such suggestions for changes if the evidence would warrant.

"Atty. Mauro is the present chairman. I am certain they may obtain from this board an audience, when desired, and the board will listen to Mr. Stamp and Mr. Whitacre or any of their group, and will sift evidence and come up with such recommendations as the evidence warrants.

"If the motives of both or their group are other than a desire to help these inmates then they must look elsewhere.

The revised code makes ample provision for the manner in which the County Home shall be run and also leaves open to these citizens a place where their complaints may be lodged and heard, to-wit — first, the superintendent, and if he is unsatisfactory, to the county commissioners. And of any abuse, they may also place the matter before the Board of County Visitors.

"I think we have made ample safeguard both in the law and in the appointment of this fine body of people for the protection, health and well-being of the inmates of the County Home. The mechanics of the operation of the home are outside the jurisdiction of the Board of County Visitors or of this court."

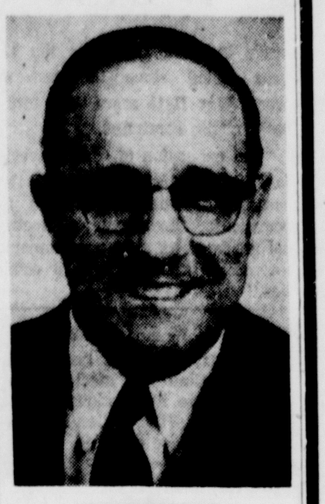
Owen D. Kountz Chosen As Council's New Clerk



OWEN KOUNTZ
Elected From Field Of 5.

Owen D. Kountz, 52, of 1271 Erie St., a former East End grocer, was elected clerk of City Council Thursday night to replace Raymond Goodman of Azalea Ave., who stepped out at the end of 1959.

Voting on a field of 5 applicants, the 6 councilmen who attended the special session gave 5 votes to Kountz and one to Rocco Corbisello Jr., 424½ W. 4th St.

The other applicants were Mrs. John I. Cupp, 815 Orchard Grove Ave.; Mrs. Helene C. Quigley, 1174 Oakwood Ave., and M. J. (Mike) Sweeney of W. 3rd St.

Kountz has been semi - retired since last year, when he sold a Mulberry St. grocery which he operated for 18 years. Born in East Liverpool Dec. 13, 1907, a son of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Kountz, he is married to the former Opel L. Holland. They have three daughters.

He first was associated in business with his father, who operated a meat market on Market St. for 45 years. Then he took a position with the A. & P. Co. before acquiring his own business.

Kountz is a member of the Pennsylvania Ave. Methodist Church, where he has served as treasurer, chairman of the trustees, a member of the Official Board and finance committee and a Sunday School teacher.

Kountz was the only member of the Democratic ticket who did not win election in November. Running for city treasurer, he lost to Bert A. Dawson, the Republican incumbent.

The clerk's post will pay Kountz $1,200 a year — $400 above the salary Goodman drew. Council established the higher salary at its meeting Monday night, then deferred the election of the clerk until last night.

Goodman has served as clerk for 12 years. He was elected in 1947 to succeed the late G. Arthur Shone, who retired after about 25 years' service. When seven Democrats were elected to Council to succeed 7 Republicans, Goodman announced he would not seek reappointment at the beginning of the new biennium.

Council also reappointed Mrs. Edna Sweeney of W. 4th St. as assistant clerk, which pays $25 monthly. She was returned to the post on a motion made by Councilman Clinton R. Seevers, seconded by Councilman Clifford J. Cooper.

Election of Kountz was by secret ballot after the five applications had been read. The tellers were Lee Copenhaver, who will serve as safety - service director in the new administration, and Robert F. Popp, Review reporter.

Attending the session were Councilmen Seevers, Cooper, Donald E. Smith, Robert B. Laughlin, John A. Melvin and Donald S. Hancock. Councilman John F. Kelly was excused. President Charles N. Edwards presided.

Mrs. Sweeney was acting clerk. Kountz went to work immediately after his election to familiarize himself with his new post.

Council's next regular meeting will be Jan. 18 at 8 p. m.

R. P. Jones Heads Firemen's Group

Other officers elected are Leonard Congrove, first assistant chief; Wilmer Bryson, second assistant chief; Harry Reckner, captain; Tony Bisco, lieutenant, and Martin Christen, secretary.

The association has contracted Heck's Amusements to provide rides for a firemen's carnival planned Aug. 30-Sept. 5.

The next association meeting is Jan. 21 while volunteer firemen will meet again Thursday night.

Utility To Spend $43 Million Overall

Ohio Power Outlines 1960 Work

Improved facilities at East Liverpool and other district stations are included in the program for 1960 announced today by the Ohio Power Co.

The company will invest $43,695,000 overall during the year for construction of new facilities and the expansion of existing equipment, A. N. Prentice, vice president and general manager, said.

WILLIAM S. WELDAY of Steubenville, manager of the company's Eastern Division, said major construction projects scheduled in the division include the following:

East Liverpool — About $117,000 will be spent for completion of a $724,800 project designed to convert to higher voltages the transmission and distribution facilities in and around the city.

Wintersville and West Alikanna Substation — Construction of a 3½-mile 23,000-volt transmission line between the two points. Total cost of substation and line work is estimated at $109,000, of which about $64,000 will be invested this year.

Dilles Bottom and Bellaire — Replacing ground wires on various lines. The job will cost about $59,000, with all but about $10,000 being spent in 960.

Almost half of the $43,695,000 total will be spent at the Philip Sporn plant, near New Haven, W. Va., where Ohio Power is completing construction of a giant 450,000-kilowatt steam - electric generating unit. When completed, the unit will be larger than any generating machine now operatnig in the U. S., Prentice said.

"OUR FORECAST calls for the spending of $20,569,000 on that unit this year," he explained. "It is now scheduled to go into commercial operation in October 1960. Total cost of the entire project will be $65,200,000."

When the big unit goes into service, the generating capacity of the Philip Sporn plant will be 1,050,000 kilowatts, making it the largest power plant on the American Electric Power System, of which Ohio Power Co. is a part.

"The remaining portion of the forecast, amounting to more than $23 million, will be invested in transmission and distribution facilities, in our office and service buildings, in coal mining lands and equipment and in a wide variety of miscellaneous projects," Prentice said.

"The 1960 construction forecast brings the construction investment made by Ohio Power in the 15-year period since the end of World War II to more than $475,000,000," he continued.

"The expansion of Ohio Power's facilities in 1960 is part of the company's continuous efforts to provide for the increasing electrical needs of its 455,000 customers, located in 53 of Ohio's 88 counties."

Budget

provements in our tax structure and thereby truly reduce the heavy burdens of taxation."

The surplus would depend not only on high revenues but also on willingness in Congress to forego either tax cuts or heavy new spending programs.

Some Democrats and a few Republicans expressed doubt that the $4,200,000,000 surplus can be achieved. If it does become a reality, however, here's how it will affect the credit situation:

In the current calendar year, the government would be able to reduce the debt by a modest amount. This would compare with an eight-billion-dollar addition to the debt in 1959.

If there were no other factors at work, this lessening of demand for loans would result in lower interest rates.

However, Eisenhower's new budget is based on the assumption of unprecedented prosperity in 1960. And prosperity means that businessmen and individuals probably will be borrowing more money—to build factories, buy houses and finance new autos.

The increase in private demand for loans thus might offset the reduction in the government's demand and tend to keep interest rates at the present levels or even higher ones.

But with a balanced federal budget, the Federal Reserve Board might be inclined to relax some of its current restrictions on the supply of credit.

2 Hurt When Car Hits Truck

A Chester man and his teen-age daughter were injured when their car rammed a parked flatbed truck on Indiana Ave., Chester, Thursday afternoon after he said his vision was temporarily blinded by bright sunlight.

James Paisley, 536 Florida Ave. and Ruth Ann, 15, were treated at City Hospital after their 1955 sedan struck the truck on Indiana Ave. between 3rd and 4th Sts. about 4:20 p. m.

The girl, a junior at Chester High School, suffered lacerations and bruises of the forehead when thrown against the windshield by the impact. Her father received cuts and bruises of the forehead.

The truck owned by William Graham of Louisiana Ave. received minor damage. Paisley's sedan was damaged badly, it was reported. Paisley said the bright sunlight obscured his vision as he drove over the crest of the hill on Indiana Ave.

2 Autos Damaged In Local Mishaps

Two autos were damaged in a pair of East Liverpool traffic mishaps Thursday afternoon and night, police said.

William S. Morris, 819 Valley Ave., told police the left rear fender of his 1954 sedan was struck by a hit-skip auto while it was parked on Pennsylvania Ave. about 6:49 p. m. A witness who saw the crash said the Morris car was hit by a green auto which continued without stopping, officers said. The witness gave police a description of the car.

Robert Williams, 1126 Buckeye Ave., Wellsville, told police the left front fender of his 1947 sedan was damaged in a mishap at 4:25 p. m. on Smith St. at Lincoln Ave. Williams told police he was traveling north on Smith St. when his car was hit by an auto which was turning left from Lincoln Ave. onto Smith St. Reporting the mishap to headquarters, Williams gave incomplete data on the second auto, police said.

Deputy Attends FBI School At Charleston

Nick Palcic of Weirton, chief deputy of the Hancock County sheriff's office in New Cumberland, attended a Federal Bureau of Investigation school in Charleston Thursday on latest methods of apprehending auto thieves.

National Head's Wellsville Guest

50 Attend FOP-FOPA Installation

Over 50 attended the joint installation of officers held Thursday night by Wellsville Fraternal Order of Police Lodge 11 and FOP Associates Lodge 51 at Piatt's Tea Room.

Dudek also was guest speaker. He urged that "policemen be treated as an important cog in community government machinery."

He said there is a move underway to have Gov. Michael DiSalle set up a special Grand Jury to investigate alleged "brutality" of policemen and pointed out one case in Cleveland which is under fire.

Dudedk said the patrolman shot a motorist following a lengthy chase in which the man tries three times to run down the officer, who was on a motorcycle. When the man finally was pulled to the curb and the officer approached the car, the man reached for the glove compartment. The officer drew his gun, fired, and killed the man, Dudek said.

The case was taken before a Grand Jury, investigated very thoroughly, and the officer was exonerated. Now the police are being called "brutal," he said. He then compared this with the "brutality" of men who shoot, beat, rob, rape and torture innocent citizens.

"We read each day of police officers being sued or criticized for their actions," he said. "This makes it difficult to obtain high caliber men for the jobs. Officers of the law are not sadistic but are normal men just like other men," he said.

Touching on the juvenile problem, Dudek urged the use of "woodshed psychology." "Chastizing a youth for doing wrong will not hurt him," he said.

"It is time we begin to awaken to this problem," Dudek commented.

Hays, Gosney Head Slate Of 'Favorite Son' DiSalle

Petitions were placed in circulation today seeking election of Rep. Wayne L. Hays, 18th Ohio District congressman, and Don R. Gosney, county party chairman, as delegates to the Democratic National Convention in Los Angeles July 11 pledged to support the presidential candidacy of Gov. Michael V. DiSalle as Ohio's "favorite son."

The petitions name as district alternates Maurice Rapport of Thompson Ave., merchant, real estate operator and party leader, and Mrs. Dorothy Gorby of Steubenville, Jefferson County Democratic women's chairman.

Petitions also were placed in circulation for the candidacy of Ohio delegates and alternates-at-large to the national convention, also pledged to the DiSalle candidacy.

All the candidates were endorsed by 18th District Democratic leaders at a recent meeting in Steubenville. The district is comprised of five counties — Columbiana, Jefferson, Belmont, Carroll and Harrison.

Gosney, also Democratic State Central Committeeman from the 18th District, obtained petitions for the delegates from the County Election Board's office. The delegations will appear on the ballot as pledged to Gov. DiSalle as first choice for Democratic presidential candidate.

The governor has indicated he will lend his support to Sen. John F. Kennedy of Massachusetts, one of the front-running candidates for the nomination.

Under Democratic party procedure, each congressional district in Ohio is entitled to send two delegates and two alternates to the convention. Each delegate has a full vote. In addition, Ohio is entitled to send 36 delegates at-large and 36 alternates at-large. The at-large delegates each are entitled to a half vote.

The delegates will be elected at the May 3 primaries. Petitions for 18th District candidates will be filed with the Columbiana County board under Ohio law, as it administers election procedures in the most populous county of the district.

When filing the petition, the delegates are required to furnish a certification that they have the permission of the proposed candidate for the use of his name.

BARGAINS GALORE ALL OVER THE STORE

Out Of The Air

By JOHN CROSBY

It Was Ladies' Night On Television

"The Margaret Bourke-White Story" is another dramatic case history of triumph over illness which had both its fine moments and its not-so fine ones. To take the good points up in the order of their importance, Miss Teresa Wright gave a solid, deeply felt, technically finished performance in the title role. This is the story of the famous photographer who has covered the earth-shaking events and the people after she is striken with Parkinson's disease—a humiliating, fearful, progressive ailment.

John Crosby

It's a true story and it's commendable of "Sunday Showcase" to pick a noble, heart-warming story like this. And lastly, the camerawork and direction of the operation shots on Miss Bourke-White's brain were gripping, if slightly ghastly.

THERE WERE some tremendously effective camera shots looking up into the face of the surgeon and also some terribly effective ones looking down into Miss Wright's face.

The trouble here is that the camera should have been one thing or the other—either seeing the thing through the eyes of Miss Bourke-White or, impersonally, seeing Miss Bourke-White through the eyes of an outsider—not both.

The first time Miss Wright dropped a camera and screamed, it was a highly poignant and dramatic moment. But after the fourth or fifth time she tipped something over I got a little restive.

The unfortunate part of dramatizing a real live person's life is that the real live person and her lawyers are watching. The medical profession also is watching. So the author must be accurate, in good taste, noncontroversial and polite.

THIS NARROWS his range considerably, and in this case the range was narrowed to the point where Miss Bourke-White was made two-dimensional and she's not like that at all.

Both those reactions are so unusual that you know they have to be real.

If you like oprations, this one is a thriller, all right, and there was none of those medical dramatic cliches—"Forceps! Sponge!" etc.—in the operation scene at all.

THE ENDING, with Miss Wright bouncing a ball at some kids and looking the spitting image of the real Miss Bourke-White, was emotionally fulfilling. Perhaps that's the real attraction of these true stories.

We dare not be sentimental in our fictional creations. But with real people we can let down our guards a little and wallow a bit in the feeling, for which there is a great hunger among the populace.

This is the second role of this sort Miss Wright has done. She played the original "Mirable Worker" on television before Anne Bancroft got the part on Broadway, and she did a marvelous job of it. She's a gifted girl at heartbreak roles.

NBC WAS UP to its armpits in feminist women Sunday night.

This was a sort of musical version of that famous newspaper story with Miss Blair kicking up her heels clear around the globe as a sort of demonstration of the capabilities of women.

It's the first one of these things with a story line that I thought had real bounce and spirit and conviction. Miss Blair, as usual, was full of fire and exuberance. Altogether I had a fine time.

Ohio GOP Group Cool To Bender's Bid

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former GOP senator George H. Bender of Ohio intends to run in Ohio as a delegate-at-large for the national Republican presidential nominating convention, but the Ohio GOP House delegation is cool on the idea, informed sources say.

Bender's name came up in a closed meeting of the delegation Thursday, and one informed source said the delegation "didn't want to see Bender run for anything."

Now a paid consultant to Teamsters president James R. Hoffa, Bender says he will run for the convention regardless of what the Ohio Republican Committee decides. That committee will soon name a slate of 10 candidates for at-large delegates, but one source told a reporter he is pretty sure Bender will not be one of the 10.

The meeting generally was to hear from Ohio chairman Ray Bliss about finances for the forthcoming campaign.

Sen. Young Shrugs Off Legion Ouster Demand

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Stephen M. Young (D-Ohio) says he is far too busy to pay any attention to the demand from some Cincinnati American Legionnaires that he be ousted from the legion.

He said he is too busy at his job as senator to "pay any attention to this publicity seeking group."

The senator, a charter member of the Army-Navy legion post in Cleveland, had called the Cincinnati group loud-mouthed professional patriots.

She Wears Silver Wings

Flight Nurse's Insignia Presented Area Woman

Second Lt. Eleanor M. Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold M. Wilson of the Y. & O. Rd., is at Mountain Home Air Force Base in Idaho awaiting a new assignment after receiving the silver wings of a flight nurse at the School of Aviation Medicine at the Aerospace Medical Center in San Antonio, Tex.

To qualify, she completed a six-week course at the school, which is located at Brooks Air Force Base. The course covered aviation physiology, management and care of patients under all types of flying conditions, theory and practice in treatment of mass casualties, survival, nuclear weapons and their effects and a complete review of medical and surgical nursing.

The Air Force said the six-week flight nursing course is the equivalent of eight months of college. It includes 216 hours in classrooms, 15 hours swimming and rescue instruction and practice and 18 hours flying time.

Lt. Wilson was graduated in 1953 from David Anderson High School in Lisbon. Graduated from the City Hospital Nurses Training School in 1957, she was on the staff in the operating room in 1957 and 1958. She received her Air Force commission in September 1958 and attended the officer indoctrination course the following month at Gunter AFB in Montgomery, Ala.

She reported to Mountain Home AFB Dec. 31, 1958, for general duty in a medical and surgical ward. After completing the course at San Antonio, she returned to the base in Idaho to await further assignment.

Lt. Wilson entered the service through the Air Force recruiting station at City Hall. T. Sgt. Charles D. Ward, recruiter, said information is available at the station on opportunities in the Air Force for women, including nurses. He is on duty each Tuesday and Thursday from 10:30 a. m. to 3 p. m.

After a fire truck appeared at the Braunstein home (there was no fire), police investigated. The officers helped themselves to some "gift" aspirins, saying the report gave them a headache.

2 Boys Given Lecture On Railroad Trespass

LISBON — Two Salem youths, 16 and 17 were let off with a lecture at a hearing before Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin Thursday for trespassing on the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks northwest of Salem. They were also warned not to trespass again.

Sgt. Harry McCaskey of the Canton office of the Pennsy's railroad police ordered the youths into Juvenile Court after he arrested them. The section of the road is being policed regularly because of two incidents.

Last month somebody placed a 57-pound splice bar on the rail and a train hit it, throwing it over 200 feet, but didn't wreck the train.

About a year ago, someone threw a switch in the same vicinity. This could have caused a serious accident but was averted by an alert engineer, Sgt. McCaskey said.

Family Protests 'Confinement'

Patient Case Faces Study Following Lisbon Hearing

Arrangements for further clarification of the status of a Glenmoor man who is a patient at a Columbus tuberculosis hospital were made at a meeting of the patient's family and county officials Thursday afternoon at Juvenile Court in Lisbon.

The informal session was scheduled by Judge Louis Tobin for a full study of the case in which Henry Thompson, a millworker, was admitted to the Ohio Tuberculosis Hospital under court order after he refused to enter voluntarily.

Both Thompson and his wife had written to The Review complaining that he was being held behind bars in a ward at the hospital. The meeting was arranged as a result for a public review of the background.

Judge Tobin explained that Thompson apparently had an active case of tuberculosis — according to medical evidence — and had twice in the past year left two hospitals against the advice of physicians.

State law provides that a Probate Court may issue an order for compulsory hospitalization of a person who has active tuberculosis and who refuses to enter or absents himself from a hospital when in the opinion of the health authorities his condition is a public health threat.

When the county Board of Health and the county Tuberculosis Control Clinic reported Thompson posed a health threat to those with whom he came in contact, Dr. C. S. Palmer, county health commissioner, filed for a court order to compel hospitalization of the patient. At a hearing Dec. 10, when Thompson refused to go voluntarily to the hospital, a court order was issued and he was taken to Columbus Dec. 15.

The family's primary complaint yesterday was that Thompson was being detained "like a prisoner," with extremely restricted privileges.

Mrs. Thompson said even her husband's bathroom privileges are limited, he is not permitted pictures or television in his room and visitors must speak to him through a screen partition.

Judge Tobin and Dr. F. G. Kravec, director of the county TB clinic, explained that Thompson—because he had refused voluntary hospitalization and had left two other hospitals — was being kept in a recalcitrant ward with locked doors, but would be transferred to an open ward when he agreed to stay in the hospital and authorities there believed he understood the problem and would cooperate in treatment.

Dr. Kravec read a letter from Dr. R. H. Browning, director of the hospital, in which he said Thompson "rapidly is coming to the point of accepting his need for treatment," is cooperative and is being considered for transfer to an open ward.

At Judge Tobin's request, Dr. Kravec agreed to have Dr. Browning meet the family when they visit at the hospital Jan. 16. Dr. Kravec is also to visit the hospital this month and inspect the facilities and procedures about which the family complained. He then is to report to Judge Tobin.

About 19 attended the meeting, including representatives of the TB Control Board, Health Department, prosecutor's office and the county commissioners.

Stark Grand Jury Begins Long Task In Vice Probe

CANTON, Ohio (AP) — Eight men and seven women on a special grand jury to investigate gambling and vice in Stark County have begun a task that may keep them busy for three months.

They'll hear testimony from more than 100 witnesses and consider about 25 pounds of written comment and evidence presented by state and local officials. And throughout the prolonged inquiry they will be expected to observe their oath of secrecy.

Common Pleas Judge George N. Graham, who Thursday impaneled the jury and named a foreman, told jurors that their work should be governed by "diligence, secrecy and impartiality." James M. Ridball, a Canton salesman, is the foreman.

Keep In Trim

By IDA JEAN KAIN

Middle Muscles Need Toning Exercises

Exercise is a beauty measure. In fact, something dreary happens to your looks and your spirits when you diet stringently with slight exercise. Dr. L. E. Morehouse, with the Department of Physical Education at the University of California, expresses it this way:

By Ida Jean Kain

"Women on a diet tire quickly and shun exercise, then atrophy sets in . . . and the result is a scrawny appearance. The answer: Diet scientifically, reduce slowly and keep exercising."

Ease into an exercise routine. When you stretch, center the stretch where the figure needs discipline, through the middle. Then follow through with a smooth side-bend. Hold the muscle contraction to a slow count of six and slowly release. Do not hold your breath. Breathe freely.

START WITH exercises to tone the muscles of the abdominal wall for, as the fat is removed, it is important to restore needed tone to these muscles which hold the important organs in place. When the important girdle muscles have live tone, normal daily living is more pleasant.

Movement: Contract strongly with abdominal muscles and get small of back as flat against floor as possible. Now stretch all along the right side, tip to toe. Keep small of back on floor and stretch three times. Then flex right knee and stretch along left boundary lines.

From this same position, raise the straight leg part way up and, holding the muscle contraction, very slowly lower leg to floor, counting out loud to ten. Do the same with the other leg. Do not hold breath.

"Stand" on knees, have arms stretched out at sides, shoulder level. Slowly bend sidewards to the right, aiming to touch fingers to floor at right. Don't cheat! Do not allow hips to bow out at sides as you bend. Back to center, bend to the left. Repeat 8 to 10 times, alternating sides. This side bend is wonderfully waist whittling.

Wellsville Hosts Toronto Squad Tonight

The Sports Bench

By BOB DUFFY
Sports Editor

Groat's All Stars Here Jan. 18 . . .

A formidable group of baseball players who run around on the basketball courts to keep in shape during the off-season will come to town on Monday Jan. 18.

Under the banner of Dick Groat's Major League All-Stars, the team will meet a squad picked from the City Basketball League. The game is set at Memorial Auditorium.

The East Liverpool Sportsmen Club, which sponsors the City League, is bringing the baseball stars here.

According to Jim Flasco, City League director, proceeds from the contest will be used for outside lighted basketball courts.

The cause is worthwhile and the game should be a good one.

Groat will bring with him Roy Face, Ron Kline, Jerry Lynch, Chuck Tanner, Paul Smith, Bob Del Greco and as an added feature All-American Don Hennon.

The last time Groat appeared here was in the 1950 Tri-State tournament. He was an All-American basketball player at Duke University.

Composing the City League All-Star team will be Bevo Francis, Jim Tucker, Bob Bingham, Ted Robinson, George Parfitt, Vince Giles, Stan Yukich, Jim Harris and Frank Chan.

Tickets for the contest are on sale at Dick Brian's, in East Liverpool, the House of Wax in Wellsville and Rivetti's in Midland.

Dawson 'Setting Them Up' . . .

PLAYING along side All-American Jimmy Darrow doesn't give former Potter star Bob Dawson much of a chance to score, but he has been seeing a lot of basketball action for Bowling Green this season.

A high scorer in high school and with the Bowling Green freshman last season, Bob is rated "the best passer and feeder on the team" by his coach, Andy Anderson.

And he spends most of his time on the court feeding Darrow, who is averaging close to 30 points a game, and Rex Leach, Bowling Green's other star.

Michigan Hot After Mackall . . .

THE UNIVERSITY of Michigan is the latest to throw its hat in the ring for the services of Bob Mackall.

It seems the Wolverines are pressing the issue a little harder than any other school so far. They want the East Liverpool quarterback in a bad way.

This 'N That In Sports . . .

THE EASTERN District wrestling tournament which went over so well here last year will not return to East Liverpool because of a change in districts.

Several teams from the Bridgeport area have been added to the Eastern District and the tourney will be held at Bridgeport.

We are sorry to see the tournament go to another city because it gave the sport a big lift in East Liverpool.

Pugh has seen limited action in each of Marshall's eight games. The Thundering Herd shows a 5-3 record so far this season.

REMEMBER Joe Maddrey of Aliquippa, who was a sensation in the Nonpareil Club's Junior tournament for the last two years? He and Cleveland East Tech's Ken Glenn are averaging 50 points between them on the Niagara U. freshman basketball team.

IT LOOKS like our best pick of 1960 has been made. We are referring to our selection of Washington over Wisconsin in the Rose Bowl.

Anyhow, it is back to district basketball this week where we like Wellsville over Toronto in the top contest in the district tonight.

Midland gets the nod over Rochester and in Hancock County we will have to stick with the home team — Chester to beat Newell.

In other contests, it looks like Columbiana a slight favorite over Leetonia, Stanton Local to keep winning at Wayne, Louisville to nip East Palestine, Minerva over Lisbon and Fairfield - Waterford to stop Greenford.

Saturday we are going out on the limb just a little, but think the Potters are a few points better than Youngstown South.

South Rated Favorite In Senior Bowl

MOBILE, Ala. (AP)—Collegiate stars from throughout the country will clash in the 11th annual Senior Bowl game Saturday in what the weatherman says will be ideal football weather.

The forecast is for clear skies with the temperature probably in the 50s for the televised meeting of 25-man squads representing the North and the South.

The South is a 3½-point favorite to win its seventh game in the senior bowl series, in which the players become pros. Members of the winning team will receive $600 each, the losers $500 each.

Quarterback Charley Britt of Georgia will direct the South defense and also serve as co-captain together with Ken Kirk of Mississippi, the middle linebacker on defense.

The North players elected two linemen as captains. They are center Bill Lapham of Iowa on offense and middle guard Rod Breedlove of Maryland on defense.

The game will be played under pro rules, including unlimited substitution and one point conversions.

Tribe Invites 13 Farmhands For Training

CLEVELAND (AP) — General Manager Frank Lane is hoping at least one of 13 minor leaguers invited to Tucson for spring training with the Cleveland Indians will impress enough to be kept with the club all season.

Lane pointed to the record of pitcher Jim Perry, an unheralded farmhand on a similar training stint last year and now an established major leaguer.

The 3 trainees heading for Arizona include nine pitchers. Three of the pitchers have trained with the Tribe in previous years.

A pitcher considered likely to make the grade is Ed Drapcho, a 24-year-old southpaw. His record last season with Mobile in the Southern Assn. was 11-6 with an earned run average of 2.23.

The others invited to Arizona and the club with which they played last year are:

Pitchers Robert Allen, Reading; George Denyer, Batavia; Bill Fazekas, Reading and Burlington; Tom Gansauer, Batavia; Julio Guerra, Reading; Robert Gordon, Selma; David Tyriver, Mobile; and James Weaver, Burlington; shortstop Mike De La Hoz, Reading and San Diego; second baseman Steve Jankowski, San Diego, and catchers Allen Jones, San Diego, and James Lawrence, Minot.

Fazekas, 20, a hard-throwing righthander from Lorain, will be making his second trip to the western camp. So will southpaw Allen and righthander Guerra.

Westgate Five Gains Second

Westgate pulled away in the waning minutes to hand Wellsville a 37-29 setback Thursday night on the Westgate court.

The victory was the second in four games for the Westgate five.

Replaces Craig Burbick

Adkins To Start Saturday Against Youngstown South

The East Liverpool Potters will attempt to shake off a four-game losing streak when they invade Youngstown South Fieldhouse Saturday night.

Coach Jim Harris said today that he plans one change Saturday. The Potter mentor will start Harold Adkins in place of Craig Burbick in an effort to get more offensive and rebounding strength into the lineup.

Burbick was benched following his performance at Midland Saturday night when he scored only one point. The 6-foot-3 senior shows only six points in his last four games.

Adkins, a senior, stands 6-foot-2 and has seen limited action this season. He tossed in four points in the fourth quarter against Midland Saturday.

The remainder of the Potter lineup will be the same, with Bob Mackall at the other forward, Ray Bigelow at center and Kenny Cunningham and Phil Chan at guards.

Harris has been impressed with the work of Chan in the past two games and in practice sessions.

The Potter-South game will get under way about 8 p. m., with a reserve contest starting at 6:45.

Coach Merrill Rosselli's Warriors are batting .500 for the season, but will meet Youngstown Rayen tonight in a City series battle.

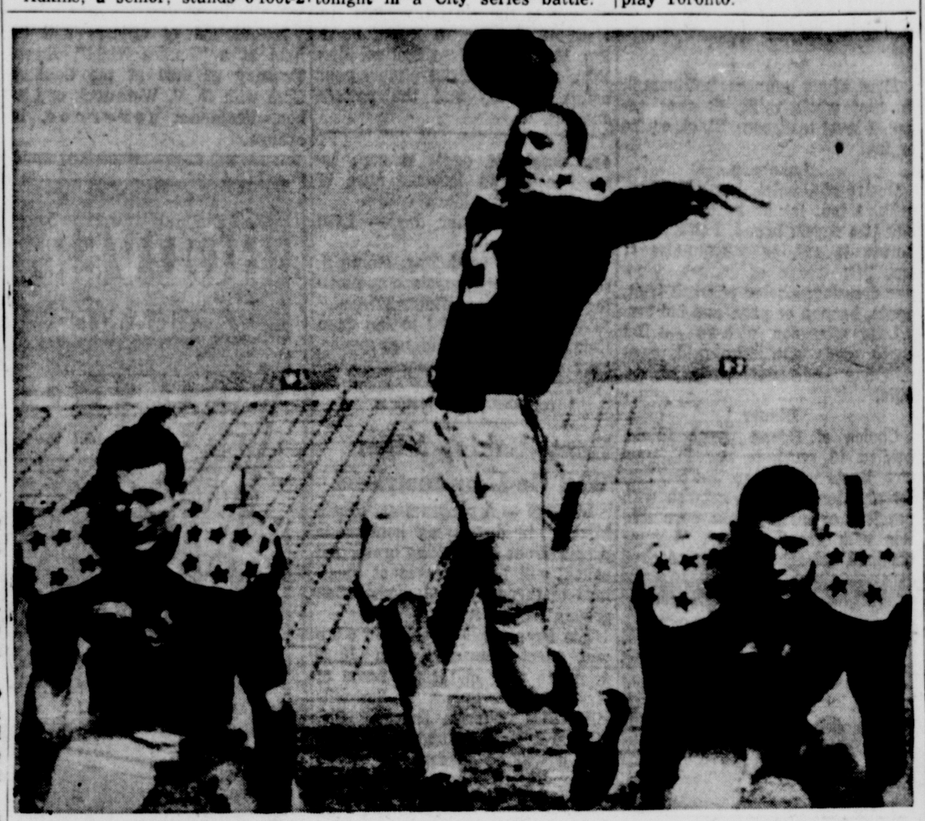
Youngstown South has rolled over Chaney, Boardman and Canton Lehman, while losing to Farrell, Girard and Sharon.

The two scoring mates for South are Don Willis and Tom Jenkins, each standing about 6-foot-3.

Lou Lenord, a 6-foot-2 performer, is the leading rebounder on the outfit, while the two outside men are Bob Price at 5-foot-10 and John Kinsley at 5-foot-9.

Saturday's game will wind up a long and rather disastrous road trip for the Potters, who have played their last four games away.

East Liverpool will return to Memorial Auditorium next Friday to play Toronto.



CINCINNATI quarterback Jack Lee jumps up to throw in practice session at Mobile Thursday for the 11th annual Senior Bowl game Saturday. In front of him are two of his favorite receivers, Washington State's Gail Cogdill (84) and Don Ellersick (26). All three will play for the North in the All-Star game. (UPI Telephoto)

Chester, Newell To Meet; Stanton Bids For 7th Win

Returning to the hardwood for the first time in almost three weeks, Wellsville will meet Toronto in the top game in the district tonight.

Both teams will put identical records of 4 and 1 on the line as a result of the Red Knights' 45-44 victory over Wellsburg Tuesday.

Tonight's game at Beacom Memorial gym will give district fans a hint as to what to expect when the Sectional Class "AA" tourney rolls around in March.

Varsity contests both nights will start about 8:15 p. m., with reserve tilts getting under way at 7.

Another headliner is the ancient rivalry matching Newell and Chester. The first of the two contests played by these Hancock County schools will be at Chester tonight.

Coach John Robison's Newell five has but one victory in seven games. The Vikings are also on a two-game losing streak after winning their only contest of the season over Beaver Local.

Midland will go after its second Section 8 victory when the Leopards entertain Rochester tonight. Coach George Hamilton's boys aren't expected to have much trouble with the Rams.

Four Columbiana County teams will move into Tri-County action tonight. Seeking their second straight league victory will be East Palestine, which will entertain Louisville.

Lisbon will go after its first league victory at Minerva, while Columbiana and Leetonia, both seeking win No. 1 in loop competition, meet at Leetonia.

Another inter-county rivalry finds Beaver Local at Salineville. Coach Jack Frontone's Beavers, idle since Dec. 22, will attempt to snap a four-game losing streak.

Coach Dan Altemese, former reserve mentor at East Liverpool, will bring his Jackson-Milton squad to United tonight. United will be after its fifth victory in eight outings.

Other contests find the high-flying Stanton Local five shooting for its seventh straight victory at Wayne.

Coach Les Douglas' cagers, which dropped its first two starts, suddenly caught fire and have a six-game winning streak to show for their efforts.

Fairfield-Waterford will play host to Greenford tonight, while New Cumberland will be at home against Mingo Junction.

Buckeyes, Indiana Meet In Crucial Big 10 Tilt

By The Associated Press

It is do or die for twice-beaten Indiana, a prime Big Ten preseason choice, in its basketball game at Ohio State Saturday.

Another loss and the Hoosiers, who have succumbed surprisingly to Purdue and Northwestern in their first two conference starts, would be jolted out of title consideration.

It certainly tops a conference card Saturday that sends Michigan (0-0) to Michigan State (1-0), Minnesota (1-0) to Illinois (0-1), Northwestern (1-0) to Iowa (1-1) and Wisconsin (0-2) to Purdue (1-0).

Northwestern coach Bill Rohr concedes that "Ohio State is the most likely champion, but is followed closely by Indiana, Iowa, Minnesota, Illinois, Michigan State and Purdue."

Even with a 61-57 victory over Indiana Monday, in which Wildcat rookie Bill Cacciatore scored 27 points, Rohr thinks his team is destined to wind up in the last three along with Wisconsin and Michigan.

"Too much inexperience," he says.

The slow-down tactics being used so far against Indiana might be Ohio State's strategy Saturday when the 6-8 Lucas must face such rugged giants as 6-11 Walt Bellamy and 6-7 Frank Radovich. But that would be a departure for the racehorse Buckeyes.

The Hoosiers have had a serious slump in shooting accuracy, hitting only .348 against Purdue and .296 against Northwestern. Against the latter, the usual hot pot-shooting Indiana guards totaled only 5 field goals in 24 attempts.

"If we don't play better than that at Ohio State, we're going to get a tomping," says Coach Branch McCracken.

California Will Support Federal Control In Ring

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — California's bolting of the National Boxing Assn. today brought a strong hint this state may seek closer cooperation with New York or possibly recommend federal control of the sport.

"If federal control is constructive, we would be all for it," declared Jack W. Urch, executive officer of the California Athletic Commission.

He added the state is willing to join with any group dedicated to restoring boxing to "the high pinnacle of public esteem that it deserves." New York and Massachusetts are the only other states outside the NBA. The former, in recent months, has conducted several investigations of boxing.

Urch said he urged the NBA last September to take steps to clean up the sport and warned that federal intervention was likely. A committee headed by Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) is reported ready to start a nationwide investigation.

Last Aug. 25, California's GGov. Edmund G. Brown suggested at a news conference that some national boxing laws were needed "because this boxing business is apparently infiltrated with racketeers and gangsters." Brown said he may recommend banning the sport if Congress doesn't act on the matter this session.

In the past year, California suspensions have not been upheld by other NBA members. The state refused a managerial license to Al Weill, who handled Rocky Marciano when he was champion. It also suspended Larry Boardman of Marlboro, Conn., and his father-manager, Sam.

Midland Club To Hold Shoot

The Midland Sportsmen's Club will hold a 14-target flint round shoot Monday at 7:30 p. m. Registration will be at 7 p. m. at the clubhouse at the farm.

All archers and spectators are invited, H. B. Kissinger, secretary, said. Tony Flara, supervisor for the shoot, has announced that these shoots will continue throughout the winter months.

Richard Martell, chairman of the Buck Trophy contest, said the trophy will be awarded to the winner at the general meeting of the club Jan. 27.

Some 21 competed in the indoor target shoots initiated Monday. Winners included Tony Azzarella of Midland Archers, 245, and Paul Burris of Beaver Kettle Bowmen, 241, AA Class; Joe Goyak, 227, A Class: Frank Tepovic, 237, XB Class; Andy Wasley, 122, C Class; and Joe Martell, 278, free style division. Martell was just two points less than a perfect score.

Wilkinson Denies He'll Quit Coaching After Probation

Speculation Spreads During NCAA Meeting

NEW YORK (AP)—The 54th annual NCAA convention reached its climax today amid speculation that Bud Wilkinson of Oklahoma may retire from coaching football.

In Hawaii Thursday night the Sooner coach denied that he will quit. He made no further comment.

Friends and colleagues of Wilkinson feel that the indefinite probation leveled this week on Oklahoma by the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. has disillusioned Wilkinson to the extent that he will quit football, despite his tremendous 121-13-3 record as head coach of the Sooners.

Wilkinson also is athletic director at Oklahoma which he has led to three national championships and 12 consecutive Big Eight Conference titles.

The former Minnesota star, currently in Hawaii to coach in the Hula Bowl, finished the season with a 7-3 record, his worst of 13 seasons at the Norman, Okla. school.

Comments from friends, Big Eight colleagues, coaches and newspapermen who are close to Bud, could be summed up generally:

"He saw this (the probation) coming, and it will break his heart. Bud's record is cleaner than that of 90 per cent of the coaches in the country. He loved to win, but he played by all the rules, both on the field and off. And the worst blow of all is that another coach blew the whistle on him."

No one cared to identify the "other coach," and the NCAA never discloses the sources of information which lead to its investigations.

The NCAA has continually emphasized that Wilkinson and all other school officials connected with Oklahoma athletics have cooperated fully.

The plan, part of the TV committee's over-all recommendations, would for the first time empower the TV committee to deal with the televising network for two years rather than one. The idea is to give sponsors advertising continuity. It was expected to pass easily on the convention floor.

Woody Hayes' Incident Reviewed By NCAA

NEW YORK (AP)—Whether it was him they were talking about they wouldn't say, but it was an obviously agitated Woody Hayes who was seen leaving the American Football Coaches Assn.'s Ethics Committee room here.

The Ethics Committee, meeting in conjunction with the NCAA convention, issued this report Thursday:

Concerning the "alleged striking of a sports writer, the disposition of the case was made known verbally to the individual involved."

Hayes, Ohio State's head coach, was accused last season of striking a Pasadena writer after OSU lost 17-0 to Southern California.

The committee, after reviewing 11 cases involving alleged malpractices by member coaches, said of this particular one:

"It is appropriate at this time to point out that Article VI, Section I of the Code of Ethics of the AFCA states that it is a responsibility of the coaches to accredited writers and radio and television commentators to provide news about their teams and players.

"They should be treated with courtesy, honesty and respect. However, it is the unanimous feeling of this committee that a coach has the right to maintain locker room security."

The "however" provision would seem to leave the hassle between Hayes—if that's whom the committee aimed its statement at—and West Coast sports writers as moot an issue as ever.

Shown the report by The Associated Press, Hayes said:

"If from this report, the implication is taken that I actually struck the man, then the implication is wrong. If the ethics committee feels that I should not have shoved the man out of the dressing room area, then they are entitled to their opinion.

"If I had struck the man, he would have known it—may be later, but he would have known it."

Hayes has contended all along he only shoved the reporter and that the writer was invading postgame locker room privacy. The writer charged that he was outside the dressing room proper and was punched.

The Ethics Committee played it safe by describing the case at hand as having occurred "in the vicinity of a locker room."

Warriors Gain In Pro Loop

By The Associated Press

The Philadelphia Warriors are making hay while the Boston Celtics suffer from a victory drought in the Eastern Division of the National Basketball Assn.

While the pace-setting Celtics have lost four of their five starts since matching the league record of 17 straight victories, the Warriors have been slowly closing in on the leaders.

The Philadelphians won their six straight Thursday night with a 120-105 victory over Detroit in a doubleheader at Syracuse and cut the Celt' lead to 4½ games. Third-place Syracuse, eight games back, turned back the Cincinnati Royals 132-114 for the Nats' fifth success in their last six outings.

Once again Wilt Chamberlain was the big man in the Warriors' attack, scoring 44 points. He joined Paul Arizin in a fourth-period rally that broke the game open after the Warriors had led by only 86-84 at the three-quarter mark. Arizin scored 28 points.

Rickey Battles To Keep Twin Cities Interested

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Baseball patriarch Branch Rickey pictured himself today as a man "clothed in olive branches" in the hope of getting his new Continental League peacefully accepted by the present majors.

But in the climax of two days of high pressure campaigning to keep Minneapolis-St. Paul in the Continental fold, he aimed a rhetorical barrage at any lingering hopes here that the Washington Senators can be persuaded to switch their franchise to the Twin Cities.

Rickey denied the Continental regards the Twin Cities as a battlefield between the Continental and the majors. Yet the vigor of the Continental sales pitch made it clear the new league puts a high value on keeping the franchise.

Yet at least one key figure in Minneapolis' negotiations for a big league franchise indicated he has not abandoned the idea of bringing the Senators here.

Gerald Moore, chairman of the city's baseball committee, said the contract under which the Boston Red Sox lease the stadium tor their American Assn. farm club gives the Red Sox "first refusal" on any major league franchise move here.

"By the 15th of July there would be nobody to see your games," he said. "There would be no farms, no bench, no second baseman, no third-string catcher."

Rickey said he was certain the American League would not permit removal of the club from Washington, a venture Moore and other local negotiators have been trying to bring off for two years.

NFL Directors May Expand

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The question of expanding the National Football League grows hotter by the day as time nears for league directors to meet here Jan. 20.

Two titans of pro ball — George Preston Marshall, owner of the Washington Redskins, and George Halas, owner and coach of the Chicago Bears — added fuel to the fire Thursday.

At Miami Beach, Marshall indicated that if NFL league magnates win their fight for immediate expansion, the battle will be continued in court.

Marshall, who has warned that expansion now would open the league to antitrust charges, said "I will go into the meeting with plenty of legal counsel."

In Chicago, Halas said: "I think we would violate the antitrust law by not expanding. Marshall should realize that it is monopolistic to require a unanimous, or even a 10-out-of-12 vote, for expansion. That rule is monopolistic in itself."

Marshall repeated his opposition to expansion. Halas called expansion plans "a culmination of five years of planning."

Pirates' Relief Ace Has Dinner Problem

Face phoned the club Thursday to reserve a table for 10 of his bowling buddies.

"Sorry," he was told, "the dinner is sold out. Your order will be placed on the waiting list."

Face is to be honored as the athlete who did most to publicize Pittsburgh in 1959.

'Big O' Scores 27

Robertson Plays 'Feeder'

By MURRAY ROSE
Associated Press Sports Writer

Even when he has a bad night in scoring—that is if you think 27 is bad—Oscar Robertson is a tough man to beat.

The versatile All-America collected only 27 points—13.7 under his record scoring average this season—but showed his class as a "feeder" in sparking unbeaten Cincinnati to a 76-69 Missouri Valley Conference victory over the Shockers at Wichita Thursday night.

Robertson made only nine points in the first half but set up his teammates with just as devastating effect for a 47-29 lead. Wichita kept whittling Cincy's margin in the second half but the Big O, guarded closely by 6-10 Gene Wiley and 6-4 Ron Heller, popped in 8 points to preserve Cincinnati's unbeaten record.

Cincinnati, the nation's No. 1 team and one of the four unbeaten major quintets, now has an 11-0 record. The Bearcats lead the Mo Valley with a 2-0 mark.

Robertson and Co. move to Tulsa Saturday for a clash with the Hurricanes who proved surprisingly tough against Bradley's fourth-ranked club at Tulsa. The Braves found it difficult to beat Tulsa 71-58.

Most of Thursday night's major action was concentrated in the potent Missouri Valley Conference. In the other MVC contests, 12th-ranked St. Louis (9-3) outclassed Houston, 74-46, and Drake whipped North Texas State, 85-73, despite Jim Mudd's 35-point performance for the losers.

The Miami (Fla.) Hurricanes (12-1), ranked 14th, edged Iona 69-67 on stubby Dick Hickox' 30-footer from the side at the final buzzer. St. Joseph's of Philadelphia made up a 16-point deficit in whipping St. John's (NY) 82-77.

In scattered action elsewhere, the Air Force (1-6) scored its first victory of the season, downing Omaha U., 90-41; Furman hit on 50 per cent of its shots for a 80-69 win over Clemson; Georgia downed Georgia Southern 83-75 on Phil Simpson's 18 points and mighty rebounding; Memphis State thumped Oklahoma City 81-68, and Kentucky Wesleyan nosed out Tennessee State, 109-107.

White, OSU Fullback, Signs With Houston

HONOLULU (AP)—Bob White, Ohio State fullback, said tonight he had signed a one-year contract with the Houston Oilers of the American Football League.

White, drafted by the Cleveland Browns of the National Football League, is here to play with the East All-Stars in the Hula Bowl game Sunday.

White refused to say if he previously had agreed to play with the Browns.

East's Eighth Grade Five Tops St. Aloysius

Two Iron-Jaw Fighters Meet

NEW YORK (AP) — Hawaii's Stan Harrington and Gaspar Ortega, the flower of Mexicali, Mexico, have one thing in common. Neither of tonight's Madison square Garden welterweights has been knocked out.

Harrington's jaw has been tested in 40 pro bouts, all in Honolulu, and Ortega's mandible has withstood the shocks of 70 fights. The Hawaiian claims he never has been down. Ortega admits being decked once by Florentino Fernandez in their first meeting.

Not too much is known about Harrington around these parts. He is not rated. His record, dating back to 1953, is 34-5-1 with 21 knockouts.

Ortega rightly owns the nickname of the "Unlucky Indian." He must have fought as many split decision fights as Kid Gavilan.

Each fighter is 26 and each is convinced the time has come to make a serious move toward the top if he ever hopes to reach it. Ortega is favored.

The 10-round match will be carried by network (NBC) radio and Television at 10 p. m. (EST). Two judges and a referee will score it by rounds, using a supplementary point system in case of even rounds.

Spaulding's 1,349 Paces Pin Tourney

OMAHA (AP) — Harold Penrod Spaulding achieved the dream of every tenpin addict when he found his name atop the All-Star Bowling Tournament standing board Thursday night.

How it got there only he knows.

The 35-year-old bowling alley manager from Moline, Ill., had a wretched practice session Wednesday in a downtown alley, but he said "in those three games I learned a little trick.

"I can't tell anyone what it is but that's why I bowled so well in the tourney."

He rolled a 227-203-213-248-214-244 — 1,349 series. He is in his third All-Star tourney. The best he got in the other two was 38th place each time.

The national team champion Budweisers of St. Louis were represented by five men. This club-by group included Ray Bluth, second; Pat Patterson, fourth; Bill Lillard, fifth; Tom Hennessey, ninth, and Dick Weber, tenth.

'Community Of Year' Honor Goes To Warren

NEW YORK (AP)—Religion in American Life, Inc., a non-sectarian organization devoted to increasing worship attendance at all churches and synagogues, today named Warren, Ohio, as the "Community of the Year."

The organization said Warren, selected from among 454 cities and towns throughout the nation which held Religion in American Life community campaigns during the year, was honored for holding the best all-around program.

Worship attendance increased an average of 12 per cent in the participating houses of worship in Warren, the organization said. They included 24 Protestant, three Roman Catholic, two Eastern Orthodox churches, and one synagogue.

Ohio Manufacturer Sees 1960 Good Year

He said 1959 was the biggest year so far in the table industry and he expects 1960 to be 10 per cent ahead of it.

The private home furnishings show, which runs through Jan. 15, is attended by six housewares manufacturing firm heads and about 10,000 retail store buyers.

Hamilton Bar Operator Reports $6,160 Theft

HAMILTON, Ohio (AP) — A Hamilton tavern operator told police Thursday he was robbed of $6,106 by an armed bandit who hid on the floor in the back seat of his automobile.

Bobby Jo Burton told detectives the man suddenly arose from the floor as Burton drove away from a bank where he had obtained the money for use at the tavern.

Burton said the man forced him to drive to New Miami and then back here. After transferring the money from a bank sack to a plastic bag, the holdup man took the car keys and fled on foot, Burton reported.

Polaris Missile Fired On Successful Flight

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) —A Polaris missile, using a new self-contained guidance system, was launched on a successful 900-mile flight Thursday night.

The success was a significant step in developing the Polaris as a nuclear punch for ocean-roving submarines.

For the first time, the Polaris was directed to its target by the inertial guidance system which will be used in the operational vehicles. Previous Polaris test rockets employed command guidance from ground stations.

The Navy announced the successful flight, ninth in 24 launchings for the advanced two-stage version of this submarine weapon.

Ann Landers

ANSWERS YOUR PROBLEMS

Dear Ann Landers: You are much too soft on teen-agers. I almost keeled over when you recently advised a mother to limit her gabby 15-year-old daughter to 20 minutes for a telephone call. You said, "Anything worth saying can be said in 20 minutes."

Why Annie, don't you know the most significant messages of history can be delivered in far fewer than 20 minutes? The Gettysburg address, Thanatopsis, the Lord's Prayer, the Preamble to the Constitution, the Ten Commandments to name a few. Even your own daily pearls of wisdom would take less than five minutes to read.

Please review your advice and tell those mothers to lop the phone time to five minutes. It's plenty.—MOUNT CLEMENTS.

Dear Friend: Thanks for the sermon from the mount. I have news for you. Teen-agers don't phone each other to recite the Gettysburg address or Thanatopsis any more. They yak about what happened at school, who's going with whom, what to wear tomorrow and other earth-shaking issues which to them are matters of life and death.

This type of communication is important to teen-agers. While it may not be productive, it's not destructive and one 20-minute gab session per evening gets my okay, provided no one is waiting for the phone.

Beau In A Spot

Dear Ann: When I was in the service I met a lovely girl. Her folks were kind to me and I had many a good meal with them.

I am back home now and have written and invited the girl to meet my folks. I told her she could stay in our house. She wrote back that both she and her mother would love to visit us.

We just don't have room for them both. I figured my girl could share my sister's room which has the only extra bed in the house. Also, if her mother came my folks would have to entertain her and they aren't the social type. What shall I do? — BAD SPOT.

Dear Spot: Apparently this girl doesn't consider it proper to visit alone in the home of a boy to whom she's not engaged — and hooray for her.

Surely you have a relative, friend or neighbor who could put them both up for two nights (this is plenty). Or why not borrow a cot for your sister and give Mama her bed?

DON'T suggest the mother not come. It would be impolite and put you in a bad light.

Break Both Hearts

Dear Ann: I'm a high school senior with good grades. I want to go to a Midwestern university but can't decide which one. Dad is a graduate of the University of Michigan. He keeps telling me how great Ann Arbor is and he'll be heartbroken if I don't go there.

Mom went to the University of Illinois. She says Champaign is a dream school for girls and she's anxious for me to go there as Grandma went to Illinois and I'd be third generation Illini.

Every night they both put the sell on me. It used to be a joke but it's not funny any more. Help, please. — KOOK.

Dear Kook: Don't go to either school. Choose from some other schools, and you'd be off the hook.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of The Review, enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Bringing Up A Family

By GARRY C. MEYERS

Skill Needed To Regain Discipline

The most distressing letters I get from parents are about youngsters over 12 or 14 who have got out of hand and have little or no regard for authority. Parents who write these letters usually have tried hard to bring up their children well. Most of them believed, when their children were much younger, that they were doing what they supposed the experts on child rearing were telling them to do. Weren't these parents, by what they read and heard, constantly warned against being strict, lest they warp their youngsters' personalities and fill them with frustrations? Weren't these parents overwhelmed with the pleas for more permissiveness?

MY HEART goes out to these parents and to their children also. No sense in scolding either side. No point in telling the parents what they should have done or not have done when their children were much younger. They can't take their children back and bring them up again.

Suppose you are one of these parents. Sit down together, you and Dad, to consider what you can do from now on.

Take stock of a few ways in your child that you believe you might be able to change. Agree on the resources at your command, the controls you are able to put into effect, the good traits and good ways in your child you can build upon.

Consider the ways in which you two can control your angers and your words toward him when he's ugly or disobedient. Figure out ways to be cheerful and companionable with him. Don't let yourself talk back to him or have word battles with him or go around feeling and acting "mad" or sorry for yourselves.

SINCE YOU are in the most strategic position, center on ways to change yourselves first before trying to change him. Keep silently in mind the standards of behavior you hope for in him.

When you parents have yourselves well in hand and can set the stage where neither you nor the child feels the least estranged or antagonistic toward each other, ask him if he would like to do, or not do, so and so. Pray for skill and wisdom and boundless love to these ends.

My bulletins, "How to Teach Child Meaning of No" and "How Juvenile Delinquency Can Be Curbed," may be had by sending a self-addressed, stamped envelope to me in care of this newspaper.

Bursitis Can Be Helped

● Chickenpox

Q. Will you please write about calcified bursitis?—C.B.

A. All joints are padded with fluid-filled sacs called bursae (singular-bursa). In the accompanying drawing the bursae of the knee joint have been drawn so that they can be clearly seen. Inflammation of a bursa (bursitis) is often preceded by injury to the joint. Long continued irritation may lead to deposits of gravel-like calcium within the bursa. Doctors are sometimes able to break up the deposits without much trouble. Injections are also employed plus x-ray treatment. In some cases it may be necessary to surgically open the bursa and remove the deposits. Heat, massage, and gentle stretching as prescribed by the doctor may be helpful.

Q. How long should a child who has had chickenpox be kept out of school? Can adults get chickenpox?

A. In most communities chickenpox patients are excluded from school until most of the scabs have disappeared. The period of communicability (period when the disease is catching) is probably not more than one day before or more than six days after the appearance of the skin blisters or rash. Because chickenpox is so catching, it is usually contracted on the first exposure so the majority of cases occur in children. One attack always protects for life. However, the disease occasionally occurs in adults.

Measured by fast relief from pain or swift recovery from illness, prescribed medicine is priceless. Measured by our reasonable prices, prescribed medicine is the biggest "bargain" money can buy.

Questions directed to Science Editors, P.O. Box 396, Madison Sq. Sta., N. Y. 10, N. Y. will be incorporated in these columns when possible.
